ELECTION GRAFT BY EARLE'S AIDS CHARGED IN QUIZ

Lieutenants Accused of $50,000 Deals.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Officials in the administration of Gov. George H. Earle padded the purchase prices on trucks to collect $50,000 for the 1936 presidential campaign in Pennsylvania, the special legislative committee was told today.

The charge came from Charles J. Margiotti, attorney general of Pennsylvania by appointment of Gov. Earle until he was removed because he asked for a grand jury to investigate charges of graft in the Earle régime. Margiotti was removed by Earle last spring.

Margiotti told the committee he was informed of the truck deals by Arthur Colegrove, public utility commissioner and former secretary of property and supplies. Colegrove is one of the fourteen Democratic leaders named in the charges which the legislators are investigating.

Suffers Twinges of Conscience.

In his first conversation with Colegrove about the trucks Margiotti said the Earle cabinet member appeared to be suffering twinges of conscience. He quoted Colegrove as saying:

"I am worried about some things. I don't want to do anything that will cause me to go to jail. Some terrible things have happened."

Margiotti said he pressed Colegrove for details.

"Colegrove said that during the 1936 presidential campaign," Margiotti testified, "Matthew H. McCloskey [contractor-political boss] and Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence had gone to him and insisted that he honor requisitions from the highway department for the purchase of trucks from certain concerns.

"He found that the truck people added $700 or more per truck to the market value and that's how they made up the $50,000 contribution to the Democratic state committee."

Committee Sends for Records.

The purchase involved several hundred thousand dollars, Margiotti said, and the committee sent for the records.

Margiotti said he later discussed the truck purchases with McCloskey. The contractor, who was finance chairman for the state Democratic committee, admitted receiving the $50,000 contribution from the truck companies, but insisted it was legitimate, Margiotti testified.

The committee, which sometimes is irreverently referred to as a "whitewash" group because it is composed of five Democratic and two Republican house members, suppressed certain testimony regarding rock asphalt and road oil purchases. The majority ruled that Margiotti's story in this connection was irrelevant.

Meanwhile party bigwigs were busy denying the charges which the former attorney general has made during the last week. Yesterday Margiotti accused Gov. Earle of divvying up the profits on the four million dollar state finance building with McCloskey, who had been awarded the contract.

Lies, Say Earle and Guffey.

In Philadelphia today Gov. Earle, campaigning for the senate, declared the accusation with respect to the finance building was made up out of whole cloth. Guffey called Margiotti an unmitigated liar.

Senator Guffey, who rushed to Harrisburg from Washington last night to confer with party leaders and tonight made a radio speech blaming the graft charges on the "Tory press," the "journalistic hirelings of Pennsylvania's carpetbagging publishers," and the "selfish financial and industrial interests."

TURN CLOCKS BACK TONIGHT; NOW WE GO HOME IN THE DARK

Set your clocks back one hour before you retire tonight. When you get up tomorrow morning daylight saving time will be over for 1938. The official time for turning the clocks back is at 2 a. m. tomorrow, the last Sunday in September.

Chicagoans have saved 154 hours of daylight since the last Sunday in April—the day each year that the salvage of time begins. This has meant sixty minutes more each evening for the enjoyment of spring and summer weather. It has allowed an extra hour of safe, outside play for the children. It has permitted an additional period of relaxation in the cool of evening before night closes in.

Soon—because daylight time is ended—Chicagoans will start going home from work in the dark. A fraction of an hour at noon will be about their only opportunity to move about in daylight.

Words Are Wooden, but the Gratitude Is Sincere

Willimantic, Conn., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—A coast guard plane flew over a flood isolated section eight miles south of here and saw the word "food" spelled out with logs by a marooned group. The plane dropped 25 pounds of food and the group on the ground hurriedly made another sign of logs. This one said "Thank you."

Keeps Patient Alive 19 Mos.; Wins $100,000

William G. Potts, who made a fortune from paper cups, decided at the age of 74 that it would be worth $100,000 to prolong his life to the utmost. He was then suffering from heart disease, and forced to ride in a wheel chair.

Dr. Milton L. Smith. [Metropolitan News photo.]

And so he offered the $100,000 to Dr. Milton L. Smith to give up his Chicago practice and care for him the rest of his life.

There was only one string attached. Should Dr. Smith die before his patient, and during the first six months of the contract, the fee should be cut in half. But Dr. Smith's estate could collect this $50,000 at once, instead of waiting for the four annual payments of $25,000 otherwise provided.

Lives for 19 Months.

Mr. Potts lived nineteen months after the contract was signed. He died on Sept. 3, 1937, in his home at 3920 Lake Shore drive.

Dr. Smith, who now has offices at 25 East Washington street, filed his $100,000 claim against the estate yesterday in Miami, Fla., where Mr. Potts lived in the winter and where his $800,000 estate will be probated.

At the Potts home here, it was said that the money would be paid when the estate is settled. Dr. Smith, it was explained, had been Mr. Potts' physician for twenty-five years.

Puts Securities in Escrow.

The contract stated that Mr. Potts was indebted to Dr. Smith in a large amount for medical services already rendered. In it Dr. Smith agreed to furnish such medical service as he deemed necessary for Mr. Potts' health and comfort for the rest of the patient's life.

To guarantee payment, Mr. Potts placed $100,000 worth of securities in escrow with the City National Lank.

AN ANGLER DROPS HIS LINE IN CHICKEN COOP; THE FISHING IS FINE

Leander Riley reported it yesterday. He said a woman neighbor, who always says the fish that got away was too small to bother about anyway, saw the whole thing. A man drove up to the Riley home at 618 Market street, Waukegan. In broad daylight he baited his hook and threw it over the fence into the Riley chicken coop. Three times he did that, and each time he caught one of Riley's Plymouth Rock hens.

When he saw the neighbor was watching him, the chicken fisherman drove off with his catch. Riley said if it wouldn't look so silly he'd put up a sign reading "No Chickening."

WHEEL GONE, HE LANDS HIS PLANE TO GET IT BACK!

The right wheel of the airplane of Stuart Jewell and his wife, Ruth, of La Grange, dropped off last evening as they took off from the Stinson airport in La Grange for a joy ride, but they didn't know it.

William Counts, a La Grange aviator, saw the wheel fall and feared the Jewells would have trouble landing if they didn't know about it. So he picked up the wheel and notified Harold Alford, manager of the airport. The two went up in Alford's plane, taking the wheel with them. They pursued the Jewells to Flossmoor and went into several fancy dips and dives to attract their attention. Jewell and his wife dipped and dived, too. Finally the Alford plane got close enough so Counts could hold up the wheel and show it to the Jewells and point to their plane.

Jewell and his wife understood. They flew back to the Stinson airport. Jewell made a perfect landing on one wheel. Then he hurried over to Alford and Counts after they landed and recovered his lost wheel. He said: "I sure was worried about that. New wheels cost $40."

PARIS ACTS AFTER CZECHS ANNOUNCE 1,500,000 TROOPS ARE UNDER ARMS

Prague Completes Massing of Army in Six Hours.

Czechs Mobilized

Czech government announces mobilization of army is completed in six hours, placing 1,500,000 of the republic's men under arms and ready for action. "Czechoslovakia is prepared!" says government's radio announcement of mobilization. Details on page 4.

PARIS, Sept. 24 [Saturday].—(AP)—The French government today ordered partial mobilization of armed forces. The partial mobilization included a call for army, aviation, and reserve troops as the nation prepared to defend Czechoslovakia from feared German attack.

It was the first formal mobilization order issued since the crisis began. The order was posted before all police stations at 7 a. m. [1 a. m. Chicago time].

The number involved was not known at once, but the order was said semi-officially to be the last step before a general mobilization. Even before the fateful order was posted on official buildings in Paris, the number of reservists to be called was doubled.

Must Report Immediately.

The order specified only that all reservists carrying white mobilization cards bearing the number "three" should report immediately without awaiting individual notification. The order was dated at 4 a. m.

The order was entitled "immediate recall of certain categories of reservists."

The text:

"By order of the minister of national defense and war and of the minister of air, officers, noncommissioned officers, men holding the facsimile mobilization order in white, bearing the figure three, will report immediately and without delay, without waiting for individual notification.

Told Where to Assemble.

"They will assemble at the place of convocation indicated on their order or facsimile of mobilization in the condition outlined by that document.

"Saturday, Sept. 24, 1938, 4 o'clock.

"[Signed] The Ministers of National Defense and War and Air."

Sources close to the government said earlier that ten French divisions were ordered to the German frontier.

Acceptance by the Czechoslovak government of new concessions demanded by Chancellor Hitler, semi-official sources held, likely would be the sole hope of preventing war. There were few indications here that Prague would accept.

The new demands, according to Havas [French news agency] in a dispatch from Godesberg, were the immediate handing over to Germany of large areas of Sudetenland without any German promises in return.

Bound to Fight for Czechs.

Should Prague refuse and Hitler order his troops to march, French sources indicated, France would be bound to fight for Czechoslovakia.

The fact that the Czechoslovak government agreed to all concessions put forth by the French and British thus far, observers here indicated, removed any provocation Germany might have been considered to have had.

Premier-War Minister Daladier said yesterday, his Radical Socialist party aids quoted: "If Germany enters Czechoslovakia France will face her engagements."

France is pledged by her assistance pact with Czechoslovakia to give aid in the event of attack upon the little republic.

Ordered to Battle Posts.

Troops already along the German frontier were ordered to battle posts. During the crisis an estimated 2,000,000 men have been kept under arms, including some reservists called to service by the usual individual notification process.

New units started moving toward the border early today. Army trucks were reported concentrated at stra-

LONDON CABINET GETS NEW PEACE PROPOSAL TODAY

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24 [Saturday 4 a. m.]—British officials said today that a partial agreement over Czechoslovakia had been reached with Germany during the midnight conference between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Reichsfuehrer Hitler at Godesberg, Germany.

Chamberlain, who will fly back to London today, will bring with him a memorandum of the final German attitude toward the Sudeten problem. This, it was understood, will amount to German occupation of a ten mile strip of Sudetenland immediately, after which negotiations would be held on formal dispositions of territory. It was reported that Chamberlain already had presented Hitler's new demands to Czechoslovakia ten minutes after Prague had ordered mobilization.

Reports received in London declared Chamberlain, as he emerged from his conference with Hitler, said:

Expect Cabinet to Meet.

Upon his arrival in London, Chamberlain is expected to summon an emergency meeting of his cabinet and lay before the ministers the results of his Godesberg conferences. It also was expected a date would be set for parliament to meet.

The admiralty announced that "certain precautionary measures have been taken." It was reported this involved the recall of men from leave and bringing warships up to full complement. It was reported from Paris that France was prepared to mobilize.

Await German Attack.

Reports here this morning were that France and Britain are in agreement that unless Germany's army attacks the Czech second line of defense, which has been drawn up twelve to fifteen miles behind the present Czech frontiers, a Nazi invasion of the Sudeten area will not be considered a cause for war. If the Germans occupy only the Sudeten districts, it was said, there will be no British-French action, since Czechoslovakia already has agreed to cede this territory to Germany.

Reports from Paris said the French

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GODESBERG, Germany, Sept. 24.—[Saturday, 2:30 a. m.]—After Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler conferred for three hours German officials at 2 a. m. today [8 p. m. Friday, Chicago time] announced with deep satisfaction that the British government will present a German memorandum to Czechoslovakia listing all the German demands. [It is reported in London that Chamberlain already had presented Hitler's final demands to Czechoslovakia.]

Details of the memorandum are a secret, but it is understood that it sets a time limit within which Germany demands withdrawal of the Czech troops from the Sudeten area and outlines the territories involved.

In other quarters it was said Hitler demanded that the Czechs cancel their general mobilization order. He also insisted, it was claimed, that German troops or the Sudeten free corps be permitted to march into the border land which already had been sacrificed to Germany by the Anglo-French plan.

By agreeing to present the memorandum, the Germans hold, England is indorsing it. They hope this will induce Czechoslovakia to capitulate to the German demands.

Ignore Poles and Hungarians.

Spokesmen of the German foreign office declare that the question of the Hungarian and Polish minorities in Czechoslovakia is not mentioned in the memorandum, as a concession to England and France, which have been holding that the Czech state must not be completely dismembered.

Diplomats and military experts assembled in Godesberg doubt whether the government of Gen. Jan Syrovy will bow to Hitler's wishes. To relinquish the borderland means abandoning the costly fortifications built with French help and enabling the Germans to use them against what will remain of Czechoslovakia. Many prominent Germans also are of the opinion that the new military government will not agree to cede the Sudeten area without a fight.

Much will depend upon the amount of pressure which will be brought to bear on Prague by the French government and to a certain degree upon the advice Moscow will tender to the general who lost an eye in the famous battle of Zborov when the Czech legion fought with the Russians against the Austro-German allies.

Chamberlain to Go to London.

As he left the conference Chamberlain announced he will fly to London this morning.

The prime minister appeared very tired as he entered his hotel.

"I am communicating certain proposals to the Czechoslovak government," he declared. "I cannot say it is hopeless. It is up to them."

At 2 a.m. the following German communique was issued:

"The conversations between the Fuehrer and Chamberlain, which were held in a friendly spirit, were concluded today with the presentation of a German memorandum outlining the final stand of Germany on the Sudeten problem. The English prime minister has taken upon himself the duty of handing this memorandum to the Czech government."

Nazis Assail Mobilization.

At 1 o'clock this morning, while Chamberlain and Hitler still were in conference, a German official said the Czech mobilization has greatly complicated the situation.

Hitler's followers declared the mobilization "is a provocation of Germany and her friends," and they assume that the Fuehrer has made a renewed and energetic effort to induce Chamberlain openly to side with Germany against Czechoslovakia.

Rumors circulated in Godesberg that Chamberlain promised Hitler that France and England would make representations in Prague demanding the withdrawal of the Czech troops to a line a little over nine miles from the German border.

Chamberlain reportedly told Hitler that should the Germans attempt to march farther than that distance, England and France would be compelled to intervene. No official confirmation of these reports was available and will not be until Chamberlain and his aids have had time to confer on the result of their conversations with Hitler.

The British military attaché in Berlin had a long conference with Chamberlain.

Accompanied by Delegation.

On his final visit to Hitler Chamberlain was accompanied by Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, and all the members of the delegation who had flown to Cologne with him.

When Chamberlain failed to descend from his Petersberg mountain top hotel to Godesberg at noon yesterday to resume his talks with Hitler, it was reported the negotiations had reached an impasse.

In reality, Chamberlain spent yesterday morning formulating the British standpoint in a letter to Hitler. A few hours later, Hitler sent a reply which was taken to Chamberlain by Hitler's chief interpreter Herr Schmidt.

Details Reported Completed.

A prominent Nazi official said the Anglo-German agreement on the incorporation of the Sudetenland into Germany is perfected and only the technical details on how it is to be enforced remain to be formulated in black and white.

Members of the British delegation in confidential asides were infinitely less optimistic, pointing out that the demands of Hungary and Poland for parts of Czechoslovakia greatly complicate matters.

At 9:30 o'clock last night Chamberlain went to call on Hitler in his headquarters in Godesberg. The English said this was merely a farewell visit, while the Germans remained optimistic, declaring many points were being clarified in the course of this final conversation.

Staf Works All Day.

All day long in the sun flooded Petersberg hotel a staf of stenographers and diplomatic experts worked on Chamberlain's reports to London and his correspondence with Hitler.

On the opposite side of the Rhine, down in the valley just an hour's ride from Petersberg, the Hitler staf also worked overtime.

Every one scanned the Rhine and the road to Hitler's headquarters, watching for a glimpse of the negotiators, but the main participants remained out of sight most of the day. An emissary from Chamberlain carried a letter to Hitler. Another carried the Fuehrer's reply. Then toward the evening Henderson and Sir Horace Wilson, personal adviser to Chamberlain, came to Godesberg to confer with Joachim von Ribbentrop, Germany's foreign minister, on details outlined in the letters.

The meeting is sponsored by the Czechoslovak National Alliance of America. Among the speakers will be John A. Cervenka, head of the Czechoslovak alliance; Prof. Paul A. Douglas, University of Chicago; Dr. Erich Von Schroeter, president of the German-American League for Culture; Congressman Adolph Sabath, and Judge John Gutknecht.

AMERICANS TOLD TO GET OUT OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The American minister in Prague, Czechoslovakia, warned Americans today to leave that country. The state department announced that Minister Wilbur J. Carr told Americans that at any time it might become impossible for them to leave Czechoslovakia.

He pointed out that it therefore was "of the utmost importance that every American citizen should take steps without delay to insure his safety by being prepared for immediate departure."

State department records show that on Jan. 1, 1938, there were 5,190 Americans in the country, but many of them are believed to have departed in recent weeks.

President Roosevelt conferred with his cabinet today about the new war threat abroad and also talked with Bernard Baruch, chairman of the war industries board during the world war. After a luncheon conversation with Mr. Roosevelt, Baruch declined comment on reports that he would head some new economic defense committee.

"Those are matters for the President," the New York financier said. "All that I can say is that we discussed world economics."

The President later went into session with the cabinet. Department heads had little to say regarding the meeting, but admitted the European situation was discussed.

NAZIS TO OCCUPY TEN MILE ZONE UNDER NEW PLAN

Britain and France Agree Not to Fight.

feel they are not pledged to go automatically to Czechoslovakia's defense when Hitler invades Sudeten country. France's support, it was declared, becomes unconditional only if the new Czech frontiers fixed in principle by Paris and London are violated. Since these new frontiers have not actually been drawn yet, the French position seems a little vague.

It was reported that the new scheme already had been handed to President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia by the British minister in Prague. The proposal was said to have been handed to Benes ten minutes after the Czechoslovak mobilization was ordered. One report said the plan was unacceptable to the Czech government.

Another report said Chamberlain had telephoned President Benes from Godesberg and asked him to call off the Czech mobilization and consent to a "symbolic" occupation of Sudetenland by German troops.

It also was reported that Premier Edouard Daladier of France may fly to London today to see Chamberlain.

Crowds shouting for and against Fascism paraded in the streets of London yesterday and last night. Expecting more demonstrations, police closed Downing street to the general public at 8 p. m.

Around midnight there were noisy scenes opposite Downing street when a group of 200 Fascists assembled, shouting slogans against the Czechs. They were dispersed by police. Three were arrested. There were several clashes between Fascists and anti-Fascists.

It was announced that police had forbidden the Fascist organization headed by Sir Oswald Mosley to stage a parade later today and also that a ceremony in which 800 German ex-service men were to have laid a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier had been canceled.

Last night there was a big exodus of Germans from England. Night trains from London to Harwich, which carry most of the trafic to Germany, had more passengers aboard than at any time in the last month. Included were 100 German men and twenty women.

Fourteen Britons, including nine women and a child, reached Croydon airport from Prague last night in a British plane. Most of the passengers were wives and families of officials of the British legation there. It was estimated that between 100 and 200 Britons still are in Prague.

All day yesterday cabinet ministers, opposition leaders, and diplomats made a continuous flow of visitors to see Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax at the foreign office. The visitors included Count Edward Raczynski, Polish ambassador to London; Samuel Kagan, soviet Russian chargé d'affaires, and Charles Corbin, French ambassador.

It was indicated that assurance of support for Czechoslovakia was conveyed to Jan Masaryk, Czech minister to London, by Maj. C. R. Attlee and A. Greenwood, leaders of the Labor party. They called to see Masaryk at the Czech legation. They assured him, it was said, that, whatever happens, the Czechoslovak people can depend on the full support of the British labor movement. After this visit Attlee and Greenwood visited Viscount Halifax.

A meeting of cabinet ministers was held last night. At 10 o'clock Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, acting as prime minister in in Chamberlain's absence, joined the meeting.

HELSINGFORS, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Army leaves today were withdrawn and other undisclosed military precautions ordered to strengthen Finland's frontiers, it was revealed unofficially, because of the critical European political situation.

MOSCOW WARNS POLES AGAINST CZECH INVASION

Vladimir P. Potemkin, first assistant commissar of foreign affairs, served notice on the Polish embassy that the soviet union would cancel the nonaggression pact signed in 1932 with Poland if Polish troops invaded the harassed republic.

The Russian stand was said to be based on information that Polish troops were concentrated on the Czechoslovak frontier, ready to cross the border into Czech territory.

"The soviet government is awaiting denial of these reports," the Russian note, delivered to the Polish chargé d'affaires, said.

[Poland is demanding the cession to her of the Polish inhabited Teschen area, northern Czechoslovakia.]

Diplomatic quarters variously interpreted the soviet threat. Some observers said they saw in it an indirect warning that the Red army would be thrown into action should there be simultaneous German, Hungarian, and Polish assaults on Czechoslovakia.

Poles Deny Border Preparations.

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Polish government tonight replied to notification by Russia that Moscow would cancel the Russian-Polish nonaggression pact should Poland invade Czechoslovakia. Warsaw informed Moscow it had taken no special steps on the Czechoslovakia frontier.

The government instructed its charge d'affaires in Moscow to reply that the government was "astonished" at the Russian warning. He was told to state, moreover, that protection of the Polish borders was the Polish government's own affair, and that it was fully aware of its treaty obligations.

Litvinov Hints at Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, asserted today that Russia may come to the aid of Czechoslovakia in its minority crisis whether or not France and Great Britain do so.

He made this statement in an unscheduled speech before the political committee of the league of nations assembly. He also reiterated his promise, made previously, that if France comes to the aid of the Czechs should they be invaded by German troops, Russia would keep her treaty agreements to aid the Czechs also.

HUNGARY'S ARMY TO BE MOBILIZED, BUDAPEST HEARS

BULLETIN.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 24 [Saturday].—(AP)—All highway, railroad and telephone service between Czechoslovakia and Hungary was discontinued today as the Czechoslovak army moved strong reinforcements into position along the border. At sunrise, according to reports reaching Budapest, the entire frontier appeared to be a solid wall of barbed wire, steel and concrete. Machinegun nests were said by Hungarian and Slovak refugees reaching Hungary to have been established in numerous farm houses. Roads leading across the frontier were barricaded with barbed wire and guarded by machinegun squads.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 24 [Saturday]. — (AP) — The Hungarian cabinet went into session last night after a general mobilization order in Czechoslovakia was broadcast. It was still in session at 1:30 a. m. today, as rumors circulated that this country would take like action.

Excitement was increased when it was learned that urgent calls to Prague were refused by the Budapest telephone exchange with the words: "Lines out of order."

All street lights in Budapest were ordered turned off and all windows had to be darkened, although a foreign office spokesman said there was no danger of immediate air attack. Some well to do civilians appeared in coffee houses carrying gas masks.

Denies War Preparations.

The chief of the foreign office press bureau, Szet-Teistvany, denied the rumors of Hungarian war preparations as "fully unfounded."

Despite this, however, military barracks were full of newcomers who had received orders to report at once to their regiments.

Many reserve officers had to leave their homes at once. Railroad stations were crowded with civilians en route to report to the garrisons. The army announced it was merely "filling in the gaps" with reserves.

Scenes of 1914 were repeated as fathers, brothers, and sweethearts said farewell to their relatives and friends.

There was action today in connection with the Hungarian government's demands that it be given those areas of Czechoslovakia inhabited by Hungarians.

One Unit Made Up of Nazis.

A new Hungarian "free corps," resembling the Sudeten German organization active along the Czech-German border, moved up tonight to the Czechoslovakian frontier. Two detachments totaling more than 2,000 men and armed with shotguns and revolvers moved out. They are the vanguard of a larger body expected to be organized following news of the formation of a similar "free corps" in Poland.

The first of the Hungarian units was made up of about 1,000 Hungarians who rose in 1921 to defend western Hungary, allotted to Austria by the treaty of Trianon. This group wore berets.

The second group was dispatched by the Hungarian National Socialist [Nazi] party, whose erstwhile leader, Ferenz Szalisi, now is serving three years in prison for Nazi activity. Kalman Hubay, member of parliament, commanded it. The members of this unit wore sombreros.

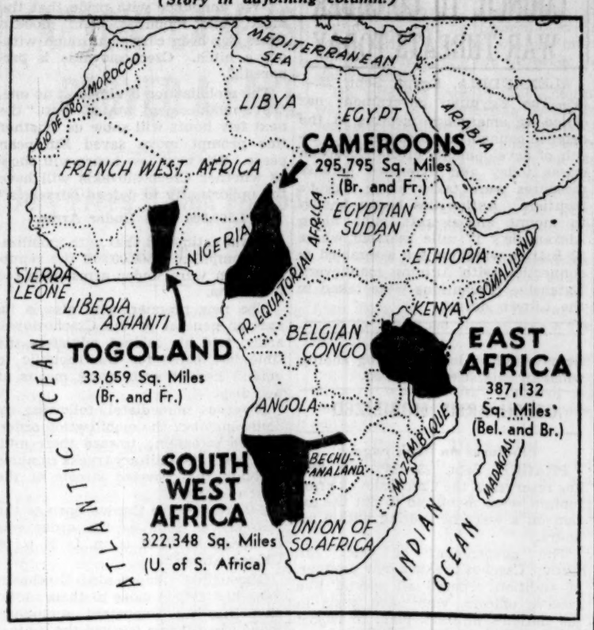
Ask O. K. of Jugo-Slavia.

Czechoslovak troops across the border were said to be busy erecting new concrete machine gun nests. Czechoslovak airplanes were patroling the region.

It was reported that the Hungarian government had asked Jugo-Slavia's consent to occupation of certain territories in southern Czechoslovakia. It is known that Hungary's minister to Belgrade visited the Jugo-Slav premier, Milan Stoyadinovich, yesterday, supposedly seeking approval for occupation of Czechoslovak territory in which more than half the population is made up of Hungarians. The Hungarian minority in Czechoslovakia numbers 700,000.

Colonies Germany Wants Back

(Story in adjoining column.)



Black areas on this map of Africa are colonies which Germany held before the world war and which the peace conference distributed among Great Britain, France, Belgium, and the Union of South Africa. Chancellor Hitler has announced determination to regain colonies, although there has been no recent public mention of the question.

ROUT 50 POLISH MINERS FOR NAZI HELP IN FRANCE

VALENCIENNES, France, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Fifty Polish miners paraded through the town of Fresnes today demanding independence for the 200,000 Poles living in northern France.

Police dispersed them and seized Swastika [Nazi] flags the miners carried. They shouted "Heil Hitler" and "Insulting France!" Police said they belonged to a large Polish society with headquarters in Paris. Most of the 200,000 Poles are miners imported after the world war to replace depleted French manpower.

Police said they found cards of the German labor front on several Polish miners who were arrested. They said the miners acknowledged they were paid 12 francs [32 cents] a month by German Nazis and received pamphlets urging them to seek autonomy within the French republic.

Neon Laboratory Damaged by Explosion of Bomb

Damage of $400 was done early today by a bomb explosion at the laboratory of the Chicago Neon company at 2529 North Pulaski road. The building housing the laboratory is a former garage. Its front door caught the main force of the bomb and was smashed. Several windows were shattered. No one saw the bombers. Shakespeare avenue police said they would question officials of the laboratory today in an effort to find a possible motive for the attack.

Suspect Anglo-German Effort to Cover Up.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The sudden silence which has enveloped Germany's colonial drive during negotiations on the Sudeten crisis is regarded here as highly significant. The colonial drive had been acquiring increasing momentum until recently.

Reports of the conferences between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Chancellor Adolf Hitler have been strangely silent about any discussion of the return of Germany's colonies. The silence has been interpreted here as evidencing a mutual Anglo-German understanding to hide discussions of the subject.

Observers are convinced that a settlement of the question of the return of German colonies will be included in a general peace settlement, if there is such a settlement.

Demand Gains Impetus.

In his speech before the reichstag last February Hitler voiced a militant plea for return of the colonies.

The demand gathered impetus steadily and the clamor for return became more insistent from that time.

Africa—	Sq. miles.	Population.
Togoland	33,659	1,000,000
Cameroons	295,795	3,500,000
S. W. Africa	322,348	200,000

China—
Kiaochow	2,750	84,000

Since the war the German colonies have been distributed as follows:

Togoland—	Sq. miles.	Population.
France	20,464	750,000
Britain	13,195	293,000
Cameroons—

PAINTERS BUSY MAKING SIGNS KEEP UP TO DATE

EGER, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Signs are having their ups and downs these days.

Yesterday when Czechoslovak authorities turned over control to provisional Sudeten German governments, the first thing the Sudetens did was to erase all signs in the Czech language. Today the Czechs were back—and so were their signs.

A billboard artist spent all day yesterday painting four swastikas on a roadside billboard. Today, with the Czechs back, the swastikas were gone.

FRANCE RUSHES PREPARATIONS TO MOBILIZE TROOPS

Czech Treaty to Be Upheld, Declare Officials.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 24 [Saturday].—Fear that a general war may break out soon is acute here early today.

The government has been rushing military preparations since early yesterday morning. A high official said a general mobilization would be ordered "at the first gunshot on the Czech-German frontier."

The Maginot line is reported to be on a war footing, and aviators and fighting planes in airdromes around Paris were ordered to be ready for duty at a few seconds' notice. A great deal of military activity was noted all day yesterday in the suburbs of the capital and in nearby regions.

Daladier Confers with Chiefs.

At a late hour last night Prime Minister Edouard Daladier conferred with Gen. Gustave Marie Gamelin, chief of the army staf, and Vice Admiral Darlan, chief of the navy general staf.

News that Czechoslovakia had ordered a general mobilization deepened the gloom here. Questioned about the situation, government spokesmen said it was grave. "But we must not despair," they added.

Following a conference of radical deputies with Premier Daladier yesterday afternoon, Pierre Cot, former air minister, made the following statement, which he said the premier had authorized:

"France has made and still is making a final effort to save peace, but if force is used France will honor her treaty obligations toward Czechoslovakia. The extreme limit of concession has been reached."

All Precautions Taken.

Daladier also informed the deputies that he had taken all military precautions in his power. It was reported, but not confirmed, that the premier declared he would order a general mobilization if Germany invaded Czechoslovakia. Some circles doubted that he would take this grave step, however, without consulting parliament.

It was learned here that one of the principal stumbling blocks in the Godesberg talks was Reichfuehrer Adolf Hitler's desire to disarm Czechoslovakia. Daladier told the deputies that he and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain were in complete agreement that Czechoslovakia must remain independent, with sufficient army to protect her new frontiers.

Informed circles think that in case Hitler invades Czechoslovakia Daladier will not order a general mobilization immediately, but will begin by calling to the colors as many men as Hitler has in the field against the Czechs.

In well informed political circles here it was believed that France will not attack the Germans automatically if they invade Czechoslovakia unless they simultaneously attack France, which is considered unlikely.

Determined to Uphold Treaty.

While there is no doubt that the government is firmly determined to uphold its treaty obligations to Chechoslovakia, it appears there is some question as to how the obligations will be interpreted.

If Hitler appears to be aiming at smashing Czechoslovakia, France, it is declared, will be certain to come to her aid. If the German army halts at the limits of the Sudeten country, however, France may not move.

Daladier called in the German military attaché to explain these measures to him and is reported to have added that France would match every German military step, but would not take the initiative or go beyond them.

Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Paris, had a long conference last night with Georges Bonnet, foreign minister.

In the face of developments at Godesberg and the imminent threat of a Nazi invasion of Sudetenland, important elements of the French peace party continued the marked trend toward the aggressive position which began earlier this week. In the rightest organ, Le Jour, Leon Bailby, leading spokesman of this group, this morning warned that France and England now realize that the "time of useless concessions is finished." According to Bailby, Great Britain is ready to face the imminent necessity of conscription.

Paris Paper Confused.

The confusion reigning here concerning developments is illustrated by the fact that the radical Socialist organ, L'Oeuvre, reported in its first edition that Chamberlain had left Godesberg for London at the time when he still was conferring with Hitler.

Leon Blum, the Socialist leader who twice has appealed for President Roosevelt's intervention, today launched a new appeal in Le Populaire, urging that the "greatest authority in the temporal world" call for a truce and offer his arbitration.

The attitude of a not insignificant section of French opinion was voiced by the communist taxi driver who drove THE TRIBUNE correspondent on a tour of the Grands Boulevards.

"The people who count are not the foreigners you will see on the boulevards," he said. "The people who count are the French workers who are in their homes. They do not want war with Germany, but they are tired of Hitler's blackmail and are prepared to fight if the Czechs are attacked."

It was reported in Paris that Dr. Stefan Osusky, Czechoslovak minister to Paris, had resigned and was returning to Prague. It was impossible to reach the legation on the telephone for confirmation.

May Strain Axis

Black indicates area of Italy gained at close of world war and largely inhabited by Germans.

While European statesmen strive to assure a peaceful conclusion of the crisis over Czechoslovakia, in the background remains the question, often raised by observers of international politics, of whether the presence of a quarter of a million Germans in the Italian South Tyrol may eventually strain the Rome-Berlin axis.

This region was ceded to Italy by Austria at the close of the world war. The Tyrolean Germans have stoutly resisted all efforts to Italianize them.

After annexing Austria last spring Chancelor Hitler of Germany gave a pledge to Premier Mussolini of Italy that Brenner pass would remain the frontier beyond which Germany would not seek to expand, despite the Nazi policy of bringing into the reich the German inhabitants of neighboring countries.

General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staf, and his aides were in constant touch with the situation at the war ministry.

Many Promotions in Army.

Sweeping promotions in the army, made yesterday, were disclosed today. Forty-five officers were involved. Eleven new major generals were made, 23 were promoted to be brigadier generals and the commands of 11 brigade commanders were shifted.

Maj. Gen. Aube, a member of the superior air council, was given command of pursuit aviation, concentrating it with his other commands of aerial defense and anti-aircraft defense.

Paris continued its precautions to safeguard the city from surprise air raids. Lists of the safest cellars in each district were posted in all prefects and police stations.

Citizens were urged to make certain of the one nearest to them so no time would be lost in taking shelter when air raid sirens sounded.

CZECH ARMY MOBILIZED

PRAGUE, Sept. 23.—(AP)—All first line reserves of the Czechoslovak army tonight were mobilized to put the nation on a wartime footing within six hours.

The government of Gen. Jan Syrovy, Czechoslovakia's new premier, in addition ordered all second line reserve officers, who have posts in the nation's military plan, to report for duty immediately.

The government's mobilization decision was made at a special cabinet meeting presided over by President Eduard Benes in Hradchin castle late today.

Report for Duty in Six Hours.

All officers, noncommissioned officers, and men of the army's first reserves between the ages of 22 and 40 were told to report for duty within six hours. Six hours later the Czech government announced mobilization was complete. The announcement, which was made over the radio, follows:

"We announce with pride that the most rapid mobilization of modern times has been carried through without a hitch. Czechoslovakia is prepared!"

The mobilization is aimed at no one, the announcement stated, but "the next few hours will show us whether this prompt move saved European peace. The next few hours will show us whether Czechoslovakia will have the opportunity to defend ourselves."

1,500,000 Men Under Arms.

It was estimated that with mobilization completed 1,500,000 of the republic's men were under arms prepared for action.

The new premier, who also is inspector general of the Czechoslovak army, told his cabinet ministers the time had come for the republic to defend herself with every means at her disposal.

Reserves, immediately following announcement of the mobilization order, started streaming toward their military posts and military trucks rumbled through the crowded streets of the Czech capital.

All trains were thrown open to the reserves as soon as the order was broadcast at 10:24 p. m. [4:24 p. m. Chicago time].

Throughout the evening Czechoslovaks had stayed close to their radios expecting an important announcement when it was learned the cabinet was in session with President Benes.

Then, after playing the Czech national anthem, came the electrifying announcement that "the most important and decisive moment has arrived.

"Success depends on all of you. Expend all your powers and your fortunes in defense of the state."

"Do all the state demands of you," said the official announcement, telling reserves to report for duty with Czechoslovakia's 180,000 man regular army.

"Our battle is just begun.

Gloomy Reports from Hitler Parley.

The mobilization order came after gloomy reports were received here concerning the Hitler-Chamberlain talks in Godesberg, Germany. They stirred the government to stern preparations for any eventuality.

"Be brave and faithful," further said the proclamation of Benes.

"Long live Czechoslovakia!

"Our fight is a fight for liberty. Do not despair. Should we be attacked we will have friends. At the last hour France and soviet Russia promised us they would help out should anybody dare attack us."

Call for Planes, Autos, Wagons.

The mobilization order, broadcast first in Czech, then Slovak, German, Hungarian, Ruthenian, and Polish, authorized the requisitioning of automobiles, private planes, horses, and wagons for military service.

Fresh troops were sent to several border regions to relieve soldiers weary after weeks of tense frontier guarding.

Trenches were being dug around some government buildings, one explanation being that they were for ammunition for a great number of anti-aircraft guns for protection of the government here. Painters freshened up large Red Crosses on the roofs of hospitals.

Martial law was extended to Kaplitz, on the border of German Austria, bringing to seventeen the total number of districts in Sudetenland under military rule. Disorder at nearby Brannau, where an officer was killed, caused great excitement.

CZECH HOSTAGES SEIZED.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 24 [Saturday].—At 12:45 a. m. today the German radio announced that in Rumburg and Warnsdorf the Sudeten German forces arrested 600 Czechoslovaks as "hostages" in reprisal for shootings by Czech troops who had tried to seize "formerly evacuated territory." When the Czechs tried to reconquer Rumburg and Warnsdorf the Sudetens sent one of the hostages with a white flag to warn the Czech soldiers that unless they withdrew the 600 hostages would be stood up against a wall and shot. The Czechs withdrew.

PUT ANTI-AIR RAID GUNS ON BERLIN'S PUBLIC BUILDINGS

Nazi Press Calls Prague Outpost of Moscow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 23. — Anti-aircraft guns and their crews as well as searchlights and range finders were seen today on the roofs of the air ministry and other public buildings in Berlin. No mention was made in the press or over the radio that an anti-war raid drill was taking place.

"Czech soldiers bleed for Moscow—Czechoslovakia to become a soviet state," Der Angriff says in headlines on the front page tonight in Germany's nation-wide campaign to convince Europe that Prague merely is an outpost of Moscow. The paper said the Czech premier, Gen. Jan Syrovy, spent all day conferring with soviet army officers and agents.

Attacks Soviet Agitators.

"The soviet agents received orders to make Czechoslovakia ripe for bolshevization," the paper declares. "The Prague government willingly places its soldiers at the disposal of soviet agitators."

Tomorrow's Voelkischer Beobachter will refer to the new Czech premier as a "mass murderer and traitor."

Today's press unanimously brands the Czech reoccupation of Eger and other districts which had been evacuated earlier by the Czech military as "a trap deliberately set by the Prague officials to murder the Sudetens." The papers filled their columns with reports of how the stricken Sudetens were fleeing before "Czech tanks firing their guns and spraying machine gun bullets."

Reports 50 Slain.

The Nachtausgabe says: "An incessant stream of refugees is pouring into Germany, 50 dead and scores of wounded, incessant border incidents and the blowing up of bridges and railways are the achievements of the new régime."

The German radio announced that service on 10 railroad lines between Germany and Czechoslovakia had been discontinued "partly because they have been blown up by the Czechs." It is stated that the other lines still in operation "run only irregularly."

According to German reports, Czech troops are working feverishly all along the Czech-German border to reinforce their positions. The digging of trenches, machine gun nests and dugouts is reported from the Czech-Silesian as well as the Czech-Saxony frontier.

Four Czech officers and 46 Czech soldiers have been interned in the Saxony town of Bautzen. It is stated they were taken prisoners by Sudeten gymnasts and taken over the border into Germany.

Nazi Army Facing Test.

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The free corps which Konrad Henlein organized to help put Sudetenland under the German swastika tonight appeared to be unworkable and Reichsfuehrer Hitler's army was preparing for the worst.

So long, however, as the Godesberg talks between Hitler and British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain offer hope of British and French support for partition of Czechoslovakia, the Fuehrer appeared determined to keep his army and air force out of the affair.

Hitler is used to waiting—even when loss of life among Germanic people is involved—and some of the scattered clashes between the free corps and Czechoslovak officials in the disputed German-Czechoslovak borderland have resulted in death.

But should the Godesberg conferences fail there was no doubt that Hitler would accept what Germans have construed as Gen. Jan Syrovy's challenge.

Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German minority, last week from his refuge in Germany announced that 40,000 men had joined the free corps. Its purpose was to harass Czechoslovak authority in Sudetenland and speed the day of "liberation."

But the use and effectiveness of the free corps appeared to have been predicated on an assumption that only ordinary Czechoslovak frontier guards and local police would be encountered.

Free Corps Outclassed.

Against Syrovy's heavily armed and well equipped regulars, Henlein's free corps would have invited suicide if it had seriously attempted to fight back at the Czechoslovaks' bristling show of power.

Generally along the border, therefore, the free corps appeared to have withdrawn to the German side. They evacuated towns and villages they had taken in advance of execution of the Anglo-French plan of ceding Sudetenland to Germany.

[A dispatch from Eger, Czechoslovakia, said the Sudeten irregulars still held the Asch area from Haslau to the German border, a strip fifteen miles deep and five miles wide. Asch is Henlein's home town.]

Air Force at Frontier.

Germany's crack air force unit, the Hermann Goering regiment, moved from Berlin, by way of Dresden, to some frontier station. Troops moved through German Austria from Salzburg toward Linz, which is about 125 miles almost due south of Prague. Special air raid precautions were taken at Linz.

Many private German firms received orders to place automobiles or trucks, as well as drivers, at the disposition of military authorities. These firms will receive payment at nominal rate for the use of each vehicle.

Government officials made no secret of the fact that German armed forces have been concentrated for days all along the German and German Austrian frontiers with Czechoslovakia.

In fact, they rather proudly told inquiring foreigners that the German army stood ready to cross the border whenever necessary.

LOYALISTS PUSH AHEAD IN MOUNTAIN AREA DRIVE TO KEY ROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 23.—Spanish government forces pushed ahead today in the drive toward the Teruel-Sagunto highway, according to government dispatches reaching here. The insurgents were reported to have been forced to rush reinforcements into the Jevalambre mountains in order to steam the loyalists' drive.

The reports said that the insurgents had regained two hills but that the government forces held the newly won positions south of Manzanera, west of the Teruel-Sagunto road. Insurgents said their Ebro advance is successful, several fighting units being within a short distance of Venta de Camposines.

TWO WITNESSES REPLY TO LEITER TRUST CHARGES

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company presented two witnesses yesterday in defense of charges that the bank was guilty of gross misconduct and juggling of assets of a trust estate created by the late Mrs. Mary T. Leiter. The witnesses were Edward Brooks, of the real estate department, and Frederick Curtis, of the accounting division.

The bank is being sued for an accounting of funds by the three beneficiaries — Colin Campbell, Thomas Leiter, and Cecil Howard, grandsons of Mrs. Leiter and the late Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicago merchant. The trusts, each valued at $100,000, were established in 1913.

The plaintifs contend that the present total worth of the trusts should be $650,000, but is actually less because the bank took excessive fees in various transactions. The hearing will be continued next Tuesday. It is being held by Master in Chancery Harold E. Sullivan.

STATE SLEUTH'S 'ARSON' CASE IS PROVED A FAKE

Jury Frees 2 Men Forced to 'Confess.'

Frank Kolesiak, 26 years old, and Emil Guerrieri, 23, were absolved by the grand jury yesterday from all blame for the tragic fire last April 6 in the Hotel Center, 1422-1430 Madison street. Eight of the hotel guests were burned to death in the fire. The grand jury heard more than thirty witnesses in an all day session. It then voted no bills in both cases.

State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas.

State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas and his staf, who wrung fake confessions from the men, tried to explain to the jury how they came to get innocent men to confess to setting a blaze which the firemen testified they did not believe to have been of incendiary origin. The victims of the fictitious confessions, Coultas said, were handed over to him by reporters on a morning newspaper [not THE TRIBUNE]. He denied that he used brutal methods to obtain the confessions.

Gov. Horner Making Inquiry.

Gov. Horner, as a result of his appointee's fiasco, is making a personal investigation of the faked confessions. Coultas' job depends on the governor's finding.

The governor is coöperating with State's Attorney Courtney in efforts to find out why Coultas, a former insurance agent from Jacksonville, and his staf of amateur detectives did not consult a trained policeman or investigators from the state's attorney's office before announcing confessions branding Kolesiak and Guerrieri as murderers. The prosecutor's office was not notified of the case until nearly twenty-four hours after Coultas announced the fake confessions.

Kolesiak and Guerrieri, who have spent nearly two weeks in custody as a result of what the grand jury found to be a blunder of the fire marshal, were jubilant last evening when notified that they would be freed, probably today. They noted with pleasure that the evidence of their innocence was so conclusive that the jury did not require either of them to testify.

Admits Making Threats.

Kolesiak was the first to be arrested by Coultas' investigators. He told State's Attorney Courtney that he was badgered for hours by Coultas, Roscoe Bonjean, Coultas' attorney, and Frank E. Doherty, assistant in charge of the Chicago office of the marshal. Doherty, who weighs 250 pounds, admitted he towered over Kolesiak, telling him he was a "cinch for the penitentiary and probably the electric chair."

The evidence showed that Kolesiak was scared into confessing by the investigators telling him that Guerrieri was under arrest at a police station and that Guerrieri had put all the blame on Kolesiak for the fire. Kolesiak in this manner was given some fragmentary details of the fire, which he later incorporated in the fake confession.

Kolesiak said he was whisked from hotel to hotel by the marshal and his staf. The rooms were always on a high floor, he said, and he was frequently reminded that it was a long way to the ground.

"You would have confessed murdering your own mother if you went through what I did," Kolesiak told his brother in explaining the so-called confession.

Has Air Tight Alibi.

Guerrieri, who was arrested two days after Kolesiak, said he was "slapped around" and then shown Kolesiak's so-called confession. He said he tried to make the same confession with the exception of placing the blame on Kolesiak. The details, however, did not coincide and were quickly discernible to the trained investigators of Courtney's office when the amateur sleuths finally decided to take their prisoners out of the hotel and turn them over to the police.

As soon as they were placed in the custody of the state attorney's office both men denied their confessions. Kolesiak promptly proved an unshakable alibi. He was on a 79th street car, which luckily for him was in an accident at Yates avenue, at least ten miles away from the Center hotel, at almost the exact time the fire occurred. The more the investigators looked into his alibi the stronger it got. The police and street car records proved his whereabouts conclusively.

Guerrieri also told of his whereabouts. Twenty-five persons supported his statement. As a last resort the men were subjected to the lie detector machine. It showed both were telling the truth. Guerrieri was put under the machine five times.

Hodes Rules Distribution of Handbills Is Legal

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes gave Police Commissioner Allman an opinion yesterday holding that it is legal to distribute handbills giving economic, social, or political views. The opinion was asked to determine future police action as a result of the arrest of several members of the Illinois Workers' alliance. They had been distributing handbills containing printed matter on the relief question. Hodes pointed out that while such handbills are legal, others containing advertising matter are not.

BULGARIA SEEKS RUMANIAN AREA, GERMANY HEARS

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Reports circulated today that King Boris III. of Bulgaria, now in Berlin, was seeking a readjustment of the Bulgarian border along the Black sea. Rumania now holds the 9,000 square mile Dobruja district which once was a part of Bulgaria.

King Boris came to Berlin yesterday after a visit with his father, former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, in Coburg, Germany. Ferdinand is an exile, having abdicated in 1918. Boris previously had spent a week in England.

Dobruja, a fertile wheat growing district, bounded on the north and west by the Danube, on the east by the Black sea, and on the south by Bulgaria, is regarded by patriotic Bulgarians as unredeemed territory.

The district became a part of Bulgaria in 679. It was transferred to Rumania by the treaty of Berlin on July 13, 1878, but restored to Bulgaria under the treaty of Bucharest May 7, 1918. It was reassigned to Rumania Nov. 27, 1919, by the treaty of Neuilly.

STORM DAMAGE IS HALF BILLION; COUNT 486 DEAD

U. S. Flood Control Delay Held Partly to Blame.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The appalling toll of nearly 500 dead and half a billion dollars' property damage left by New England's first hurricane and tidal wave tonight brought political mutterings against the government's flood control program.

Part of the disaster might have been averted, some said, if the Roosevelt administration had not delayed construction of a much needed flood control system. For three years plans and methods of dealing with the waters in New England have been political footballs.

Anti-administration Yankees charged that a program which might have prevented much of the present desolation was delayed by White House obstinacy in insisting that the federal government retain control of power rights in dams built by army engineers. They accused President Roosevelt of having in mind another TVA for New England.

Power Trust Assailed.

A compact entered into by four of the new devastated states—Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont—collapsed when there was placed in it a prohibition against the federal government's control of power rights in the proposed dams. New Dealers retaliated with the charge the requirement was dictated by Roosevelt enemies—notably what the New Dealers refer to as the "power trust." They asserted the program for control and use of the Connecticut and Merrimac rivers were ditched by New England public utilities and anti-New Deal leaders.

Whatever was the reason, nothing was done about a problem that now is involved in a disaster counted among the worst the country ever has suffered.

Meantime the toll of dead continued to mount as thousands of rescue workers fought flood waters and dug deeper into the ruins of the stricken communities. Large areas in the path of Wednesday's hurricane still were in darkness and all but cut off from the rest of the country.

The toll of known dead was placed at 486, but many persons still were missing. Rhode Island was hardest hit, with an estimate of 240 dead in that state alone. Massachusetts was next with 112. Connecticut had 65 known dead; New York, 48; New Hampshire, 13; Vermont, 2; New Jersey, 2, and Province of Quebec, Canada, 2.

Property Damage Widespread.

The property damage was so widespread as to be almost incalculable. The rough estimate of half a billion dollars was based to some extent on Gov. Robert E. Quinn's belief that 100 million dollar damage had been done in Rhode Island.

Adding disaster to disaster, rampaging rivers, swollen by continual downpours, threatened hurricane-wasted areas, especially in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Army engineers ordered all residents of Holyoke, Mass., to evacuate their homes because of two foot cracks in the Springdale levee on the Connecticut river.

The same river sent 3,500 residents of Springfield, Mass., running for higher ground. Those waters also pounded Hartford, Conn., where 2,000 men worked desperately to save the "insurance capital" by piling sandbags along a half mile stretch of river front.

7,000 Leave Hartford.

With some 1,400 Hartford residents already homeless and more than 7,000 persons evacuated, others were leaving the city hourly.

Among the numerous prominent persons killed in the storm was Mrs. Helen E. Lewis of Stratford, Conn., who was nominated a week ago by Republicans as Connecticut's first woman candidate for state secretary. Her body was washed ashore at Stony Creek, Conn., tonight. Her husband, Henry L. Lewis, wealthy industrialist of Bridgeport, Conn., also was drowned.

Staggering tales of tragedy were continually being reported from Rhode Island cities and towns. Providence, the capital, Westerly, Woonsocket, and other cities were under martial law. Westerly had 71 dead and 57 missing.

Newport, R. I., society's summer capital, suffered a death toll of 45 in its metropolitan area. Damage of more than $2,000,000 was done. Exclusive Bailey's Beach was wiped out by a tidal wave.

KILL GOLLMAR SLAYER SUSPECT IN MILWAUKEE

Police Find Widow's Purse in Room.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Richard Davidson, 24 years old, wanted for questioning in connection with the brutal murder of Mrs. Alberta Gollmar, wealthy widow and member of the Gollmar circus family, was shot and killed here tonight when he tried to escape from a police trap.

In his room police found Mrs. Gollmar's purse and several of her calling cards. These, they said, indicated that Davidson was involved in her murder.

Widow Slashed to Death.

Mrs. Gollmar, 62 years old, was slashed to death with a knife in her home in Baraboo, Wis., yesterday. Search soon afterward was directed for Davidson, who it was known had lived across the street from Mrs. Gollmar in Baraboo. Police today traced him to a rooming house at 610 North 14th street in Milwaukee.

Detective Louis Wagner and another policeman were detailed to hide in his room and await his return. They had been there several hours, with all lights out, when they heard Davidson approach. He stepped into the room, unaware of the trap, and turned on the lights.

The detectives suddenly confronted him. They called upon him to surrender. Instead, Davidson turned to flee. Detective Wagner emptied his pistol at him and Davidson dropped to the floor dead.

Purse Wrapped in Newspaper.

In his room, in addition to Mrs. Gollmar's purse and calling cards, the police found a revolver. The purse was wrapped in a newspaper containing an account of the Gollmar killing. Police records showed that Davidson had served time for larceny and for passing bogus checks. He also had been arrested once for assault.

Mrs. Gollmar was well known in Baraboo, where she had lived most of her life. Her husband, Charles Gollmar, died nine years ago. He and several brothers founded the Gollmar Brothers circus in the early 1900s, taking their pattern from Ringling Brothers, who were their cousins.

Although Mrs. Gollmar had lost considerably in the stock market in recent years, she was reported to have retained a substantial share of her original wealth. She lived alone.

GOON VERY GLAD TO SEE HON. COPS ON A DARK NIGHT

Goon Gow bowed low when Sergts. George Melican and John Currin walked into his laundry at 745 North avenue last night. Goon Gow said he was happy to see estimable cops.

Goon Gow was not alone. Around him stood five fellow countrymen, who were not smiling. Goon Gow said they had come to collect his $9 monthly instalment for the On Leong Tong relief association. And Goon Gow said he was afraid they would take him for a Chinese ride to Chinatown because business was so bad he could not meet the payment.

His grim faced, silent countrymen said they only wanted a little talk with their old pal Goon, but the policemen decided they should spend the night in the Hudson avenue station. They gave the names of Live Chine, 36 years old; Harry Lee, 46; Loana Mook, 38; Toy Deuu, 36, and George Shang, 55.

Twelve North Chicago boys, the oldest 13 years old, who called themselves the Dillinger gang, were rounded up yesterday. Acting Police Chief Stanley Szymusiak said the gang confessed several burglaries and had planned to raid a hardware store over the week-end to get guns for an extended crime career. In the burglaries they stole $150 which they used to buy candy and ice cream, and to go to the movies. Chief Szymusiak named the four ringleaders as Adolphus Washington, 13 years old, colored, of 1018 Adams street; his brother, Kramer, 10; John Hunter, 11, of 719 10th street, and Walter Hanski, 13, of 1216 Wadsworth avenue.

POLICE VICTIMS IDENTIFY TWO BOOKIE BANDITS

James Gilfoy, who was killed, and Charles Lane, wounded in the gun battle between bandits and police Thursday in a handbook at 3633 North Halsted street, were identified yesterday as two of the three bandits who robbed two policemen of their guns and stars last Saturday night.

The policemen are Frank Johnstone and Anton Topinka, formerly of the Englewood station. They were suspended after they were held up in a handbook at 533½ West 69th street.

Lane yesterday was identified by a score of patrons as the bandit who killed John Bazula, operator of the north side bookie joint, in the holdup that preceded the Halsted street battle. Two policemen and a young woman also were wounded in the fight.

Physicians of the American hospital last night held out hope of saving the life of the woman, Miss Lucille Summerfield, 18 years old, 622 Patterson avenue, who was shot while being used as a shield by Gilfoy. Mrs. Ann Gilfoy, widow of slain bandit, was questioned by police during the day.

Police are searching for the owners of the handbook. They were told that the manager of a former world's boxing champion was a part owner. Bazula was said to have been merely an operating employé.

GOVERNMENT AID FOR HURRICANE AREA PROMISED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called Senator Green [D., R. I.] to his sickbed today to assure him the government would do everything possible to relieve New England storm victims.

Chairman Norman H. Davis of the American Red Cross announced a nation-wide campaign to raise $500,000 for the devastated areas. Red Cross officials estimated at least 50,000 persons were homeless and authorized Red Cross chapters throughout the country to raise funds. Davis said the Red Cross had contributed $25,000.

After conferring with the President, Green said permanent relief would furnish a tremendous problem because the storm not only had destroyed houses, but had washed away the ground upon which they stood.

The civil aeronautics commission relaxed its regulations restricting pilots' flying time. About 100 pilots living near Newark, N. J., the commission said, had volunteered for emergency flights to the storm zone.

Horner Offers Aid.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Gov. Horner offered Illinois' aid today to five New England states stricken by tornado and floods. To the governors of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, and Connecticutt he wired this message: "My earnest sympathy to you and the people of your state in the recent catastrophe. Can we be of any service or help to you? If so, please advise."

YOUNG AVIATOR AND HIS FIANCEE DIE AS AIR CRASH VICTIMS

Racine, Wis., Sept. 23—[Special]—A young aviator and his fiancée were killed when the plane in which they were flying crashed and burned in a potato field a mile southwest of here today. The tragedy occurred near the intersection of Lathrop road and Taylor Avenue road.

The girl, who died before rescuers could pull her from the flaming wreckage, was Naomi Hansche, 23 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hansche of Racine.

The pilot was George Andis Jr., 24 years old, a salesman for the Andis Clipper company, of which his uncle, Matthew Andis, is owner and president. Andis died of his injuries a few hours after being taken to St. Mary's hospital.

The two had taken off from the Kenosha airport, twelve miles away. At the time of the crash they were flying near Miss Hansche's home. It was believed they intended to circle it.

Ed Deschler, a filling station attendant, saw the plane plunge to the ground shortly after it glided over his station. With Russell Brodigan, he rushed to the field in his automobile. After dragging Andis from the cockpit, they returned to extricate Miss Hensche. However, they were driven back by the explosion of the gasoline tank.

Authorities were unable to determine the cause of the crash.

N. Y. PROFESSOR AND WIFE DIE IN 16 FLOOR FALL

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—A New York university professor of chemistry and his wife—the latter nude—plunged to their deaths at 11:10 o'clock tonight from their sixteenth story apartment in the heart of Tudor City. The bodies of Dr. Roemer R. Renshaw, 50 years old, and his wife, 45, crashed into a small grassy plot in front of their apartment hotel, known as Prospect Towers.

Police doubted first theories of a suicide pact between the couple when occupants of the fifteenth floor below the Renshaws' suite reported hearing a man's cry for help an instant before the first body plummeted down. The second body fell an instant later.

Dr. Renshaw, noted for research work in chemistry, had occupied the three room apartment with his wife for the last four years.

Baby Is Born as Liner Enters Hurricane Zone

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Just as the liner Columbus was approaching an outer edge of the hurricane in the mid-Atlantic Tuesday, a seven pound son was born to Mrs. Martin Tell, 17 years old. She was coming here from Hungary to join her husband at Clifton, N. J. Mr. Tell is an Austrian born agricultural expert at Clifton. Reports radioed by the United States weather bureau enabled the Columbus to veer away from the full force of the storm.

LEARN OF SLAIN BANDITS DOUBLE LIFE BY TATTOO

The bandit shot to death by a policeman in an attempted robbery of a liquor store at 942 West 63d street Monday night was identified last evening as Everett F. Wilmot, 24 years old, 1035 East 65th street.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of uniformed police, described Wilmot as a Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde bandit, who mixed with two social groups, one reputable and the other criminal.

Wilmot was killed by Policeman Walter Valkenburg. A companion escaped, although wounded. The only clew to Wilmot's identity was a tattooed heart, with the name Julia, on his arm. Yesterday Wilmot's mother, Mrs Vida Staples, reported him missing. Her description, plus the tattoo, led to his identification.

It was found that the tattoo referred to a friend, Miss Julia Zenos, 20 years old, of 7009 Dorchester avenue. She gave police the names of a dozen mutual friends. They were questioned. Neither they nor Miss Zenos knew of Wilmot's criminal activities. This convinced Prendergast that Wilmot lived a double life.

Continue Hunt for Germs Behind Food Poison Cases

State and city health authorities yesterday continued their laboratory search for germs which may have caused the recent outbreak of food poisoning in Elmwood Park and adjacent areas in Chicago. More than 160 cases and two deaths have been reported. There were 15 new cases yesterday.

BOOKIES ON RUN AS LIST REVEALS THEIR HIDEOUTS

Ax Men Find Only 8 Joints at Old Stands.

Chicago's handbooks were on the move yesterday. Bet takers hurriedly sought new quarters—in barns, garages, even in old, condemned houses. The flights were prompted by the knowledge that State's Attorney Courtney had most of the gamblers' old addresses and the shadow of his ax swinging squads hovered over these haunts.

236

By scurrying from locations known to the prosecutor, the handbook owners hoped to make Courtney's present information valueless.

8 Smashed at Old Stands.

Eight handbooks, whose operators were intrepid enough to stay in business at their old stands, were smashed yesterday afternoon by the ax squads. These raids brought the total to 236 since the drive was started.

Courtney's police obtained the former addresses Thursday night at the Nationwide News Service of Illinois at 343 South Dearborn street. This concern supplies racing results to betting joints. The police seized a card index file showing the locations of hundreds of handbooks in the city. The cards were returned to the Nationwide service after the prosecutor's staf had copied all the information.

Drive Forces 90 Per Cent to Move.

Many bookies had gone to new locations in the last two weeks, but yesterday was the biggest moving day. Including this exodus, it was estimated that 90 per cent of the handbooks in the city have left their original sites since the ax drive began. Many of the large handbooks have closed entirely. They had expensive equipment and were in greater fear of the ax squads.

The joints wrecked yesterday were cheaply furnished. They were at 1440 West 18th street, 125 East 39th street, 752 East 51st street, 3226 Harrison street, 3810 Broadway, 6310 Cottage Grove avenue, 6705 Dorchester avenue, and 1430 East 67th street. The last two were around the corner from each other.

RAPS MUNICIPAL COURT AS COSTLY TOOL OF POLITICS

Casey Looks for Justice There, Finds Little.

Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey, in a vehement attack yesterday on the administration of the Municipal court of Chicago, called it the most expensive court of its kind in the United States. He said it takes longer to try a case there than in either the Superior or Circuit courts of Cook county. He termed court procedure complicated, expensive, slow, and under political domination, and declared "There is very little justice in the court at all."

Judge Casey. [U. & U. Photo.]

His charges drew immediate replies from five Democrats and one Republican among his fellow judges. Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, however, refused to be questioned or make any statement when informed of Judge Casey's attack.

Court Formerly a Model.

The latter spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Optimist club of Chicago in the La Salle hotel. Judge Casey, a Republican, described the formation of the Municipal court and told how other cities formerly studied it as a model. The court then had thirty-two rules, he said, and was intended "to provide justice without undue delay or expense."

"You didn't even need a lawyer," he said, "it was so simple. And a suit could be filed for as little as 50 cents or a dollar. Now they have changed all that. Four hundred twenty-five long and complicated rules, which even the judges and lawyers can't understand, have replaced the thirty-two simple ones.

"In 1936 there were 3,500 jury cases pending. In 1937 there were 4,400, and there are now more than 6,000. One reason for this is that there are now only six rooms available in which to try jury cases."

Raps Political Control.

Judge Casey then attacked what he called the political control of the court.

"When Chief Bailif Al Horan found his business had declined over 34 per cent he fired fifty-five Nash-Kelly precinct captains, who were deputy bailifs," the judge said. "Pat Nash didn't like it. He had telegrams sent telling them to ignore the political instructions of Horan, saying: 'Your jobs are under control of the judges, and we have the judges.'"

"So the judges called meetings, with fewer and fewer attending each time. They were coming up for reelection and were afraid of the Horner-Courtney combination. Each was called from the Morrison hotel penthouse and told to vote to put Horan in jail unless he reinstated the bailifs. Horan told them he had only two writs per day per man, but they wouldn't listen.

Annual Loss Exceeds Million.

"This situation is typical of others, such as the increase in court costs. The Municipal court is the only one in Chicago operating at a deficiency. It loses more than $1,000,000 a year, although with its volume of business it should be the most profitable. The judges wanted to lower the costs and Kelly told them they had to vote to keep them up.

"And why is there a Racket court? So that gambling cases can be controled under the policy of the administration in charge. The judges who sit agree in policy with those in power."

Tells of Horan Case.

The replies of other Municipal judges were as follows:

JUDGE EUGENE L. M'GARRY: "My opinion of Casey wouldn't look well in print. But here's one thing he neglected to say: That he was one of the judges that signed the order telling Horan to reinstate the bailifs. I saw him sign it. Then at the subsequent meeting he voted along with Judge Dougherty against holding Horan in contempt. If jury cases pile up it's because the lawyers let them, although I tried a case today that was filed April 30."

JUDGE THOMAS A. GREEN: "When I was first elected it took four years to get a jury trial, but I cleaned up 3,000 small claims cases in six months. I now have 1,393 jury cases, and will be done with them by March 1. Casey is a young fellow and I like him, but one time he joined the Polar Bears and wore shorts."

Suggests Council Is Place.

JUDGE JAY SCHILLER: "Some of Casey's suggestions are good, but they should have been presented to the executive council of the judges at their monthly meetings. Casey hasn't attended more than 10 out of 100 meetings and he has never challenged or made a constructive criticism. I think that Chief Justice Sonsteby is trying sincerely and honestly to do a good job, although I haven't altogether supported his views."

JUDGE CHARLES DOUGHERTY: "Casey wasn't at the judges' meeting today to present his views. If he has any complaints he should make them before the judges."

JUDGE SAMUEL HELLER [Rep.]: "I sat in Motions court for a year and my opinion of the rules is that those who are not too lazy intellectually to study them find them very useful."

Denies Telegram Charge.

JUDGE J. M. BRAUDE: "If there are more jury cases now it's because they demand jury trials to delay the cases, but there never were more than six rooms for such trials. As to the Horan-bailif question, I never received any call or telegram. I never voted on the proposition. I don't, however, believe the judges had any right to hold him in contempt."

George Burns and Gracie Allen were in town yesterday—not as wisecracking radio comedians, but as proud parents. They arrived from Kansas City to meet their children, Sandra, 4 years old, and Ronnie, 3, who came from Hollywood. Later, the entire family left for New York city, where Gracie's surrealist paintings are to be placed on exhibition and where the team will make its first autumn broadcast. Both the children were adopted from the Cradle in Evanston.

DEWEY INDICTS 9 CONTRACTORS IN RACKET DRIVE

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey sidetracked the Hines racket case temporarily today and struck hard at the electrical contracting racket. He obtained indictments against nine big contractors and by evening six of them were arrested.

The sudden move brought to a head an investigation which has been in progress nearly three years. In that time, Dewey, said, his detectives have discovered the city and private concerns have been cheated out of millions through collusive bids on electrical work. The indictments all charge conspiracy. They were returned by the New York county grand jury to General Sessions Judge Owen W. Bohan. The six prisoners were taken before Judge Bohan, where they pleaded not guilty. They were held in $5,000 bail each, but were paroled in the custody of their counsel until Monday to give them time to post bond.

ORDERS HUSBAND TO GIVE HIS WIFE THE TWIN BEDS

Thomas Stuart brought back the flatiron, electric clock, and radio when ordered to return his wife's household goods. But he kept the twin beds, the padded coat hangers, and all the rest of the furniture, Mrs. Eleanor Stuart told Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday.

Judge Finnegan ordered the rest of the goods delivered to Mrs. Stuart's home at 2231 East 67th street. Stuart was instructed to be in court Oct. 3 to explain what he had done about $134 he has fallen in arrears on support payments ordered pending a disposition of the Stuarts' divorce troubles.

THEY'RE POLICEMEN NOW! 313 ROOKIES AT 1ST ROLL CALL TODAY

This morning 313 rookie policemen will answer their first roll call at the Central police building, 1121 South State street. Then they will be directed to report at the training schools in the Fillmore street and Chicago avenue stations.

The rookies received their final physical examinations yesterday and were measured for uniforms. Their finger prints also were sent to the bureau of identification. They won their right to police jobs by leading the list of more than 3,000 eligibles posted recently by the civil service commission.

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Representative John J. O'Connor, who lost renomination in the Democratic primary to Roosevelt backed James H. Fay, but won the Republican nomination, said today that he also will run as an independent Democrat.

"I am going all the way through," said O'Connor. "All my leaders are with me eand I am going to win."

The 16th congressional district, which O'Connor has represented since 1923, is strongly Democratic, O'Connor having been reëlected in 1936 by a plurality of 10,320.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The Workers' Alliance of America, a WPA organization which has been accused of being under communist rule, claimed credit in its national convention today for bringing about the defeat of Representative John J. Plane Plunges in Marsh; Hunt Body of Air Officer

Hudson, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(AP)—An army observation plane plunged from murky skies into a marsh on the east side of the Hudson river today, buried so deeply that searchers strove in vain for hours to extricate the pilot. Authorities abandoned their efforts to await arrival of suitable equipment manned by army officers from Mitchell Field, N. Y. It was believed the plane was piloted by Capt. M. C. Harper, unreported since he left the Albany airport today for his Long Island base.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

UNDER PRESSURE

By CALEB

"SHOW ME that man under pressure and I'll tell you his stature," said an executive recently whose years of experience have given him opportunity to observe hundreds of men and women and chart their responses to adversity.

There are, perhaps, few better places in which to observe personality and character traits than in the operation of a large department store. In a very real sense we work together, closely associated for a common end. Every move that each of us makes is certain to affect some associate importantly. By our personal performance we further or jeopardize the cause and the objective common to us all.

Working as we do, there come frequent opportunities for the exchange of confidences—for the development of more than superficial acquaintances and understanding of mutual or peculiar problems, hopes, aims and ambitions. While there are as many variant personalities as there are workers in the store, we all have much in common. Sooner or later our work in any department calls for some quick, free-style thinking on foot, and each of us, through the years, comes to establish a sort of rating scale for his associates.

Perhaps the most significant item in that list is behavior under pressure. Important in our estimates of each other are these things: How well do we maintain poise and courtesy when the store is filled to capacity with eager customers, each needing attention and service? How do we work when it is necessary to join our efforts with those of one or more associates? How do we accept criticism? How do we perform in sudden crisis—and most important of all—how do we react and what influence do we have on our associates when things are going poorly? Do outside problems hamper inside efforts? Day in, day out we perform our allotted duties under the close scrutiny of fellow workmen who know us well and rate us with keen perception and judgment.

These things are not peculiar to stores such as ours—but we meet and face them here with certainty and regularity. They constitute one of the surest measuring sticks we have to character and business worth. "Show me the man under pressure and I'll tell you his stature," said the business executive, and we here know how right he was.

LOOP TO JOLIET SUPERHIGHWAY PLAN INDORSED

78 Club Council Asks Southwest Artery.

BY HAL FOUST.

A superhighway from the loop southwest to Joliet, thirty-nine miles, was indorsed yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago Motor club's south area council. It was held in the Illinois Athletic club. The council is a federation of seventy-eight south side civic clubs and local improvement associations.

On motion of Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], the committee addressed a petition to Chicago, Cook county, and Illinois authorities asking that engineers prepare plans for prompt construction.

Propose "L" Highway.

James E. Bulger, a director of the motor club, outlined the proposal. An elevated highway would be built in Cermak road from the outer drive to Blue Island avenue at Ashland avenue. Canal street would serve as a connection with the west side of the central business district and State street would connect with the center of the retail district.

The elevated highway would be continued southwest from Cermak road and Ashland avenue in Blue Island avenue to Western avenue. At Western avenue, or a mile farther west, the elevated highway would connect with a depressed boulevard on the banks of the Illinois and Michigan canal. Or the right of way of the Illinois Northern railway might be used for an elevated highway connection from Blue Island avenue to the I. & M. canal a mile west of Western avenue.

Plan Spur to Airport.

At Cicero avenue the depressed highway would connect with an elevated spur to the Chicago airport, two miles to the south. The same grade separation as at Cicero avenue would have a ramp for 39th street as a trafic feeder from the populous suburbs to the west.

At 55th street there would be another grade separation as a connection to the depressed highway for trafic from the west. Du Page county has planned 55th as a superhighway. It bypasses built up areas of Cook county and Du Page county suburbs, but has easy approaches to them. Furthermore, 55th street meets Ogden avenue [U. S. 34] at Naperville. Aurora trafic, for example, would use the four lane Ogden avenue to Naperville, thence on the 55th street superhighway to the depressed drives, and thence on elevated highways to the central business district.

The proposal is an adaptation of plans that have received much competent study. All engineers who have considered Chicago's transportation problems agree that an arterial to the southwest is needed.

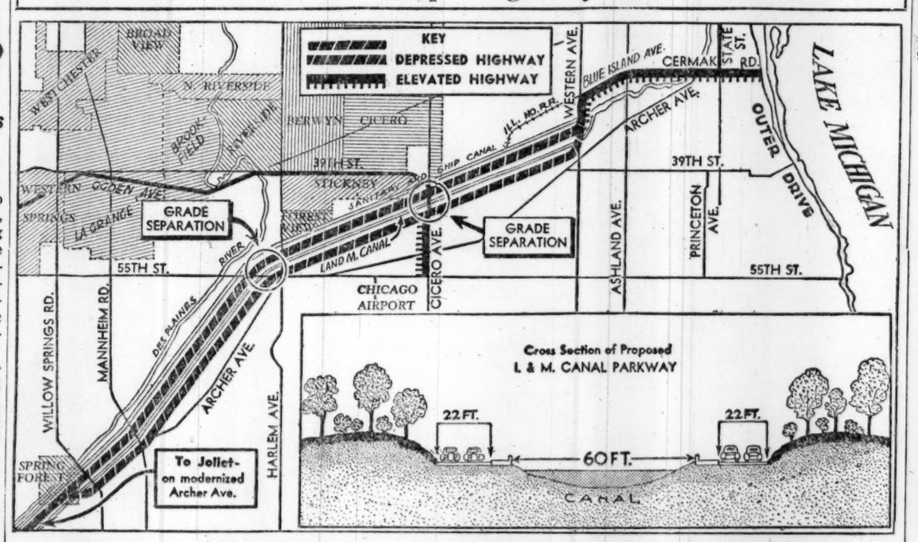
Recommended 20 Years Ago.

The Chicago Plan commission twenty years ago recommended Blue Island and Cermak road as broad arterials. Since 1927 the commission's chief engineer, Hugh Young, has advocated the elevated design for mass motor trafic through built-up areas.

Dr. Miller McClintock, then of Harvard and now of Yale university bureau of trafic research, recommended an elevated highway to the southwest in his survey for the city council in 1933. Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the council trafic and safety committee, has mentioned Archer avenue as a likely southwest route. Cermak and Blue Island, bordered by a railroad and by industrial real estate, might have a better chance of escaping any objections from property owners.

The I. & M. depressed highway has been recommended by the Chicago Regional Planning association since 1933. The canal, sixty feet wide on a 240 foot right of way, has not been used by water trafic for a generation. A pavement twenty-two feet wide, for two lanes of one-way trafic, could be built on each side of the canal bed passing under all railroad bridges and cross street bridges with fairly inexpensive modifications of the structures.

Push Canal Bank Superhighway to Southwest



Plan for elevated highway from lake front to Western avenue or a mile beyond, connecting with a proposed depressed road along the Illinois and Michigan canal, to make trafic between loop and Joliet speedier and safer. The proposal was indorsed yesterday by representatives of seventy-eight south side civic organizations.

WOODSMAN CUTS TREE AND WHOLE TOWN SITS UP AND TAKES NOTICE

Belvidere, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Vincent Spencer had no idea how much trouble he was about to cause this morning when he set out to cut a tree near his home. The tree fell on a 2,300 volt Illinois Northern Utilities company power line, shutting off electric service in 746 Belvidere business places and homes and on 80 nearby farms. It was some time before the cause of the break was discovered and service was restored.

6 Workers Have Manager Arrested on New Pay Law

Samuel Litke, manager of a wood working and furniture company at 5138 16th street, Cicero, was arrested yesterday on warants charging him with failure to pay a total of $153 in back wages to six former employés. They got the warants under a new statute of the Illinois labor relations law which makes nonpayment of wages a misdemeanor. The case was set for next Friday before Justice of the Peace David R. Mandell.

HOPE GIVEN UP FOR 7 ENTOMBED IN FT. PECK SLIDE

Fort Peck, Mont., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Millions of tons of rock today hid the bodies of seven workmen who were entombed in a landslide at Fort Peck dam. One body was recovered last night.

Hours of perilous searching on the loose slope, 2,000 feet long and 200 feet high, convinced rescue crews none of the seven was alive.

Maj. Clark Kittrell, army engineer in charge of construction of the 100 million dollar dam, said a preliminary survey did not indicate any reason for alarm concerning the security of the dam. The landslide occurred on the upstream face.

Practices Law in 140 Cases Without License; Fined $50

Accused of practicing law without a license, John E. Milnes, 3453 Prairie avenue, was fined $50 yesterday by Judge Joseph J. Drucker in the Renters' court on a contempt charge. Milnes, it was charged, had appeared in the court as an attorney in 140 eviction cases.

STEAL STOCKINGS; JAILED.

Municipal Judge James M. Corcoran of Evanston yesterday sentenced James O'Brien, 42 years old, and G. F. York, 34, both transients, to eight months each in the Bridewell for stealing nine pairs of women's silk stockings.

THIS great streamliner is completely new, not only in appearance and construction, but in performance. Only a trip on the 1939 HIAWATHA will show how gloriously smooth-riding a train can be. There's scarcely a ripple in your cup as you speed along at 100 or more miles an hour.

The matchless smoothness of the HIAWATHA stems from a host of engineering and design innovations. For the first time trucks are equipped with triple coil springs, hydraulic shock absorbers and stabilizing tie-bars that reduce body-sway. Wheels are roller-bearing fitted; and dozens of vibration-absorbing rubber mountings are used in trucks, couplers and buffer-plates.

The distinctive beauty of the HIAWATHA'S appointments, its new type air conditioning, amazing silence, non-glare focused lighting and deeply upholstered seats assure a new degree of luxury and ease.

CONTROLER JOB IS AWARDED TO ROOSEVELT KIN

Many U. S. Jobholders in Election Contests.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Appointment of a new controler of the currency by President Roosevelt today called attention to the number of administration jobholders who have sought elective office this year.

Preston Delano.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Mr. Roosevelt appointed his distant cousin, Preston Delano, governor of the Federal Home Loan bank board, as controler of the currency to succeed J. F. T. O'Connor.

At the same time, the White House announced that the job of controler of the currency was held open for O'Connor after he resigned to make his unsuccessful race for the Democratic governorship nomination in California. Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, said that O'Connor declined a reappointment, preferring to resume the practice of law in California.

Assumes New Post Today.

Delano will assume his duties as controler tomorrow. Since O'Connor's resignation, Marshall Diggs has been acting controler.

Not all New Deal jobholders who have run for elective offices have seen fit to resign, Lawrence S. Camp, United States attorney at Atlanta, Ga., retained that job while running as a Roosevelt blessed 100 per cent yes-man against Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], an intended victim of the President's purge. The defeated Camp still has his job.

Fay Holds His Job.

James H. Fay, a deputy collector of internal revenue in New York City, did not resign to make his successful race against Representative John J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.], chairman of the house rules committee. Fay, a 100 per center, was handpicked by the administration to oppose O'Connor in the purge program. He won the Democratic nomination and still has his job to support him through the November election, in which he will be opposed by O'Connor as the Republican nominee.

PROBE SHORTAGE CHARGE AGAINST REALTY DEALER

The state's attorney's office yesterday began an investigation into the alleged shortage in the accounts of George Kotaska, Berwyn real estate dealer. A warant for his arrest on a charge of embezzlement was issued Monday on the complaint of Mrs. Anna Vosmik, 2119 South 58th court, Cicero. She said she had given Kotaska $2,000 for a property deal, but that he had failed to complete the transaction.

Kotaska has been missing from his office at 6752 Cermak road, Berwyn. He formerly lived at 2105 Wenonah, Berwyn. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright said he had received other complaints charging Kotaska with shortage which total between $10,000 and $15,000. Kotaska, police said, frequented race tracks.

ABANDONED BABY.

A baby boy about 3 weeks old was taken to St. Vincent's orphanage late yesterday after being abandoned in a taxicab at the North Western railway station. The cab driver, John De Piano, 806 Garibaldi place, told police that a woman carrying the child entered his cab in front of 826 South Wabash avenue and rode to the station, where she left without the child.

The woman stopped on the way to the station at the Lutheran Deaconess hospital where a sister said she identified herself as Edna Miller of Rockford. She said her husband was ill and that she had come to Chicago to seek work, but was hampered by the baby. She asked that the hospital keep the child. The sister gave her a dollar and suggested she return to Rockford to find a temporary home for the baby.

DRUNKEN DRIVER OF STOLEN TRUCK KILLS VICTIM, 89

Motorist Seized by Police After Alley Tragedy.

A stolen truck, driven by a drunken driver, crushed an aged man to death last night in the alley behind 3410 South Halsted street. The victim was Jacob Pecek, 89 years old, 821 West 34th street.

Pecek was pinned against the side of the wall by the truck. The driver climbed down, staggered away, and fell in a nearby yard. Policemen Patrick Lynch and James Davis of the Deering street station, seized him there. He identified himself as Albert Hall, 20, of 2812 South Bonfield avenue. Police said he stole the truck from in front of 2831 Archer avenue.

John O'Connor, 26, of 832 East 57th street, who was trying to board a street car at State and Van Buren streets last night was struck by a passing dairy truck and trailer and killed. The truck was driven by George Shibley, 314 Washington boulevard, Maywood. He did not know the trailfer had struck any one. O'Connor was hurled under the trailer's wheels, which passed over him.

Baby Killed By Truck.

Frank Cranz, 18 months old, was killed by a truck in front of his home at 6810 South Elizabeth street. According to the Englewood police, the baby wandered away from his mother, Mrs. Lillian Cranz, and walked against the rear wheel of a north bound truck. The driver, Martin Horwitz, 910 North Springfield avenue, was held for the inquest.

John Pyne, 50 years old, died in the County hospital. He was injured Monday when he was struck by an automobile near his home at 3523 West Jackson boulevard. William Bolton of 5322 Drummond place was the driver.

Harvey Templeman, 52 years old, a farm hand, was killed by the car of a hit and run driver on Grand avenue near Gurnee in Lake county. He lived near Gurnee.

Mrs. Amelia Walters, 29 years old, died in the County hospital or injuries suffered. Sept. 11 in an automobile accident near Adams, Wis. She lived at 3935 Fullerton avenue.

SEEKS ALIMONY CUT; DENIES BOY IS THEIR CHILD

Asserting the boy he supported before and after his wife divorced him is neither his son nor hers, Rex Leach of 1433 West 63d street asked a reduction in his support payments yesterday. The child, Barrett Leach, 5 years old, lives with Leach's former wife, Irene, at 4438 Uiversity avenue. She is 37 years old.

Leach's attorney, M. F. Gruener, told Judge Robert C. O'Connell that Leach was reluctant to ask the reduction, but that Mrs. Leach had brought court action because he was behind in his payments. Gruener said Leach had allowed the boy to be brought into his home and had supported him out of kindness. Judge O'Connell assigned the case for a full hearing by Samuel C. Horwitz, master in chancery.

LETTERS ON THE WPA.

Since THE TRIBUNE began printing its current series of news stories on the WPA we have received a number of letters dealing with those articles. Their volume is too great to permit publication of all in the Voice of the People. But we feel the points made and the questions asked deserve further comment and answer.

There have been compliments, for which we are grateful. There have been complaints against WPA, further substantiating some of the statements made in the news columns. Of these, it is significant that almost without exception the critical writers either do not sign their names, or ask that they be withheld. We quote briefly from one such letter:

"Everything you may say of a critical nature, either constructive or destructive, on your project, brands you as a trouble maker, a Red, a Republican."

Another class of writers defends the "shovel leaner" and blames the bad repute of WPA on inefficiency of his bosses. One of these correspondents says:

"On the particular project on which I have been working we have several times been idle for several days at a time waiting for supplies. The work has sometimes been laid out by incompetent supervisors who did not know how it should be done, nor the object sought, with the result that it had to be done all over again. Such working conditions will ruin any conscientious employé. Please omit name."

We agree. The volume of letters on the subject leads us also to believe there is merit in the writers' charges that political pull is necessary to rise above the $55 a month level of common labor. They feel that it is politics, not lack of ability in relief ranks, which leads those directing WPA to fill fatter and higher salaried jobs with nonreliefers.

Few can fail to sympathize with the girl who writes on a leaf from a school notebook:

"I'm so sick of reading articles by people who slam the WPA workers that I could scream.

"Would your father go to the relief station as the last resort and ask only for food? And would your mother nearly get down on her knees and beg for a job in the station as mine did? And would she be refused, although she had at least fifteen years' experience, and saw lots of well dressed punks being snooty to people, many of whom were better bred, better mannered, than they?

"And would your dad be happy to get on WPA? How would you feel to have your father, who is an experienced painter, classed as a common laborer when men with less talent but political pull get jobs at $95 a month?"

We would feel just as she does, except that we'd be less ladylike in expressing ourselves.

Most important, we think, is the question, direct or implied, in a large number of letters:

"What would you do? If you couldn't get a job in private industry, would you starve, or would you try to get on WPA?"

That's simple. We'd pick WPA, too, and put up with everything that the WPA worker has to put up with, rather than starve. But the fundamental question is not so simple as that. There are, first, the other policies of the Roosevelt administration which make it possible for it to keep 3,000,000 people in semi-bondage on WPA. There is the more immediate question of WPA administration.

Its present setup can be explained. It cannot be excused. At the top and well on down the scale, are the social workers. Call the roll, starting with Hopkins and Williams. How many of them have had the slightest experience in business, particularly in the construction business?

Their training before they went to work for the government was in dealing with social incompetents. No other career could have unfitted them so thoroughly for dealing with the competent workman whom adversity has forced on WPA. The system they set up in the guise of emergency is designed to make itself permanent. Its methods are destructive of the morale of the competent. That destroyed, they have a material more suitable to their Messiah complex.

Where the social workers leave off the politicians take up. Their incompetence and favoritism complete the job. The wonder is not that the WPA worker leans on his shovel. The wonder is, with incompetent social worker administration in Washington and incompetent spoilsman bosses in the field, that he gets anything done at all.

The defect is vital, not superficial. WPA cannot be conducted competently because it has to be run politically and as a pie counter for social workers.

Several Negroes have protested against the article telling how Green Pastures of WPA have enticed members of their race to Chicago from the south. They felt there was a racial reflection. None was intended. It is no reflection on any man to say that he moves to better his condition.

But what do these writers think are the motives of WPA in paying Negroes around $30 a month in the deep south, where they cannot vote, and $55 a month in the north, where they can? Are they motives of genuine friendship to that race, or are they the motives of designing politicians?

MEMORANDUM FOR ZEALOTS.

There is a lesson in Czechoslovakia for all those who are in a hurry to "make this a better world to live in."

Czechoslovakia and the league of nations with its doctrin of collective security were both born in the Versailles treaty. The theory was that when a nation—let us say Czechoslovakia—was menaced, all the other nations would immediately spring to its defense and thus there would never be another resort to arms because the odds against the aggressor would be overwhelming and his morale would be broken by universal condemnation.

It doesn't seem to have worked out quite that way. The signatures to the treaty were scarcely dry before it became apparent that the nations did not take the pledge seriously. Therefore another treaty, the Kellogg-Briand pact, was signed and even more nations pledged themselves to abandon war as "an instrument of policy." By the time Manchuria, Ethiopia, China, and Spain had been written into the record, treaty-breaking had become an ingrained habit. Before Versailles, nations frequently carried out their obligations if only because they feared that if they didn't their turn would come. The habit of treaty breaking owes much to the better-place-to-live-in enthusiasts who tried to push the world faster than it could be made to go in the direction of peace.

There is nothing new in all this. America before prohibition was rapidly becoming a nation of abstainers. Each year saw further restrictions in the territory in which liquor might be sold. Social custom had outlawed even moderate drinking among large sections of the population. But the people who wanted or said they wanted to make the world a better place to live in couldn't wait. They tried to legislate every one in the country into total abstinence and in consequence the consumption of liquor among all classes is higher today than it was before the prohibition experiment was undertaken.

In the century before 1933 America had made extraordinary progress toward a higher standard of living. There had been a gradual, though not unbroken, rise in real wages, a vast increase in the number of jobs, and a gradual and almost unbroken decline in hours of work. The general level of prosperity had risen and the entire population was sharing in greater or less degree in the improvement.

That wasn't fast enough for the New Dealers. The economic system which had distributed 25 million automobiles to the people of this country and kept the cars in use even in a period of extreme depression was regarded as hopelessly inadequate. It must be made over from top to bottom. So must the farming business, though we have never known a famine. Among other things medical practice must also be reorganized. The death rate in the country has been falling steadily and is now lower than it ever has been in history, but social workers meeting in Washington devised a scheme of medical organization which they said was better than the present one; so their proposals must be adopted in order, so it is explained, that the nation may take full advantage of progress in medical science. The objections of the doctors have been dismissed as prejudiced and have been disregarded.

The partition of Czechoslovakia should stand as a warning to those who are in a sweat to make the world a better place to live in. For a hundred years before 1914 there was no general war in Europe and, by and large, prosperity increased and individual liberty was respected in many countries. The zealots, for all their good intentions, don't seem to have improved matters much. The world seems to resent being pushed around even by its idealists.

BUSINESS DURING THE WAR SCARE.

Considering the fact that a war was threatening to break out any minute, and that hostilities were apparently averted by unprecedented direct negotiations between the heads of two rival powers, and the surrender of territory, the market of the last two weeks has shown marked firmness. Security prices were at the worst a week ago Saturday when it appeared that Chamberlain might not be able to put over with France and his cabinet the Berchtesgaden deal, and that Czechoslovakia might fight anyhow. At the bottom that day, average prices were lowest since June 29. About half of the rise which started June 20 had been canceled.

That is not as significant as the fact that average prices were still 33 points higher than on March 31, when the quotations were at the minimum for the year. A protracted and substantial advance in stock prices had been confronted by the worst war scare since 1914 and there was no collapse. Evidently the rise in stocks had something more substantial than sentiment to support it.

Actually business seems to have been affected hardly at all by the thundering of the powers. Steel operations in each of the last two weeks made gains first from 40 to 45 per cent of capacity and then to 47 per cent. There was no abatement in the excited activity in the automobile centers working against time to bring out models which are counted upon to produce a large amount of business. Car loadings in the weeks which ended Sept. 17 were the highest of the year. And building contracts have risen sharply.

We are now approaching the season when the drop in business was very sharp last year. If the improvement continues a while longer, a number of lines will be running ahead of the comparable period in 1937. That will have a strong psychological effect. The objective of business men generally is to beat last year's figures. They are encouraged when they do and downcast when they don't. With the heartening appearance of year to year gains the recovery movement which has just proved itself under fire might be expected to gather momentum.

NO HALVING.

The young man stood before the grizzled mountaineer.

"Mr. Burbridge," he stammered, "I've—I've come to ask you for your daughter's hand."

SPECIALISTS.

"Say, doctor, I asked that nurse to put a hot water bottle at my feet and she stuck up her nose and walked away," complained the patient.

"What else could you expect? That was the head nurse," exclaimed the doctor.

"O, do they specialize that much? Then get me the foot nurse."—Windsor Star.

WANTED: ELEVEN GENERALS.

The Line's recent comment upon the Seated Lincoln by St. Gaudens, which was hidden for twenty years, reminds Arthur Woltersdorf, Chicago architect, of another buried statue. He wants to know what has become of the bronze figure of Frederick the Great which stood at the west entrance of the war college building in Washington, D. C., from 1904 until anti-German propaganda caused its removal in 1918.

We are happy to report that Frederick the Great went back to his pedestal in 1927. He stands there alone in his glory as a reminder of the forgotten plan to have twelve statues of great military commanders around this edifice. [Federal Art Project, here's a job for you.]

"One of the half dozen greatest soldiers of all time," said President Theodore Roosevelt on Nov. 19, 1904, when he accepted this gift to the American people from Kaiser Wilhelm II. At the unveiling twenty army trumpeters blew fanfares to introduce the speakers—Speck von Sternburg, German ambassador, and several American generals.

In the spring of 1918 the "hate the kaiser" movement became so vehement that the war department removed Frederick the Great to the basement of the war college. He remained there for nine years, peacefully resting on his back. His sculptor was Joseph Uphues.

What are your nominations for the eleven other great commanders who ought to be keeping Frederick company?

Message to the Family.

DOROTHY WAS QUIET.

I shall remember you with quiet things.
Perhaps a clear cold star
Set in a haze of blue shall bring your face.
Perhaps a platinum lake
Shall bring the calmness of your smile.
Pale roses
In a vase of blue
Shall capture memory—
Shall make the thought of you
Come gliding
Thoughtfully, gently, slowly,
O'er the bridge of years.
Tears
On some small urchin's face—
A book, a cozy nook—
Lavender, old lace—
Thus I'll remember you!

The Feathered Miracles Men Slay.

William Crowell, St. Louis architect, testifies on his word of honor [we heard him]: His shooting companions, blazing away at feathered game, had wounded a quail. The bird fluttered to ground and took cover in a thicket. They marched in to flush the quarry; he stood outside the brush, waiting to give the coup de grace. Unconsciously he posed as stiff as a ramrod, with his fowling piece held at port arms. The bird rose, flew toward him, and came to perch upon the muzzle of his gun! [Yes, it died then, poor crippled creature.]

Fine Point of Pomology.

Please take Jake Irmiter aside and tell him that the Duchess apple tree has no right to a "t" in its name, for it was not named for Dutchess county, N. Y., but for the Duchess of Oldenberg. A college instructor once corrected my spelling of "Duchess" and I didn't talk back—it seemed the part of wisdom to keep still—but I am not afraid to talk back at Jake. Living in the midst of orchards, I ought to know. Genie.

[Note by the Linemaster—Jake omitted the "t," but the proofroom put it in, after sending a researcher to the Public Library.]

Best Sea Serpent Story.

The latest sea serpent, reported by a Latvian ship's captain to the Riga Academy of Natural Science, and named by him the Atlantosaurus, reminds us that the essence of all sea serpent stories can be found in Rudyard Kipling's brief yarn called "A Matter of Fact." Its moral is: Don't report the serpent if you happen to see him, because nobody will believe you.

Railroad Men's Language.

Live and learn! W. E. Bostwick of Milwaukee informs us that the proper title for the driver of a railway engine is not engineer but engineman. He adds that the engineman may also be called a "hoghead" or a "hogger," because the engine is called a "hog," and that the fireman is also a "tallowpot."

SAFEGUARD YOUR CHILD AGAINST CONTAGIONS.

I DO not wonder that young mothers become perplexed these days with the multitude of immunizing procedures which are recommended for their offspring. Nevertheless, wise parents desire to guard their sons and daughters from the dangers of childhood maladies. Perhaps the recollection of an attack of scarlet fever or diphtheria or an all too vivid memory of a brother or sister—seriously ill with one of these infections—may fill their hearts with determination that their children shall be spared.

We need give the matter no concern during the first few months of life because the babe inherits antitoxins from the mother's blood which will last for some time. But, thereafter, unless reinforced from the outside, the youngster may contract one disease after another.

The greatest hazard of all to the very young is whooping cough, which takes the lives of more infants under the age of 2 years than diphtheria, measles, and scarlet fever combined. Fortunately, there is a vaccine [made after the method of Sauer] which is easy to administer and the reactions from which are not disagreeable. This preparation should be given early because immunity will not develop until four months have elapsed. While security may not be 100 per cent, nevertheless it is sufficiently high [90 per cent or better] to warant its use.

If the disease actually is in progress, the preventive may not be helpful although recourse to it, in some instances, has resulted in a shorter duration with milder symptoms. The suggestion has been offered that since those who are recovering from the affection manufacture gradually their own antibodies [neutralizing elements], two to four teaspoonfuls of blood from one of these victims—withdrawn about the eighth week—will aid in checking the onset of whooping cough. This may be inserted into the muscles of one who has been exposed recently.

Most parents know of the inestimable value of diphtheria toxoid as a means of warding off the "choker." The boy or girl first is given the Schick test [for susceptibility]. If it is negative it should be repeated after a few months and should it become positive, toxoid may be utilized. While distressing responses occur infrequently, they may be avoided entirely by injecting approximately one-tenth of the average dose between the layers of the skin. Within from one to three months the little one will then be shielded from diphtheria. But at the end of another three months the Schick test should be repeated. Only rarely will a second dose be required.

We take it for granted that every child will be vaccinated against smallpox and near the end of the first year of life, fresh vaccine may be rubbed gently into the abraded skin. Many babies will not manifest the slightest illness. But here again the material may be introduced between the layers of the skin with a far higher percentage of effective "takes."

Scarlet fever, one of the most dreaded of our childhood contagions, has been robbed of much of its terror because the Dick test, if positive, may be followed by the giving of scarlet fever toxin. The only untoward feature of this procedure is the fact that in about 10 per cent of those receiving the "shots" some marked reactions will be observed. A plan devised by Martmer is devoid of bad after-effects and consists in rubbing into the skin an ointment containing scarlet fever toxin in some animal fat such as lanolin. Newly exposed children may not exhibit the disease if antitoxin is given promptly.

Against measles we now have an immune globulin [from the blood] which contains the defensive chemicals. While this may not avert it completely the course will be so moderate as to be without danger. Unfortunately, safety does not last long.

Physicians take pride in the fact that their little patients are proof against the ravages of these all too prevalent—but preventable—diseases. The cost is not appreciable when we compare it with the expense incident to a single long illness.

INFLAMED TONSILS.

S. T. writes: What is the difference between quinsy and an ordinary sore throat? Must it be operated on?

REPLY.

Quinsy is an acute inflammation of the tonsils, accompanied by an abscess in or about the gland. As a rule, the pus should be drained. A slight incision is usually sufficient. The ordinary sore throat [tonsilitis] is an inflammatory process unaccompanied by abscess formation.

DUE TO LACK OF IRON.

S. E. writes: What is chlorosis?

REPLY.

A peculiar anemia, affecting mostly girls about the age of puberty. It gets its name from the supposed greenish pallor of the skin. The cause is too little hemoglobin due to an insufficient amount of iron in the diet. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for a list of iron-containing foods. Sometimes the patient will need to take this mineral by mouth.

MARRIAGE LAWS.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would appreciate some information on marriage laws in neighboring states. Would you tell me the nearest states that do not require a definite length of residence or a certificate of health? Also what are the age limits, including Illinois? A. J. A.

Under the Uniform Marriage Evasions Law, which has been adopted in Illinois and in several neighboring states, if a party who is under disability in his home state celebrates in a foreign state a marriage prohibited and declared void by the home state, such marriage will be treated as void in the home state despite the general rule that a marriage valid where celebrated is valid anywhere.

In addition, you should bear in mind that the requirements of the health examination has the almost unanimous approval of informed persons. If one of the parties proposes evasion of this salutary requirement it is a basis for suspicion that such party would not pass the examination.

On these two grounds, we are reluctant to assist in a proposed evasion of the Illinois requirement. If you feel that your facts are exceptional, please state them.

AMALGAMATED ANSWERS BROTHERHOOD.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—I have read a contribution by Virgil Selig, secretary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, in which he took exception to the statement of W. F. Levander, president of the Rapid Transit local of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés, placing the blame for the continued tieup on the North Shore on the dual and interfering activities of this organization and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

I wish to point out that the answer to Mr. Selig's statement can be found in the action taken at the recent convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor. The convention blamed the railroad brotherhoods for preventing settlement of this lockout and passed a resolution supporting the Amalgamated association.

The employés of this railroad have been represented successfully on an industrial basis for nineteen years through the Amalgamated association. They were locked out of employment on Aug. 16 when the receiver canceled the agreement, imposed a 15 per cent wage cut, and refused to arbitrate. While the wages upon this property are not as good as they should be, still they are higher than the wages the brotherhoods have been able to obtain for members working upon similar interurban properties.

These brotherhoods tried to use the National Labor Relations board in furtherance of their efforts to break up the Amalgamated and divide the employés into small craft groups, thereby reducing their effectiveness in collective bargaining. However, the labor board has declined to make a ruling because the Amalgamated has presented the case to the interstate commerce commission, asking that the employés be brought under the Railroad Retirement act, a separate jurisdiction.

There is no doubt that if the brotherhoods would eliminate themselves from this situation a settlement of the lockout could be effected. JONN J. WOODS.

SHOULD BE IN A MUSEUM.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The Chicago Surface Lines company has not preserved the integrity of the investment in equipment or property. While the 1907 ordinance provided for the setting up of a renewal fund, to be taken over by the city when the city purchased the underlying companies, the Surface Lines have failed to take care of current renewals in the property since many years back. Of the 3,669 street cars in operation at the beginning of 1938 over 3,100 have been in operation for twenty-five years or more. Many of them should be museum pieces in the Field museum.

DRUM WANTED: BASS OR SNARE.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Boy Scout troop, No. 215, composed of west side boys, is greatly in need of drums, either bass or snare. The committee in charge feels that somewhere in Chicago drums are stored away in attics which will never be used, and if there are the owner may do his daily good deed by donating it to this worthy cause.

Please call me at Seeley 4523 and arrangements will be made to call for the drum. GEORGE FORTH.

A QUESTION FOR CANDIDATES.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Why don't some of the candidates for congress, etc., express their views in this fall campaign on the fight that is being waged by the national administration against the public utilities?

We have no service as safe, convenient, and cheap as the gas and electricity we use.

The public utilities pay millions in taxes every year and thousands have their earnings so invested, yet the administration would destroy all this just because a few scatterbrains have a personal grudge against them. Some have admitted as much.

No, I am no economic royalist—just an American with a few shares of stock as an investment, trying to stay off relief.

Now let's hear from a few statesmen—pardon me, I mean politicians. I'm listening, and I am sure thousands of others are, too. Thank you.

MRS. L. L. K.

'TWAS BETWEEN THE TWO TOWNS.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Last Sunday your article on "How Much Is a Billion Dollars?" gave many historical dates. Among them it was stated that Charles Martel defeated the Arabs at Tours. This is an error the editors of the otherwise well informed CHICAGO TRIBUNE have made several times in the last twelve years that I have been reading the World's Greatest Newspaper. It was at Poitiers [732 A. D.] that Charles Martel saved Christian civilization by defeating the Arabs.

What authority have I to prove this? Ernest Lavisse, famous French historian [1842-1922], the French Larousse dictionary, and you know 50,000,000 Frenchmen can't be wrong!

AT A POLITICAL PICNIC.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Why all the hullabaloo about the gambling houses? The politicians get away with plenty of that sort of thing; why not others?

A couple of months ago we dropped in on a political picnic at Kolze's grove, at the end of Irving Park boulevard. There was a stand, about 30 feet square, that had coin machines lined around on benches, one right next to the other. There were probably fifty machines, more or less.

Nearly every one of these machines was going steadily. Probably a few people won a few dimes, but the tables in the center looked like a young bank, the way the money was piled up. One of the men was recognized as holder of a rather high local political office.

FOR THE HARD OF HEARING.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Is there any way by which theaters which show vaudeville acts together with movies could be induced to install ear phones for the hard of hearing? You will notice the Palace, State and Lake, and the Chicago do not have them.

Also I would like to know if it is impractical for the legitimate theaters to install them. There certainly would be a grand rush for seats!

There are 150,000 theater loving residents in Chicago who are hard of hearing. RUTH WINN.

FROM A GAMBLER'S WIFE.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Most of the writers in your column who object to Mr. Courtney's ax campaign say they are not gamblers, so what do they know of the sufferings of thousands of wives and children who are the real victims of men who spend their money on betting while the wife sits home waiting far into the night for the money to pay bills, only to have him appear with empty pockets? I am a gambler's wife and wish to state that for every vote Courtney loses he will gain many more. I have been married a quarter of a century and after saving for my old age every penny was lost by my husband's gambling. Today in the sunset of life we can only look forward to our old age pension of not more than $30 a month.

All this expensive furniture being destroyed was purchased with the hard earned dollars of my husband and thousands of others. GAMBLER'S WIFE.

So how about it, Exhibitors?

SUSPECTS PATROLMEN'S LIST.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Many are the rumors going about our fair [?] city to the effect that the patrolmen's list wasn't—ah—cricket.

BLACK INVADERS PUT TO FLIGHT IN PAPER BATTLE

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Knox, Ky., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The Black army of invaders was put to flight today. As the battered remnants retreated in the war game, the pursuing Blue army pounded them savagely from three sides.

Gen. Hugh A. Drum.

This victory ended the paper war that has been in progress a week. Tomorrow Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the Second field army will deliver his critique on the exercise which gave field training to 500 regular, National Guard, and organized reserve army officers of the 5th and 6th corps areas.

While the operations were considered a success, observers expressed the opinion they indicated a need for larger full time staffs for each of the nation's four projected field armies.

Air Force Effective.

They also brought out the effectiveness of the air force and of horse cavalry. The umpires decided that horse units of the provisional cavalry corps, operating on ground unsuitable for mechanized cavalry, captured thousands of prisoners and fifty pieces of artillery in a wide flank movement.

The Blue air force demonstrated a decisive superiority over the Blacks. A fleet of 150 mythical planes delivered a demoralizing attack on the retreating enemy and helped materially in the victory.

The theoretical objective of the invading army was to capture the nation's gold hoard stored at Fort Knox and to take possession of the rich industrial Ohio valley. The defending army successfully defended those prizes and put the enemy to rout.

Supplies Delivered Speedily.

To expedite the pursuit, the 5th corps under Maj. Gen. Robert H. Tyndall, and the 6th corps under Brig. Gen. Karl Truesdell utilized all trucks and busses. They dumped loads of Supplies, ammunition, and food in order to speed up the forward movement of combat troops.

The 37th division [Ohio National Guard] commanded by Maj. Gen. Gilson D. Light was on the right flank. The 5th regular army division under Col. E. A. Fry was in the center. The 38th division [Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia National Guard] commanded by Maj. Gen. E. W. Carter, was on the left flank.

Together they drove forward, using all roads and concentrating on keeping the artillery as far forward as possible in order to nullify any efforts of the Black rear guards to delay pursuit.

Howitzers Rushed Up.

Both Gen. Truesdell and Gen. Tyndall pushed their 155 mm. howitzers to the flanks of their corps where the going was easiest in order to take advantage of the long range of those weapons and fire on the Munfordville bridge, over which the retreating Blacks were passing.

At the end of the exercise weary officers turned their attention to compiling reports for the critique tomorrow, after which officers will disperse. No fatigue was apparent, however, in the long line formed in front of finance officers' desk for government pay-off checks.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Science for All: What You and I Ought to Know

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Science for the Citizen," by Lancelot Hogben. [Knopf, $5.] Published yesterday [1,082 pages].

The author of "Mathematics for the Million," which despite the solemnity of its material was as fascinating as a sleight of hand trick, has now turned his very seeing eye and his keen and delightfully didactic pen to providing his readers with a private tutelage in science.

"Science for the Citizen" ingeniously tells you and me what we ought to know about how science has given us our life today. It does so by considering the sciences not as separate syntheses of pigeon-holed knowledge but as the related means toward man's understanding of the universe.

First Mr. Hogben tells how men "learned to find their way about the world," how the sciences of knowing time, of navigation, of studying the stars [to help in seafaring], of motion in all forms helped "man's conquest of time reckoning and earth measurement." Then he tells of man's study of "matter, power, and health," traces "the story of man's conquest of materials," and indicates "the social progress which it unfolds."

Such is the stupendous task that Mr. Hogben sets himself and performs with such skill that the reader is carried along the fascinating path not only painlessly but with almost wide-mouthed wonder at 'he ease with which his mind travels. Formulae, diagrams, theorems which loom like Mt. Everests in the path to knowledge flatten out into hills under Mr. Hogben's tutelage. Those which one must remember he sets down frankly as "things to memorize" after each chapter. Then he gives us examples to work out not only to test our understanding of the preceding pages but to imprint upon our minds practical applications.

"Science for the Citizen" is less amusing to read—just as reading—than was "Mathematics for the Million." There is less speculation in it, less philosophic application of his material. But to most of us these sciences are more interesting than the science of mathematics. The social implications are more obvious here than in mathematics. Mr. Hogben therefore discusses them less.

"Science for the Citizen" is obviously one of those books you would want to have with you if you were wrecked on a desert island.

"The Joyful Delaneys," by Hugh Walpole. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

Meg, one of the characters in "The Joyful Delaneys," puts down the novel she has been trying to read with the comment: "I know I'm not clever, but I can't read modern novels. If they're intelligent they're about the nastiest people and take the gloomiest view of everything. If they're about nice people and end well, they're stupid. What I want is an INTELLIGENT happy novel. It's not much to ask."

Hugh Walpole offers "The Joyful Delaneys" for readers like Meg. You certainly don't need to be clever to read it, and Mr. Walpole wasn't overwhelmingly clever to write it. And it is about people who aren't at all clever, and who are radiantly happy in spite of the threat of poverty, infidelity, suicide, etc.

The Delaneys own a house which has been in the family for two hundred years and which is to them worth any sacrifice to keep. The house, another house nearby, and the "village" of that small section of London are as much characters in the book as are the humans which inhabit them. The most memorable pages of 'The Joyful Delaneys" are those in which London lives and breathes and has its being.

In the end, just as disaster seems fated, there is the happiest of happy endings for everyone. Here Mr. Walpole proves that he can write successfully even a treacle tale.

This Is Distinguished by Beautiful Writing.

"The Fathers," by Allen Tate. [Putnam, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

Allen Tate, distinguished southern poet and biographer, has written his first novel, "The Fathers." It is a story of pre- and beginning civil war days in Virginia. He has filled his tale with a sense of immediacy by the simple technical trick of writing it in the first person. He has given it perspective by having that first person narrative come from a man ancient in years who remembers the high moments of his youth. "The Fathers," therefore, is overcast by the past while pulsing with the present.

His technique and his unusually beautiful writing are what distinguish Allen Tate's first novel . . . not the story itself, for it has a strange haze about it. It tells of two clashing southern psychologies.

The protagonist of the tale is a boy of 16, trying to understand the two men he loved best—his father, who believed in the Union, although his Virginia blood was drawn like the sap in his trees, deep from native soil, and his brother-in-law George, outlander from Alexandria, who served the confederacy in private devious ways.

Ancient Mesopotamia from Tablets of Clay.

"They Wrote on Clay," by Edward Chierd, edited by George G. Cameron. [University of Chicago Press, $3.] Published Tuesday.

"The Babylonian Tablets Speak Today" is the subtitle of this fascinating little book about the Mesopotamian civilizations of 2,300 to 1,500 odd years before Christ. Frankly written for popular consumption, it presents, in word and illustration, a very brief survey of what Assyriology has unearthed.

Because clay is practically imperishable, inscribed tablets in the possession of the University of Chicago's fine Oriental institute and other museums make it possible to reconstruct whole civilizations. Such tablets give us data about what men and women ate and wore and how they built their houses, provide us with their entire code of laws, tell us what they knew about medicine and surgery, mathematics, and other sciences, and even supply us with volumes of literature from their libraries.

An epilogue says: "In spite of the immense wealth of Latin and Greek literature, we do not know nearly so much about certain aspects of the daily life of Greece and Rome as we know about similar phases of life in a little corner of the Mesopotamian plain."

"They Wrote on Clay" is a goad to popular interest.

BY WILL DAVIDSON.

"The Pageant of Japanese History," by Marion M. Dilts. [Longmans, $3.]

Japan has marched onto the horizon of the average American citizen only in the last half century, and that march has been for the most part a military parade. The centuries in which Japan was a treasure house of art and literature remain befogged by the fumes of field artillery.

It is for the average person that Marion Dilts has written "The Pageant of Japanese History." In 380 pages she has traversed a course that starts in the bailiwick of China's half civilized little cousins on the island twenty-six hundred years ago. Her charmingly conducted tour continues past the earliest of Japan's government buildings; through Buddhist temple gardens with their Chinese priests; on down the years that lifted the Fujiwara family into dominant political and economic position; through the open door with Portuguese and Dutch traders; around the closed door that barred foreign exploitation for 200 years, and finally out onto the open plain of modern Japan.

Miss Dilts traces the rise of the military class, the still existent oppression of the agricultural class, and the development of the imitative curiosity which has made Japan today an odd combination of occidental shrewdness and oriental mysticism.

Of the present situation she says little—being a wise historian. She is satisfied to offer a beautifully condensed history of an important and ancient race.

Another Interpretative Treatment of Japan.

"Japan in Transition," by Emil Lederer and Emy Lederer-Seidler. [Yale University Press, $3.]

Less comprehensive and more inferential that Miss Dilts' book, this is another important study of the little nation that would be the straw boss of the Pacific. The authors dip into the past to explain the present.

Emil Lederer was visiting professor at the Imperial University of Tokio for two years and during that time discovered for himself the strange union of east and west—a union which like that of oil and water can never become a mixture. The psychological shaking stirred by the two philosophies is almost as seismic as the earthquakes that have plagued Japan. In that mental disturbance, the authors find, lies a large part of the explanation of Japan's seemingly suicidal political philosophy.

Full Flavored Novel Is Emotional Study.

"Concord in Jeopardy," by Doris Leslie. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

One of Doris Leslie's recent books, "Full Flavour," makes an appropriate descriptive adjective for "Concord in Jeopardy." This novel is rich and meaty, full in flavor. It traces the life of Alexander Concord from babyhood to maturity, spending so much time on his infancy and his background that he emerges as a real person, though a far from normal one.

He has the artist's temperament with all of its gusty emotions and exaggerated sensitivity. His childhood is dreary and squalid. It is not until, as a young man, he first sees Italy and studies art there that he knows what happiness is. He falls madly in love with a woman old enough to be his mother and because of her constant demands on him emotionally and financially his work deteriorates to the mediocre.

He marries Brenda and they return to London. The last chapters describe his final revolt, his romance with the daughter of a writer friend, and his days as a soldier in the world war. As the revelation of the emotional and artistic development of an Englishman, "Concord in Jeopardy" is an interesting document.

A Witty, Satirical Tale with a Timely Theme.

"Saints in Summertime," by Brinckerhoff Jackson. [Norton, $2.50.]

The scene of this witty and satirical novel is a small, imaginary country in central Europe. The pattern of Anton Westerling's life resembled his daily articles in the People's Voice, the liberal paper. Both were moderate and correct in tone, based on a reasonableness which tolerated the unreasonableness of others. It was rather a shock to the middle aged Anton, therefore, to be flung one summer into the center of not only his wife's scatter brained relatives, each a rugged individual with a loud voice of his own, but into the heated political fight in the little village of Selo.

"Saints in Summertime" is, superficially, the story of how well, or poorly, Anton, the passive believer in democratic rights, weathered this rude contact with individual and mass hysteria. Behind this comedy of summer in Selo, Brinckerhoff Jackson portrays the conflict now raging throughout the world between government by reason and government by emotion.

Murder and Romance in Scottish Highlands.

"Smouldering Fire," by D. E. Stevenson. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]

The ruined castle isn't half of it. There's an enchanting murder and a charming romance in this story of the Scotch highlands by the author of "Miss Buncle's Book."

It's a rather strange story, somewhat unbelievable at times; yet everything's almost too predictable once you've made up your mind to believe it. The impoverished young Scotch landowner rents his estate to wealthy Londoners for the shooting. And one of the house party guests turns out to be the very girl he has been dreaming about since he saw her once for a few minutes in London.

Miss Stevenson has given glamor to the landowning class that seems to cling to its Scotch estates the more fiercely for adversity. She has made live the tenants who look upon the landowner as their lord, guard his secrets for him against the world and Scotland Yard, and kill for him when it seems the thing to do. And she has created a villain who enjoys being a villain, even when it seems a frightful lot of trouble for the fun he gets out of it.

Group of Short Stories by a Master of Irony.

"Emily," by Sally Benson. [Covici-Friede, $2.]

This is a collection of short stories, most of them previously published in magazines by an apt master of irony.

Mrs. Benson's understanding of women, and it is of them she writes, is so keen as to be cruel, so perceptive as to seem macabre. Her humor is deadly, her characterizations as pure as a stainless steel blade.

The title story, "Emily," is one of the best in the collection. In it a sister comes to Emily's house after she is dead. She roams the house over, accompanied by a testy housekeeper still resentful of the presence of the dead woman, and finds only one token of the whimsical, lovable sister she knew—a candy Easter egg. You will remember this long after reading it.

You will remember, too, "Profession: Housewife," a story of rare feminine brutality. But for delicacy, almost Mansfieldian in its clarity, "My Cup Runneth Over" is recommended. It is an exquisite, sad little thing.

U. S. Evaluated in Life Stories of Immigrants

BY LLOYD WENDT.

"Green Worlds," by Maurice Hindus. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.]

"This Is My Country," by Stoyan Christowe. [Carrick & Evans, $2.75.]

Powerful antidotes against the wash of foreign propaganda beating on American institutions are two new autobiographies by immigrants. They are not only fascinating stories but they tend to restore an appreciation of basic American accomplishments which have brought comparative security and well being to all her people.

"Green Worlds," especially, forces a revaluation of America in the light of the conditions millions of immigrants leave behind. This does not enhance the condition of those in adversity here, but it drives home an appreciation of values so accepted here they are lost among criticisms and complaints.

Maurice Hindus quietly, yet passionately, appreciates and loves these values. The story of his life is not so much what is happening to him, but what happens about him. His vivid word pictures of mud sodden Russian villages and the green tranquility of American farms provide splendid descriptive writing. The incidents and drama among the people around him portray two worlds in transition. By contrast he demonstrates the significance of change. In these changing worlds he finds his values, always near the soil.

More personal and sentimental is the story of Stoyan Christowe, "This Is My Country." Coming to America as a boy of thirteen, Christowe has memories of his native Macedonia less bitter than those of Hindus. Yet Christowe more fiercely speaks his love of his new land. To the native American such adoration is amazing yet Christowe is quite obviously sincere.

Like Hindus, Christowe loves the soil. Consequently the first and last parts of his book, telling of the country in America and Bulgaria, reach heights that the midportion, describing his days in Chicago, fail to attain.

The Twelve Best Pictures.

[Written in Chicago.]

George E. Schuppe, assistant to Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, was the first to answer this column's inquiry, addressed to the movie fans, about the twelve pictures that the fans would prefer most to see again. . . . The idea of the fan poll is to learn what pictures John Krimsky of the New York World's fair, should exhibit there for movie fans from all over the country. . . . So mail in your lists to THE TRIBUNE immediately, because Krimsky hasn't a great deal of time.

Mr. Schuppe's list of twelve follows: 1, "Birth of a Nation"; 2, "The Miracle Man"; 3, "Ben Hur"; 4, "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse"; 5, "Lives of a Bengal Lancer"; 6, "Little Women"; 7, "David Copperfield"; 8, "The Great Ziegfeld"; 9, "All Quiet on the Western Front"; 10, "Romeo and Juliet" [à la Shearer]; 11, "Tom Sawyer" [1938 version]; 12, "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Betty Schneider lists the ten movies she'd enjoy seeing again: "Only Yesterday," "The Informer," "Diamond Jim Brady," "The Life of Emile Zola," "Captains Courageous," "The House of Rothschild," "David Copperfield," "Grand Hotel," "A Free Soul," "Dodsworth." She adds: "Sorry I can't include 'Alexander's Ragtime Band' in this list, as I was somewhat disappointed and sorry that I could not agree with your opinion of this picture."

Roy Wagner says he finds it difficult to confine himself to a dozen, being compelled to leave out "Covered Wagon," "Variety," "Way of All Flesh," and "Blue Angel," but finally agrees on this group: 1, "Birth of a Nation"; 2, "Hunchback of Notre Dame"; 3, "Thief of Bagdad"; 4, "Orphans of the Storm"; 5, "All Quiet on the Western Front"; 6, "Chu Chin Chow"; 7, "Street Scene"; 8, "The Informer"; 9, "Mutiny on the Bounty"; 10, "Bengal Lancers"; 11, "The Good Earth"; 12, "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

The one picture that is named over and over again in all of the twelve best lists is "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." So, too, is D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation." The fans have long memories. Edna Fitzgerald submits this listing: 1, "Tol'able David" with Richard Barthelmess; 2, "Sea Beast" with John Barrymore; 3, "Blue Angel" with Marlene Dietrich and Emil Jannings; 4, "Dinner at Eight"; 5, "Phantom of the Opera" with Lon Chaney; 6, "Front Page" with Pat O'Brien; 7, "Journey's End" with Colin Clive; 8, "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" with Helen Hayes; 9, "It Happened One Night," with Gable and Colbert; 10, "All Quiet on the Western Front"; 11, "Cimarron"; 12, "What Price Glory."

A fan who wishes his name withheld offers this selection: "Blood and Sand" with Rudolph Valentino," "Monsieur Beaucaire," "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Man's Castle," "When a Man Loves," "The Good Fairy," "Robin Hood of El Dorado," "The Firefly," "Naughty Marietta," "A Star Is Born," "Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

Jack Moran from Grosse Point, Mich., would prefer "Cavalcade," "Wings," "Smilin' Through," "Winterset," "The Life of Emile Zola," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Tale of Two Cities," "The Gay Divorcée," "Victoria Regina," "Prisoner of Zenda," "The Desert Song," "The Great Ziegfeld," "Rose Marie," "Hell's Angels," "David Copperfield," "The Dark Angel."

Mrs. Fred Biffar insists on these: "Barretts of Wimpole Street," "The Lost Horizon," "House of Rothschild," "The Great Ziegfeld," "Life of Louis Pasteur," "Dodsworth," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Dinner at Eight," "Cavalcade," and "Marie Antoinette."

Well, so far I'm really amazed at you movie fans. No Chaplin picture good enough to make the first twelve? What about "The Kid," "The Gold Rush"? What about "A Farewell to Arms" or Helen Hayes' superb animation of "What Every Woman Knows"? What about the tenderest love story ever unfolded on the screen, "One Way Passage"?

How come you have forgotten "Cabinet of Dr. Caligari"? Surely that was exciting, bringing to the screen the distortion of images that paved the way to an important movie era. And why move away from "The Awful Truth" or "Stage Door?" Distance of course lends enchantment, but just because a thing is recent doesn't diminish its importance.

Not a Walt Disney picture represented in your lists? Fie upon you. In fact, fee, fie, fo, fum on you for overlooking Disney. His "Three Little Pigs," his "Old Mill," and his "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" are masterly cinema contributions. You simply have to include one of these in any celluloid index. Now come on, get to work. You're not paying enough attention to your home work.

Esquire's Bob Singer points out that in the midst of Greater Movie Week three Chicago theaters—the Admiral, the Drake, and the Rivoli—not only offer double features but TRIPLE features. The Rivoli, as if ashamed to offer only three full length features for 15 cents, conciliates its conscience by offering sets of dishes to the women patrons!

We are ready to start west on the Chief. At Williams, Ariz., we are going to get off the train and take a trip to the Grand Canyon. We'll go through the Painted Desert, then on to the Grand Canyon. It will be our first closeup of this country, though I've flown above it and passed through it on the Santa Fe. It will be a short trip, as I've got to be in Hollywood Tuesday to write about the glamor chickadees.

From the notebook:

Look up "Susie Q." Susie is a very silly but very cute little cellophane number, a doll for the dressing table whose insides are not of sawdust but of brilliantly colored powder puffs. She wears a peak hat full of guest puffs in different colors and rests on a base filled with velour puffs in various sizes.

She's very inexpensive and will undoubtedly walk away with this year's honors in the bridge prize division. You have to see her to appreciate her; mere words can't do justice to her charms.

In one State street store it's mandatory for every one of the pretty elevator girls to wear her hair piled high. It makes them look prettier than ever, and has a decided effect on the customers, who decide that they want theirs high, too.

With colds raging all over Chicago the "waterless shampoo" is in great demand. This is accomplished with a liquid that lathers when it is rubbed into hair and scalp. There is no rinsing at all. You simply remove this lather [and the grime] with a towel.

Men like it especially, we have been told, and it is one of the best of beauty aids to have around a sickroom because the shampoo can be so simply managed. Women who want to shampoo in a hurry use it too. It cleanses the hair very thoroughly and leaves it manageable.

Good Morning!

Family loyalty is the axle on which the plot of "Sing You Sinners" revolves.

"United we stand, divided we fall" is the unspoken but lived up to creed of the Beebe family.

The Beebes are four. Mother and three sons—a big, middle size, and little male Beebe. There'd be a Beebe daughter-in-law could Big Brother Beebe take time enough off from supporting the other Beebes to collect a little money for marriage purposes. BUT——

Middle size Brother Jim, while the most lovable cuss in the world, is like so many lovable cusses—a fellow with "a pocketful of dreams"—and dreams only. No cash. No practical getup'ngo. No sense of responsibility. Middle size brother is, in addition to what he isn't—a swapper. He'll swap anything for anything.

This propensity leads to his break from home ties and his descent from his native midwest town upon Los Angeles, where he opens a swap shop. He swaps the shop for a race horse. And, well the cards show that race horses bring lots of trouble to folks whose names begin with "B".

"But there IS a happy ending?" you inquire with bated breath.

O dear YES! And how!

"Sing, You Sinners" is one of those human, melody, melo, and humor strung dramas that the whole world loves. It has charm, punch—and a really hair raising horse race. [Note: The winnah's a hoss from the Crosby stables.]

Bing and Fred MacMurray are joyously at home in the rôles of Mother Beebe's two big boys. Donald O'Connor—a newly discovered and rich little lode—makes small Mike a real and appealing boy. Elizabeth Patterson is great as the mother who raised her boys to make music and sees to it that they do. And Ellen Drew—a Chicago Parker High school girl, I'd have you know!—is adorable as David's heart's desire. She's the gentle type—a little shy, but never awkward, and pretty as a June Sunday.

Direction, staging, dialog, and other makin's are to the taste of the average American audience. Songs are hummable and familiar. The hit? "Small Fry." This, as sung by Bing as an old man, Fred as an old woman righteously knitting, and Donald as one of a rebellious younger generation, gets—and deserves—a large hand.

See you tomorrow.

Southern Viewpoint.

A pretty girl from Georgia dropped into a Dearborn street bookstore and chatted with the proprietor after she had made her purchase. Politics was touched upon — and President Roosevelt was mentioned.

"That awful man," she said in her southern voice. "Down our way we think he's the worst President we've had since Lincoln."

Some of the south side alleys in the Negro section of Chicago have become little business streets. Enterprising colored business men and women have set up shops or started eating houses in small garages. Chicken shacks, barbecue stands, and fish fry joints are most numerous. Each has its radio or phonograph which pours forth swing music all day and most of the night.

Then there was the lady columnist (not this one) who was introducing a contributor to her husband and forgot his (her husband's) name.

The first campus gag of the season comes from the University of Illinois. Edgar Barton, law student, was chatting with Dave Welling, Urbana resident.

"I understand there is gambling on the campus," he said.

"I don't believe that," replied Barton. "I'm a proctor."

Newest Boleros Use Metallics for Decoration

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New embroidered bolero jackets have arrived to take your pennies. Sleek, small affairs in wine red, tobacco brown, forest green, and black are blazing with sequins, silver braid, and colored bead work down the front.

Sleeves are short and the necklines uncollared. These jackets are decorative, new, and priced for the small clothes allowance. They are ideal finds for separate dull crêpe skirts or the newest sheath slips in velvet or dull crêpe. With one of these soft velvet boleros as a top, a complete and very dressy parade costume is possible.

See the scalloped edge bolero jackets of thin unlined suede and get another shopping thrill. These have shallow scallops at the edge of the short sleeves and all around the edge of the bolero itself. With the boleros comes a good straight belt of the same suede. Colors are good fall shades in old gold, wine red, sooty black, and a Lincoln green.

If you want something new and different and like plaids, make your own new cardigan and slipover sweater duet out of any of the thin scotch plaid wools. The slip-on under blouse is made with very brief sleeves, a crew neck, and can be slit down the back for about four inches and fitted with a zipper.

The cardigan top is made with regulation long sleeves, the usual cardigan streamline, and the edges covered with gros-grain ribbon to harmonize with any color in the plaid.

Exhibit Traces the Growth of Modern Art

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Katharine Kuh gallery, 540 North Michigan avenue, opened its fourth season this week with a rather mixed modern show, some of the work dating back to 1906. It is the kind of a show that brings you up against a blank wall, there does not seem much future in it, nor, if the truth must be told, much reason to endow it with a present.

Except for ardent sympathizers with the modernist movement, there seems little reason to have exhumed these works. Far better to let the dead past bury its dead and get on to something alive and vital. After all, who really cares on what bad painting Kandinsky and Jawlensky stepped to the heights of worse painting from which they attack the universe today?

Those who like the modern Kandinsky will probably like the boy from which he sprang, and those who do not will find the juvenile efforts equally unpleasing. But why select Kandinsky? The entire exhibit is made up of deliberate, self-sufficient canvases complete in the moment themselves. Much of the painting is hard, even violent; the colors are stormy. Nothing of spiritual value and little of beauty are present. It is a distinctly modern-minded exhibition and will have its greatest appeal for those who are themselves modern-minded.

A unique painting has just come to Chicago, a painting which was the "Masterpiece of the Month" last June in the Los Angeles museum. It is the portrait of Donald Smith by Sir Henry Raeburn and may be seen in the Anderson galleries, 530 South Michigan avenue.

Donald Smith looks a genial and prosperous gentleman. He was, to be exact, a banker in Edinburgh, Scotland, and at one time the mayor of that city. The portrait is one of the most important examples of Raeburn to be found anywhere today. It was in the great Raeburn show in Edinburgh in 1876 and is mentioned in all works on the English portrait painter.

Rather curiously this Donald Smith is tied up with a story by Robert Louis Stevenson. While he was a banker a certain Deacon Brodie robbed the Smith bank and was not discovered in his crime for twenty years. Stevenson uses the incident in a book. There was in Stevenson's room as a boy a piece of furniture made by this same Deacon Brodie, who, except for his one lapse into theft, was a cabinet maker of some fame in the Edinburgh of his day.

Jacket of Twin Sweater Set Is Cardigan Style

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Twin sweater sets are more popular than ever before, and for variety the jacket is made sleeveless and in cardigan effect with the under sweater having the same front fastening and neckline as the outer jacket. The sleeves illustrated are short and puffed. The twin set is knitted in ribbing and stockinette stitches, which are the epitome of simplified knitting and which contain a maximum of style. The sweater and cardigan jacket are available in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

Instructions for knitting the twin sweater set with the sleeveless cardigan jacket, No. X-80, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. David's thoughts are mostly about Betsy, his former love, now living in England, though he knows not where. By accident the two stumble into the wrong house. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them, they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But at the party next door young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. Betsy Greentree, David's former love, while traveling in Europe with her Aunt Fanny Rush after the death of her father, had met and married an Englishman.

INSTALMENT VI.

UNACCOUNTABLE FEARS.

Alison recalled that Nathan Greentree's widowed sister was offhand, undomestic, fond of poking her nose into little known regions entirely on her own. On the rare occasions when Mrs. Rush had played hostess at the summer residence in Woods Hole one had been reminded of a fierce eyed falcon, straining angrily at the leash. Elizabeth must have found close quarters with her eccentric aunt somewhat trying. Had she rushed into matrimony as an escape?

"Know the husband's name?" she inquired.

The cutting was from a New York paper, dated two and a half years back. As long as that—and he had been carrying it about with him all this time! News relayed from Paris, where, on June 16 of that year, a marriage had been solemnized at the English church between Miss Elizabeth Ann Greentree of New York City and Mr. Geoffrey Edward Scarpath, only son of the late Rear Admiral Scarpath of Hampshire, England. Nothing more, except that the bride was given away by her aunt, Mrs. Frances Penn Rush.

"Scarpath," mused Alison. "Funny sounding name. I wonder if Colin knows it? We'll ask him in the morning."

"Colin? Who's he?"

"O, David, wake up! My doctor friend. You've met him. He's joining us for breakfast. Come to think of it, I believe he's from Hampshire."

"The blond chap. I see."

"Look, what's the time? Because if I'm going to get up and fry bacon for you two lazy hulks I've got to be turning in." She began operations on the divan, but paused to ask, "What, by the way, made you start thinking about Elizabeth?"

"This and that. Nothing special."

"Liar! Come clean. It was something that happened tonight."

She drew in her breath.

"I know," she whispered. "Something you noticed in that house. What?"

"Just a book. On that sideboard . . ."

"The Tauchnitz. I saw, stories by Katherine Mansfield. Well?"

"I tell you it's not worth mentioning! Two initials scribbled on the flyleaf—E. G.—and the one word Cannes. If it hadn't been for what we heard . . ."

"Her handwriting?" broke in Alison tensely.

"I wasn't sure. It looked the same—and there was one other little thing. Pages turned down." David moistened his lips. "She did that. I used to row her about it. That day in Pilgrim's Haven she told me she'd just discovered Katherine Mansfield and was dippy over her things."

"Lots are—and plenty of people dog ear their books."

"O, I daresay it's bilge. Sure to be, but this second woman being sick . . ."

"Ill, please, in England! Sick's what you are when you lean over the rail. And listen, nitwit! Can you see Elizabeth, our pampered kid, living in that ghastly place? Musty smelling—and think of the furniture!"

"Not theirs."

"But even so, she's married to a British admiral's son!"

"Well, what about it?"

"Social eminence. Catch him so much as considering a house of that kind. Why, it just isn't done! No, David, forget it. That wasn't Elizabeth we heard screaming . . ." She stopped, struck by a disturbing thought. "David, darling, did it sound like her voice?"

He had got up and was gloomily laying on the table his watch and loose silver. She saw him wince, then shake his head.

"I'm getting it," said she sympathetically. "She was in your mind and imagination did the rest. Look, David, why couldn't it have been a parrot? We've not one atom of proof that woman was lying. Her sort might get upset over anything. So long now, I'm going to bed."

In the midst of hanging his dinner jacket over a chair he paused, staring at the vision risen suddenly before him. Fresh, so vivid it hurt.

Elizabeth Greentree, the brown legged kid outstripping him in the race to the raft—hauling herself onto the wet boards, laughing back at him. Shyly laughing, and shaking the salt drops from eyes deeply, poignantly violet. Long braids she had then, and water-blackened they streaked in soaked tails over her shoulders. One had unraveled. She was plaiting it up again with her little, slim fingers, ribbon held in her teeth. . . .

"Hell and damnation!" Viciously he knotted the cord of his pajamas. "She's married—has been for two years. Can't I drop her clean out of my thoughts?"

He had done so till now with considerable success—or so he had believed. To be sure he had gone on carrying around that snapshot and the clipping, but why on so remote an excuse was the whole thing crumbling to bits?

"I've not a leg to stand on. That scream couldn't have been from her. Sheer impossibility! I'll get rid of the notion now and . . ."

Hand on the lamp switch he broke off. Why in God's name had the woman in brown started sweating when she heard those words, "Mr. Beddoes, from New York"?

Alison poured a last round of her superb American coffee, set the percolator on the harth, and shifted the electric waffle irons to a safer position. All else that remained of her Sunday breakfast—satin smooth grapefruit shells, a pile of sticky plates—had been carted to the kitchen. Now she could loll back on cushions to watch her two menfolk reveling in the comfort she had created—which she proceeded to do with vast content.

Colin Ladbroke, hunched lazily against the bookshelves beside her, extended his English brand of gaspers. She took one, because he had offered it, and smiled back into his blue eyes.

Bending toward the flaming spill she noticed thrillingly the faint aroma of his comfortably old tweeds. She also grew aware of the strong, light hairs on his wrists, and at the same time thought how for the moment his features had lost their somewhat driven expression, product of a new practice not wholly paid for.

Till the last minute this morning she had been afraid some patient would rob him—and her—of this oasis.

Had she let him see too much? She tore her gaze from his vague but disturbing challenge and let it rest on the chrysanthemums he had brought her—chill, spicy, blending perfectly with her beige walls and carpet.

The divan was again a divan, heaped with gold and bronze cushions. The fire glowed red, and how well Boxall's new publications showed up in their smart, varnished jackets!

Alison remembered David's problem.

"Colin," she said, "in your part of the world have you ever come across any people named—what is it now?—O, yes, Scarpath! It's the admiral I mean, or rather his son."

"Scarpath?" The doctor squinted curiously at her through an aura of smoke. O, yes—near Lymington. You're referring to young Geoffrey, aren't you? I was up at Oxford with him, as it happens—though it's not likely he'd remember me. Friend of yours?"

Doormat Mate Cringes Before His Lazy Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I work nights and get home at 5 a. m. No matter what time I arise, my wife gets up after I do. She pokes around until I get so tired of waiting that it is I who gets the breakfast. After breakfast, when the dishes have to be done, she always finds something else to do, to get out of doing the dishes. Then she sits down and works puzzles and reads the paper.

"She works five minutes and sits down fifteen minutes for a cigaret. The house is almost always neglected unless I do most of the cleaning. If I say anything to her she starts to swear and yells so loud that the neighbors can hear her three houses away.

"If I threaten to leave her, she says 'go ahead,' because she knows I wouldn't on account of being afraid our little boy would be neglected. As it is he doesn't get the best of care, but I am afraid he would get less if I left. If he cries in the morning she lets him cry until he wakes me up.

"I have tried coaxing her, pleading with her, begging, fighting, and I even made a practice of bringing home flowers to her whenever I made a little extra money, but nothing helps. M. F."

Also, you have a picture of a man who, by his abject humility, invites the sort of treatment he is getting.

If we were the provider and that dame didn't get our breakfast for us, keep a tidy home and attend the baby's needs, we'd put on a scene she wouldn't forget.

We'd hold out money on her until she showed signs of earning it. We'd turn bully.

"Streamlined" Silhouette Has Flat Abdomen

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you have a mind to study your contemporaries, or women of any age, for that matter, you might learn a lot simply by noticing the abdominal contours. You'll be shocked at how many abdomens that should be flat are not. You'll see that it is not only overweight sisters who let their figures protrude. Thin women often are just as guilty and, if anything, it looks worse on them.

Among your own kind, neither thin nor fat, old or young, you will count twenty women with abdomens not flat to one whose is.

A flat abdomen is the pivot, one might say, upon which the streamlined figure swings. If the abdomen protrudes ever so little, the silhouette can't be or look streamlined.

There will always be silhouette sloppiness if the abdomen is not held flat. The outstanding characteristic of the matronly figure is that exact thing—the bulging abdomen. When we gain weight, the fat invariably is first deposited inside the abdomen. This is especially true as we grow older. So that the perfect figure regulator is the flat abdomen, held that way by force of will and muscular training.

NEW IDEAS IN FOODS: Wheat flour now can be made by a new process which leaves in the germ, a nutritional element. Bread made from this flour is rich in vitamin B-1. Flavor and aroma are said to be better in bread baked from the germ flour.

"Skinless" wieners are making a big hit with consumers. Instead of the old type of casing, many wieners now are being cased in vegetable parchment which zips off at the pull of a tab. . . . Popular, too, are the new cylindrically shaped boned hams. Butt end and shank end look the same size, and slices are uniform and handsome.

SEASONINGS TO TRY: Dill tops, chopped, in potato salad, and dill seeds in soups and salads. Don't confine the use of this fine seasoning to pickles. . . . Carrot tops, minced and used in place of parsley for parsley-eyed potatoes and other good dishes. Parsley and carrots belong to the same family.

"That apple a day may keep the doghouse away," says Cora the Cook, making an apple pie for Grumpy Gus. She and we recall school day favor bought by a shiny red apple for the teacher. She suggests women drivers carry polished apples to placate angry traffic cops. Speaking of apples, here's a rich apple bread made like our popular banana-nut bread, cake fashion. In fact, it's almost more cake than bread.

Quick Apple Bread.

[1 Pound Loaf.]

¼ cup shortening
1 cup unpeeled ground apples
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1½ tablespoons sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups sifted flour
½-1 cup nuts

Cream shortening and sugar and beat in the eggs. Add apples, sour milk, and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together several times and mix into the first combination. Add nuts last. Put batter into a well greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to an hour.

A reader has requested this recipe for canned sandwich spread which was printed several years ago. She's made it and likes it, so for her and others who may want to try it, here's the formula for creamy pepper relish:

Creamy Pepper Relish.

[Sandwich Spread.]

1 pint ground green tomatoes
2 red peppers, ground
2 green peppers, ground
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup water
1 cup ground sweet pickles
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup vinegar

Combine tomatoes, peppers, and salt. Let stand a few minutes, then drain off juices. Add water and cook until vegetables are tender. Combine with pickles. Blend other ingredients and cook until thick and creamy. Combine the two mixtures, cook for 2 to 5 minutes, and seal in clean, hot jars.

Ideal for Bright Colors

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This dress is fortunate in that it is an ideal medium for the use of bright colors. If you have had a longing to make a gay frock, indulge your impulse with this pattern. The sketch at the right shows how pretty the frock is in light shades. As a matter of fact, the original is teal blue crêpe and, as you know, teal is a bright, flashing shade. If you prefer black or some other dark shade, you won't go wrong, but this is the season for color.

The shirring at the neckline softens the bodice as well as flattering the throat. The puffed sleeves may be either long or short. The waistline is built up high at the sides, and there is a long panel down the center front. Around the waist is a narrow belt, either self-material or lether.

Style No. 3372 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of ribbon.

Chicagoans Await Word from Relatives in Hurricane Zone

Many Chicagoans spent a busy day yesterday trying to get some news from the hurricane swept eastern seaboard where many of their relatives and friends were living. Few succeeded in getting any news.

Among the Chicagoans in the storm area are William J. Chalmers, 86 years old, and his wife, both of whom had been ill in their summer home at Watch Hill, R. I.; Mrs. Frank B. Mulford, at Stonington, Conn.; Miss Carolyn Wilson, at Mason's Island, Conn.; Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, at Osterville, Cape Cod, and Mrs. Alonzo H. Waterman, at Derby, Vt. Friends had received no word from them up to last evening.

Those known to be safe included: Miss Mary Mitchell Wallace of Mason's Island, fiancé of Richard Baum; Mrs. Lynn Gratiot and her son, at Stonington, and Mrs. deKoven Phelps and her son, at Watch Hill.

Edward L. Ryerson, left for the east as soon as he heard from Mrs. Ryerson that their house at Marion, Mass., was wrecked, but that she and their daughter, Mrs. George A. Ranney Jr., were safe.

Call City-Wide Congress to Map Recreation Plans

Dr. Philip L. Seman, chairman of the Chicago recreation commission, yesterday announced plans for a city-wide recreation congress to be held at the Hotel Sherman on Nov. 21. Civic leaders and representatives of various professional organizations have been invited. Group discussions and forums on the problem of recreation for all citizens will be held.

Puppet Carnival.

A puppet carnival sponsored by the Chicago park district will be held today in Hamilton and Jefferson parks. Each park group will produce a play and exhibit work.

Make It Easy for Child to Confide in You

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Don't make it hard for your children to confide in you.

"Of course, I wouldn't. Anyhow, we're very close to each other, my children and I," many parents will say.

Still without meaning to or realizing it, you may repel certain confidences unless you watch yourself. If you are startled, alarmed, or critical, or shocked, or too quick with remarks and comments, you may block future spontaneous revelations by your child, revelations important to you as the guardian and protector of your child's inner as well as outer life.

This may help you to visualize what I mean: If you yourself did something you weren't proud of and confided it to one of your family, and they "lit into" you for it, wouldn't you avoid giving that person another opening for "dressing you down?" I should, and it wouldn't matter how much I deserved it, either.

Now, how you will receive a confidence depends entirely upon what it is. But three things you must be. You must be interested, ready to give your attention and, as a rule, rather matter-of-fact. Especially must you be careful how you take it, if the story you're hearing is one that is about some child, or happening which shocks you. Be quietly receptive and casual, or you'll check the outpouring.

The same holds true if your child divulges something that he, himself, has done of which you disapprove.

"Did you, dear? How come?" will pave the way for your hearing all the ins and outs of the matter, which will in turn pave the way for your talking things over with him or planning action.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: A few days ago, in rubber bridge, a deal came up which turned out unfortunately for my opponents, although they had what appeared to be excellent hands.

"East, dealer.

SOUTH

♣ 6 5 4 3

East	South	West	North
2 spades	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

"As the hand was played, South opened the six of clubs. Declarer took the trick and, after pulling trumps, led hearts. Each time South went just high enough to take the trick and each time returned a club, getting the contract one trick.

"An inspection of the hands shows that East and West could make either three no trump or five diamonds against any defense, and that against North's normal opening of the club queen West could make seven diamonds.

"While this hand is quite unusual, I recall similar hands which have turned out disastrously because of lack of entries. Consequently, I have developed a theory that in cases such as this [both partners holding solid trump suits], the result is usually better if the hand with no entry outside of the trump suit plays as declarer, even though his suit is a minor.

"I would appreciate your comments. R. F. B., Illinois."

My mail this week seems rather filled with reports of three bids that should have been two bids. East, it will be observed, had a hand that fully met the requirements for an opening two spade bid. He had four and one-half tricks without his plus values, and although he actually lost all four of his hearts, certainly he could not consider them all losers in so far as the bidding was concerned. He had every right to figure his total losers at no more than three, which, of course, gave him an excellent two bid. I have no fault to find with my correspondent's theory. With any such a hand as this, the final contract should be in the suit of the partner who holds no outside entry but does have a long, solid trump suit. If the opening bid had been correctly chosen, a slam in diamonds unquestionably would have been reached by the following bidding:

East	South	West	North
2 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 spades	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

That this slam could be defeated by an opening heart lead from North would not be a legitimate argument against it. In the first place, there could be no assurance that a heart would be selected as the opening lead and in the second, there was no good reason why the ace-queen had to lie over the king-jack. I must say that East had hard luck to lose all four of his hearts, and with them his contract, but the fact remains that the hand was played in the wrong suit and at the wrong level.

The Housewife

We've had a number of letters from readers who want to know what they can do to remove dog stains from their expensive living room rugs. Now there is a product which is made for this special purpose. It should be applied as soon after the damage is done as possible. It not only prevents further bleaching and staining of the rug, but will remove an odor as well.

This liquid is bottled in half pint bottles and is not expensive.

MRS. PAGE AND PATTY BERG TO PLAY FOR TITLE

Enter Final Second Straight Year.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Patty Berg of Minneapolis, will battle 36 holes today at the Westmoreland Country club for the forty-second women's championship of the United States Golf association.

The match will be one of the most unusual ever played, for it is the first time in the match play history of the association that the champion and runnerup of a preceding year have faced each other in the final again. This covers a span of 84 championship arguments—42 men's amateurs and 42 women's. In the 1937 title match in Memphis, Mrs. Page defeated Miss Berg, 7 and 6.

Yesterday Mrs. Page, the North Carolina housewife who is a Phi Beta Kappa scholar and who learned her first golf from her father, Dr. Robert Lawson of the University of North Carolina faculty, produced the most brilliant golf of the tournament. In defeating Peggy Graham of Hollywood, Cal., last of the dark horse hopes, 8 and 7, the champion was even with Westmoreland's men's par for eleven holes.

Patty Provides New Thriller.

Miss Berg, whose first round victory of ten straight holes and third and fourth round comebacks thrilled the galleries, was almost as sensational in her crucial struggle with Marion Miley, the Lexington, Ky., professional's daughter, yesterday. Miss Miley shot an even women's par at 79, and the Minneapolis red-head was extended to a 77 in order to win, 2 up. For the last 42 holes she has played, Patty has been eight strokes under par.

The first eighteen holes of today's final will start at 10 a.m. and the second at 2 p.m. The championship brings together two truly remarkable golfers. Mrs. Page never had played the game until her father, now an associate professor of anatomy at North Carolina, but a star pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles and the old Boston Nationals more than 30 years ago, induced her to work out with a set of four clubs he imported from New York.

Has Lowest Score to Credit.

Since then she has won the national medals of 1936 and 1937, the title last year, and she shared qualifying honors with Dorothy Traung of San Francisco in this year's tournament. Last spring, this woman who spurns most of the regular tournament circuit for the cares of her home at Chapel Hill, shot a medal 69 in the North and South open at Pinehurst. It is the lowest score ever submitted in recognized competition for women.

Miss Berg is the sensation of 1938 women's golf and she holds a national record equal to that of Mrs. Page. Patty, 20 years old last February, is eleven years the junior of her opponent of today. She is the daughter of a Minneapolis grain broker and a student at the University of Minnesota.

Nine Titles This Year.

Her intense concentration and competitive spirit have won her nine championships in twelve tournaments this year. She never played in the national until it came to her home town in 1935. There the sturdy little novice went to the final against the great Glenna Collett Vare and held her to a 3 and 2 decision before going out.

Mrs. Page, in the process of routing Miss Graham, put a grand second shot nine feet from the 420 yard ninth flag and holed out for an eagle, leaving herself 7 up with a 35. A trapped second and a completely missed third by the Pacific coast golfer sent Mrs. Page 8 up at the tenth and it was all over after they halved the eleventh in par fives.

Miss Miley Recovers.

Miss Berg led, 1 up, at the end of nine holes with a medal 38, one under par, and Miss Miley had to make a marvelous recovery from the rough off the tenth to earn a half there. The eleventh was shared in par and the twelfth in birdies. Marion then took the 205 yard, par four, thirteenth, by exploding out a trapped tee shot to within a yard for a birdie. Patty three putted the fourteenth, where Marion needed three to get on. Both scrambled their way through the fifteenth, Miss Miley losing the hole with a seven.

After halving the 16th and 17th each was bunkered to the right of the home green. Then Patty won the hole and the match by blasting out within two feet of the cup for a putt which her opponent conceded after missing a fifteen foot putt herself.

BATTLE UPHILL TO BEAT PHILS 3 TO 2 AND 7 TO 6

Galan, Collins Bat in Deciding Runs.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 23.—The Cubs this afternoon moved up to within two games of the league leading Pirates when they emerged victors from two nerve racking engagements with the Phillies. They took the first game, 3 to 2, on Augie Galan's eighth inning homer, a contest in which the Phils were spotted both their runs in the first inning. They won the second, 7 to 6, on Rip Collins' double which cleared loaded bases with two out in the ninth and the Phillies ahead, 5 to 4.

The first game was a tight struggle after Jack Russell took over for a five inning span of two hit pitching after Carl Reynolds' triple and singles by Ken O'Dea and Collins had tied the score in the fifth inning. Collins' hit in the fifth set him off on a six hit slugging spree, left handed in the first game and right handed in the second.

Jurges Errs Three Times.

The second game started with a collapse by Bill Jurges. The sprightly Cub shortstop fumbled on the first two plays of the game to give the Phils three runs and another was made when Jurges committed another error in the third. Collins scored the first Cub run after singling in the second. But the Cubs couldn't make much headway while Russell was turning in another two hit performance for five innings.

In the eighth, however, the Cubs scored two runs, but when the Phils came back with one in their half chances for victory still were slim. Then came the four run ninth in which Stanley Hack, Galan, and Gabby Hartnett walked and Billy Herman and Collins hit doubles.

Excitement Continues.

But the excitement wasn't over. Larry French, fourth Cub pitcher in the game, tossed his famous home run ball to Bill Atwood. Atwood has made three homers this year, two off French and one off Bill Lee, which busted up a twelve inning game the last time the Cubs were here.

The next two batsmen were retired, but Brack caromed a single off Herman's glove, a ball that would have been duck soup for Bill in a calmer setting. Then Mueller walked. The tying run was on second and the winning one on first and an agreement had been reached to call the game at 6:30 o'clock to enable the Cubs to catch a train for Chicago. Chuck Klein was up. And Chuck slammed one at French. Larry picked up the ball, took careful aim at Collins' glove, tossed, and the game was over.

The Cubs have nine games to play, six with the Cardinals and three with the Pirates. The Pirates have six with the Reds, who beat them today, and three with the Cubs.

U. C. L. A. Overcomes Lead to Beat Iowa Eleven, 27 to 3

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—University of California at Los Angeles opened its football season before 30,000 here tonight by defeating Iowa of the Big Ten conference, 27 to 3. Iowa took an early lead on Erwin Prassee's five yard field goal in the second quarter, but U. C. L. A. was ahead, 6 to 3, at the half and scored three touchdowns in the last two quarters.

Duel of Punts.

Gilmore of U. C. L. A. kicked off to Olsen, who fumbled but recovered on Iowa's 20 yard line. After Olsen and Balazs picked up nine yards in two tries at tackle, Balazs quick kicked to Gilmore, starting a punting duel that lasted until Gilmore punted out of bounds on Iowa's 25. After Kinnick had failed on a reverse, Enich fumbled trying to run left end and Balazs recovered for a fourteen yard gain. Balazs went through center for five and Olsen got seven and a first down on a reverse. Gilmore then intercepted Balazs' pass on the U. C. L. A. 42 yard line and raced to Iowa's 19.

Washington's fumble and an offside penalty set U. C. L. A. back ten yards and Gilmore punted over the Iowa goal line for a touchback. An exchange of intercepted passes kept both offenses in check until the end of the quarter.

U. C. L. A. Gets Touchdown.

Iowa got a drive underway with the start of the second period, Enich, Balazs, and Kinnick moving along eighteen yards on spinners to the U. C. L. A. 40 yard line, where Kinnick fumbled Balazs' pass after an eighteen yard gain. Prassee kept the drive alive by recovering on the 22 yard line. Olson went twelve yards on a reverse for a first down on the 10 yard line. Balzas spun for three and Enish hit center for two. Olson was stopped for no gain. On fourth down, Prassee dropped back, and with Kinnick holding, kicked a field goal, giving Iowa a 3 to 0 lead.

Fenenbock returned Prassee's kickoff twenty-four yards to the 34 yard line and U. C. L. A. marched fifty-seven yards on ten plays and an Iowa penalty for too many times out. Fenenbock failed by inches to make first down on the 7 yard line and Iowa took the ball. Balazs got a yard over center, but on the next play Iowa was set back to the 1 yard line for holding. Kinnick's punt carried only thirty-two yards.

Two line smashes made it third down and four on Iowa's 26 yard line. Fenenbock threw a long pass into the Iowa end zone, where Kinnick intercepted it. Kinnick attempted to lateral the ball when tackled and fumbled. Strode recovering for a touchdown. Overlin missed the attempt for extra point.

Another for U. C. L. A.

U. C. L. A. lengthened its lead early in the third period when Strode blocked Balazs' punt and the ball

Bears Roll Up 51 Points and Stars Get None

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The outstanding colored football players in the United States, selected in a nation-wide poll, held the Chicago Bears to seven touchdowns, a field goal, and six extra points in Soldiers' field last night. The final score was 51 to 0, and it was arrived at before a disappointing assemblage of approximately 6,000.

Restricting their attack for the most part to running plays, the Bears scored in every period, twelve men participating in the point production. Except for a portion of the second period when the All-Stars, aided by the excellent punting of M. Doran, Xavier [New Orleans] quarter back, proved a match for a team of Bear reserves, the game was no more than excellent scrimmage for the professionals.

Outstanding Players.

Coached by Ray Kemp, Duke Slater and Inky Williams, three men of their race, who starred in college and played in the National league, the All-Stars were able merely to offer sufficient competition to make the Bears work for each of their points.

Outstanding players in the All-Star lineup were Kemp, who played at tackle, Joe Kendall, of Kentucky State, who completed five of eleven passes; G. Edwards, also of Kentucky State, who completed two of six passes, and helped with the kicking; Pat McPherson of Wilberforce, center, and Doran.

Manders Kicks Field Goal.

Jack Manders kicked a 35 yard field goal in the first period and added two extra points. The other extra points were kicked by George Corbett, Famiglietti, Stydahar, and Plasman.

Lou Gordon, veteran Bear tackle, who was counted on heavily for relief duty in the championship fight, was felled by a terrific block by Don Simmons, former Iowa end, in the second period. Gordon was helped from the field and taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital with a possible knee fracture.

WASHINGTON TO MEET MINNESOTA BEFORE 50,000

Huskies' Seniors Recall 1936 Defeat.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 23.—Eleven seniors, seven of whom played on the Huskie team that was whipped by Minnesota in 1936, will start against the Gophers here tomorrow afternoon. By their own admission Washington is grimly intent on humbling the Gophers and, if they had a choice, these invaders willingly would trade a conference championship for a smashing conquest tomorrow.

This engagement unquestionably transcends the usual variety of opening game and, weather permitting, 50,000 will join in celebrating the season's inaugural.

Washington has not forgotten the 14 to 7 licking received in 1936, although the Huskies recovered from that inauspicious start and won the Pacific coast championship. Losing to Minnesota minimized subsequent achievement and when Minnesota was beaten by Northwestern for the Big Ten title, Washington also suffered by comparative scores.

Two Veteran Back Fields.

Minnesota, defending Western conference champion, has returned to Big Ten leadership after a season's abdication. Although beaten last fall by Nebraska, 14 to 9, and by Notre Dame, 7 to 6, the Gophers, so their followers assert, are again ready to march to national fame.

Both teams will open with veteran backfields with Minnesota perhaps having an advantage at full back where Larry Buhler will start, but Washington's quartet, which averages 197 pounds, is more proficient particularly in forward passing.

Seven of the thirty-seven Washington players are from Chicago and immediate suburbs. Two of these, Frank Peters, right end, and Steve Slivinski, right guard, will appear in the starting lineup.

Phelan Likes His Backfield.

Jimmy Phelan who directed Purdue to a Big Ten championship in 1929 and since has coached Washington, believes that his starting backfield is better than any All-American backfield of 1937. These backs are Chuck Newton, Jimmy Johnston, Merle Miller, and Al Cruver.

While Washington has experienced players at all positions, Phelan is dubious over the center and the left side of his line where the regulars of 1937 were lost by graduation.

However, there are eight experienced ends and Tom Sheldrake, so far, has the call with John Mizen, sophomore from River Grove, Ill., and Danny Yarr, a cousin of Notre Dame's All-American center, Tommy Yarr, hot in pursuit.

Phelan Picks Gophers.

Both teams practiced this afternoon on the stadium field. Washington worked at 2 o'clock and the Gophers followed them two hours later.

Lombardi and Berger Hit Homers for Reds.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds pushed across a run in the twelfth inning today to beat Pittsburgh, 5 to 4, and chop the Pirates' National league lead to two games over Chicago's climbing Cubs.

The Reds scored in the third extra inning when Bucky Walters, who pitched the entire distance and allowed only seven hits, drove in Harry Craft from second with a single.

The Reds did most of their damage in the sixth. Billy Myers opened with a single and Wally Berger brought him in with his thirteenth home run of the season. Ival Goodman followed with another single and Ernie Lombardi knocked his eighteenth home run.

The Pirates scrambled to catch up, Johnny Rizzo's double and Arky Vaughan's triple scoring a run in the sixth, and Lee Handley's double, a sacrifice and Woody Jensen's pinch fly sending the tying run over in the ninth.

Pittsburgh	89	61	.593

The Phils jolted Rookie Kirby Higbe for two runs in the first inning of the first game. Mueller singled with one down and Pitko walked. Weintraub singled, scoring Mueller and putting Pitko on third. Arnovich's single scored Pitko. The runners advanced when Higbe threw the ball high over O'Dea's head. Higbe then fanned Scharein and induced Atwood to fly to Reynolds.

Higbe also was in trouble in the second, but no runs scored. Young opened the inning with a single. Pitcher Mulcahy bunted and both runners were safe when Higbe threw the ball

If—

The Cubs' chances to win the pennant now depend largely on their three game series with the Pirates in Wrigley field next week. If the Pirates win five of their remaining nine games, the Cubs must win eight out of nine to finish in first place. The standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	90	62	.592
Pittsburgh	88	62	.587

If the Cubs win all nine of their games, they are assured of the pennant, since three of their victories would be defeats for the Pirates. Even by sweeping the six games with the Reds, the Pirates could not overtake the Cubs. The final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	91	61	.599
Pittsburgh	89	61	.593

If the Pirates win one game from the Cubs and break even with the Reds, the Cubs must win five out of six from the Cardinals to finish with this standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	89	63	.586
Pittsburgh	87	63	.580

If the Pirates win two from the Cubs and break even with the Reds, the Cubs could not win even by sweeping six games with the Cardinals. The final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	88	62	.587

Greyhound Ties His World Record for Mile

Newark Beats Rochester, 9-0; Enters Playoff Final

Newark, N. J., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Newark Bears tonight whipped the Rochester Red Wings, 9 to 0, to win their semi-final International league playoff series and qualify for the finals against the Buffalo Bisons.

MILLION BUCKS IS A LOT OF HORSE ON HIS BEST DAY

Three Year Old Wins and Pays $13.80.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The 3 year old Million Bucks finally rewarded his admirers yesterday at Hawthorne. Tossed in with eleven other 3 year olds that had never won a race, Million Bucks decided he didn't care to associate with slow runners any longer.

He shook himself loose in the stretch and dashed on to win by two lengths. Nearest to him at the finish were the heavily back Sonia M., the long shot Montell, and Gate Manager, on which there was a plunge at post time.

Million Bucks ran the six furlongs over the difficult, yet rapidly drying out course in 1:16 3-5. The time was nothing for him to brag about. It was Jocky Abe Schlenker who coaxed Million Bucks into his running mood.

His Fifteenth Start.

Million Bucks paid $13.80. He never went to post as a 2 year old. He started his 3 year old campaign at Aurora last May and his victory yesterday came on the occasion of his fifteenth parade to the barrier.

Million Bucks is a son of Peter Hastings-Golding. There are few better looking horses in training.

Colonel Joe, at $67.80 for a $2 ticket, also gave the 10,000 Hawthorne visitors something to talk about even though they had little to celebrate about after he had scored his unexpected triumph. The Colonel, previous to his start in the Coal Merchants' claiming purse at six furlongs, had won only two races in two years of busy endeavor.

It's Just a Romp.

In their rush to back Dolly E., Miamba Girl, and Blaufuss the crowd forgot all about Colonel Joe. When he sailed into the lead at the head of the stretch and finally won in a canter by six lengths the players for the first time realized what a horrible mistake they had made. Colonel Joe was handled by Jocky Joe Marinelli, who today will start serving a ten day suspension for rough riding.

Tragedy came in the running of the Frank J. Donovan purse at a mile and a sixteenth, won by the 22 to 1 shot Abdicator. At the top of the stretch Our Count, son of Reigh Count-Anita Peabody and the 6 to 5 favorite, broke his right foreleg and was destroyed. Our Count, 7 years old, was bothered by the weak leg for more than three years.

Two stake races are to be run today at Hawthorne. The John C. Schank Memorial, with thirteen overnight entries, should prove one of the best sprint stakes of the season since a fast track is expected. Almost all the speed horses which have captured the numerous other $2,500 added stakes in this sector will be in the Schank Memorial.

Among them are Mar Le, Leading Article, Mr. Blaze, Shining Heels, Dora May, and Chance Ray. Trainer A. G. Woodman of the Le Mar Stock farm put in Mad Money and Merrywood, in addition to Mar Le, and it is probable that the entry will be favored in the betting.

The co-featured Autumn handicap for 2 year olds, also at six furlongs, drew eight overnight names. Morris Vehon's Smart Trick, winner of the Prairie State stakes at Washington Park, figures to be favored over Matchup and the entry of Montsin and Bala Ormont.

Budge to Meet Mako for U.S. Tennis Title

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Donald Budge and Gene Mako, boon companions and doubles partners, qualified today to play each other here tomorrow in the finals of the national men's tennis tournament.

Mako today overwhelmed Jack Bromwich of Australia, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4, before a cheering section of 15,000 in the stadium. Budge, the defending champion, came along a few minutes later and splattered Sidney Wood Jr., 6-3, 6-3, in the other semi-final. But Budge was supposed to do it; Mako wasn't.

Alice Marble Wins.

Mako, who has specialized in winning doubles championships with Budge for the last four years, flashed a spectacular offensive game to bedazzle and beat the Australian star. Bromwich wasn't at his best after the week's inactivity due to rain, but it is doubtful he has seen the day he could have restrained the Mako of this afternoon.

Before the main excitement started, Alice Marble of Los Angeles had nosed out Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Jamaica Plain, Mass., in a women's semi-final, 5-7, 7-5, 7-5. The two girls took turns going to pieces in the treacherous wind currents that swirled about the court. In tomorrow's final Miss Marble, champion two years ago, will play Nancye Wynne, the free hitting Australian girl.

Mako Baffles Bromwich.

Mako today had absolute command of the ball, dropping dozens of lobs right on the back line and sending scores of teasing drop shots just trickling over the net. He had Bromwich flabbergasted with his spinning backhand returns that rose only inches after biting the soggy turf. When Bromwich gave him an overhead to hit, it was final. He scored 41 placements, practically all from the net.

A NEW PURDUE ELEVEN TO FACE DETROIT TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 23.—Followers of Purdue football will get their first view of their new team tomorrow afternoon when the Boilermakers meet the University of Detroit in Ross-Ade stadium.

With a number of untried players in the lineup, the Purdue eleven is an unknown quantity, but before sundown tomorrow Coach Mal Elward hopes to have a pretty good idea of what to expect of the boys when Big Ten competition starts.

The backfield is built around no outstanding performer and yet it may develop into such a smooth running machine that no such brilliant individual will be necessary to spark it up.

Watch This Mike Bylene.

At quarter back will be Ted Lennis, whom Coach Elward describes as an exceptionally good blocker. Lou Brock, who showed great ability last season, will be at right half and probably Jim Nesbitt at left half. Tony Ippolito will get the starting full back assignment.

It may be well to watch for a certain young fellow named Mike Bylene, who is omitted from the above mentioned group. At some time in the game, he is to go in at half back and when he does, there is passing to be expected. All through the early practice sessions, Coach Elward has been looking for a passer to take the place of Cecil Isbell, who distinguished himself in the game between the college All-Stars and the Washington Redskins. Elward thinks that Bylene may develop into the man he is looking for.

Boilermakers Will Pass.

Jack Brown, who did his best work of last season in the Indiana game, when he played sixty minutes at full back, is to alternate with Nesbitt at left half. Ippolito wasn't used much last year due to a shoulder injury, but since then he has undergone an operation.

A report has been widely circulated to the effect that Purdue will be strictly a running team rather than a passing team now that Isbell is gone. Coach Elward refuses to subscribe to this opinion. He says that the Boilermakers will depend largely on the running game tomorrow, but as the season advances he expects the passers to develop into thoroughly capable performers. While he is depending on Bylene to distinguish himself in this department, he also expects Nesbitt to develop into a reliable thrower.

It's a Guessing Game.

Much has been written about Detroit's versatile method of play. On defense, the huddle is used. On offense, the quarter back calls signals. The number of men in the line is varied repeatedly on defense so as to confuse the blocking assignments of the opponents. Coach Elward isn't particularly worried about that either.

"They're just trying to outguess us while we're trying to outguess them," is his comment. "But the percentage is in favor of the offensive team. If they guess right, we get thrown for a five yard loss. If they guess wrong they may shift so far out of the direction of the play that we go fifty yards for a touchdown."

The Detroit team is not due until tomorrow morning. It is spending the night in Logansport, Ind.

Meet Illinois B Team.

Tomorrow's program will open with a game between the Purdue and Illinois B teams. Before the kickoff there will be the traditional parade of Purdue seniors wearing derby hats, the hats to be tossed out onto the field when and if Purdue scores a touchdown.

MOON MULLINS—TIME TO EAT

bounded back to Iowa's 29 yard line, where U. C. L. A. recovered. Harris got seven yards over right tackle on the first play, but Overlin was held to no gain. On third down Overlin got a yard, then Harris bolted through Iowa's right tackle, reversed his field, and went twenty yards to a touchdown. He also kicked the extra point, making the score 13 to 3.

Iowa marched to the U. C. L. A. 14 yard line following Balazs' sixteen yard return of the ensuing kickoff, but were stopped short when Harris intercepted Balazs' pass intended for Eicherly on the 7 yard line. Overlin punted out and Iowa immediately began passing again. Harris intercepted Balazs' first pass and returned fifty-one yards to Iowa's 29 yard line, where he was caught from behind by Eicherly as the period ended.

U. C. L. A. went over from here early in the fourth quarter, Washington contributing a fourteen yard dash and Gilmore one of nine yards off Iowa's tackles, placing the ball on the 3 yard line. Washington and Overlin got two yards in two smashes, then Gilmore went over and Overland added the extra point to make the score U. C. L. A., 20; Iowa, 3.

Late in the fourth quarter U. C. L. A. took the ball on downs on its 35 yard line and moved up the field to another touchdown on smashes by Washington, Cantor, and Gilmore. Cantor passed twenty-three yards to Montgomery for the score. Hawkins blocked the attempt for extra point, but Cantor recovered and ran over for the point, making the score 27 to 3.

Statistics rated the teams almost on a par. Iowa made thirteen first downs to the Bruins ten, but the U. C. L. A. boys amassed a total yardage of 280 to the Hawkeyes' 259. The Bruins completed four out of eighteen passes, Iowa one out of five. Iowa had four passes intercepted, the Bruins one.

Greenberg Hits 2 Home Runs; Has 56 Now

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Despite Hank Greenberg's 55th and 56th home runs of the season, the Detroit Tigers lost a double-header to the Cleveland Indians today, 8 to 1 and 6 to 5. Darkness halted the second game at the end of seven innings.

The two home runs, both hit in the second game off Earl Whitehill, put Greenberg three games ahead of the pace Babe Ruth set in 1927, when he established the major league record of 60.

With his second drive Greenberg broke the major league record for hitting two or more home runs in one game the most times during a season. His two today marked the tenth time this season he has knocked a pair in a game. The old record of nine was set by Jimmy Foxx of the Boston Red Sox earlier this season, and equaled by Greenberg last Saturday.

Cubs Win Pair; Only 2 Games Behind Pirates

to second too late. Brack forced Mulcahy and Mueller walked, loading the bases. Pitko bounced into a double play, Hack to Herman to Collins.

Wake Up in Fifth.

In the first four innings the Cubs were helpless against Mulcahy. The fifth inning brought a change for the better. Reynolds squirted a triple into the right foul line and scored as O'Dea dribbled a single past Mulcahy. Collins made the first of his three straight singles, putting O'Dea on third. Jurges flied to Pitko, O'Dea scoring the tying run. Demaree batted for Higbe and bounced out to Scharein. Hack walked, but Mueller threw out Herman.

Jack Russell took over the pitching and had no trouble the rest of the way. He held the Phillies to two hits in his five innings of endeavor and became the winning pitcher as a result of Galan's home run over the high right field wall in the eighth. It was Augie's No. 6 and the first since he beat the Reds, 2 to 1, in the eleventh inning on Sept. 4.

SECOND GAME

After the Cubs had wasted two hits in their half of the first inning of the second game, the Phillies routed Tex Carleton with a three run blast.

Brack opened with a bouncer which Jurges fumbled. Mueller then shot a cinch double play ball at Jurges, but the ball went through him for another error, Brack stopping at second. Pitko socked a double, Brack scoring and Mueller stopping at third. Klein ran for Pitko. Weintraub walked, loading the bases. Arnovich lined a single to center, scoring Mueller and Klein. Russell replaced Carleton and cleaned up in a hurry. Scharein forced Weintraub at third and Atwood hit into a double play.

Cubs Get a Run.

The Cubs scored a run in the second before Herman whiffed with the tying runs on third and second. With one out, Collins singled, paused while Jurges fouled out, and advanced one base on Russell's single to right. Hack singled to left, Collins scoring and Russell reaching third. Hack took second on the throw to the plate. Then Hollingsworth fanned Herman.

The Philly second was another sloppy session. After Young had fouled out, Hollingsworth singled to left. Brack banged a double play ball to Herman, but Jurges dropped the throw for his third error. Mueller sent another double play ball to Herman, and he almost pulled Jurges off the bag with his throw. It went as a force play and Hollingsworth advanced to third. Klein then singled to center, Hollingsworth scoring. Weintraub popped to Hack.

Business picked up for the Cubs in the eighth. With one out, Hartnett reached second when Brack dropped his long fly. Collins doubled to right, scoring Hartnett, and when Klein kicked the ball Collins reached third. Collins scored while Jurges was going out on his tap to Mueller. Lazzeri batted for Root, who entered the game in the sixth, and flied to Arnovich.

French went in at the start of the eighth. Mueller opened with a single, went to second on Klein's sacrifice and to third while Weintraub bounced out to Collins. Mueller scored on Hartnett's passed ball, after which Arnovich walked. Scharein flied to Galan.

That Big Ninth.

Hack walked to get the victorious ninth under way. Herman doubled along the left foul line, scoring Hack. When Young made a bad play to the plate Herman reached third. Demaree tapped to Mueller and was thrown out, Herman holding third. Galan walked. Reynolds fouled to Weintraub. Hartnett also walked, loading the bases. Bryant ran for Hartnett. Collins then rounded out one of the best days of his career by socking his second successive double, scoring Herman, Galan, and Bryant. Jurges flied to Klein.

Cubs Come Home Today for Series with Cardinals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 23.—The Cubs will arrive home at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Cardinals, who will play them in Wrigley field tomorrow afternoon, last night took planes out of hurricane swept Boston to New York, from where they entrained for Chicago.

The Cub players still refuse to discuss a possible city series, even with reservations. However, Bill Lee and Clay Bryant would pitch the first games, giving the Cubs a chance if they can get a hitter ready.

Lee probably will go after a new National league shutout record in the opener of the Pirate series in Wrigley field Tuesday.

Austin Ties Crane in City League Opener

Austin, defending champion in the Chicago Public High School league, was held to a 13 to 13 tie by Crane in the opening of the west section race last night in Mills stadium.

Crane gained a 7 to 0 lead in the first quarter when Girolami raced seventy-one yards to the 9 yard line. Girolami plunged over and Walker kicked the extra point.

The score was tied just before the half ended when Piefer, Austin left half back, tossed a fifteen yard pass to Skoran. Bell made the extra point.

Crane went ahead in the third period when Peterson plunged over from the 7 yard line. Piefer scored for Austin in the fourth quarter on a plunge from the 9 yard line.

Kelly, Hide Park Tie.

A touchdown in the last five minutes enabled Kelly to tie Hyde Park, 6 to 6, in the opening central section game on St. Rita field. Kelly scored on a 40 yard pass, Sasnow to Krauklis. Hyde Park scored its touchdown in the second quarter, Marks plunging over from the 1 yard line after Fry had made a 55 yard run.

All other City league teams will start their campaigns today. Eleven games are scheduled in the four sections of the league. A double-header will be played on Lane field, Western avenue and Addison street, Schurz meeting Lake View in the first game and Lane Tech playing Roosevelt in the second.

Two South Section Games.

Two south section games will be played in the evening in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Harper opposes Hirsch at 7 o'clock and Englewood will meet Tilden Tech at 9 p. m.

PIRATES BEAT DODGERS, 17 TO 3, IN SECOND HALF

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Capitalizing on Brooklyn errors, the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Pro Football league defeated the Dodgers tonight, 17 to 3, before 21,494.

After Brooklyn had halted two Pirate marches, Ralph Kercheval fumbled and Ed Manske snatched the ball out of the air and dashed 27 yards for the first touchdown in the third period.

In the fourth quarter, with Bill Filchock passing the ball, the Pirates drove to the Dodger 12 yard line. Stopped there, Pittsburgh called on Armand Niccolai to place kick and he made a field goal from the 18 yard line. Wilbur Sortet set up the final score by intercepting a pass on the Dodger 31 yard line. Clarence Thompson swung around left end for the final touchdown.

80,000 MAY SEE U. S. C., ALABAMA ON COAST TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Shouts of Dixie supporters and the answering yells of the home town forces echoed across the football front here today as Alabama and Southern California awaited tomorrow's kickoff for their intersectional engagement, one of the biggest on the nation's program. Crowd predictions ranged from 65,000 to 80,000.

For U. S. C. a victory may mean the return of the Trojan's to top flight rating. A triumph for the Crimson Tide will mean revenge for the Rose Bowl loss at the hands of California last New Year's day.

DE PAUL ELEVEN OPENS SEASON AGAINST RIPON

De Paul university will open its football season against Ripon on De Paul field, Webster and Sheffield avenues, this afternoon.

Outweighed by the Blue Demons, Ripon will rely on a fast, varied attack built around Sveto Kromar. A triple threat man, Kromar is expected to give the De Paul line plenty of trouble.

Much of De Paul's running power will be supplied by Wally Malinowicz, 205 pound full back who is taking over the spot vacated by last year's captain, Paul Mattei. Ed Norris and Bill Hinckley, juniors, will get the call at the halves.

43,000 WPA JOBS PERILED; FEAR BIG LOAD ON RELIEF

City Unable to Pay Share for 100 Projects.

The jobs of some 43,000 Works Progress administration workers in Chicago were in danger last night as the city failed in its latest attempt to raise money for its share of a 100 or more WPA projects.

City officials, informed that the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington had refused a $3,000,000 emergency loan to finance the city's contribution to the unfinished projects, feared that the WPA would release thousands of its men, who would then return to relief rolls.

Emergency Meeting Called.

At the request of Oscar Hewitt, public works commissioner whose department sponsors projects employing the 43,000 workers, an emergency meeting of a city council finance subcommittee was called to discuss the problem.

Hewitt told the committee that the city's appropriation for its share in paving, sidewalks, curbing, the airport, and other WPA projects had been exhausted five days ago. He also announced that Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, had rejected the city's attempt to borrow against future motor vehicle tax receipts.

Under an agreement with the WPA the city pays skilled labor necessary for finishing work on the various projects. The WPA in turn spends an equal amount on materials, such as asphalt for paving, as well as employing thousands of unskilled laborers.

Still Breaking Up Streets.

Hewitt said that WPA crews have broken up 35 miles of side streets, and that much of this unskilled work is continuing although the finishing crews were removed from the job on Monday.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] suggested that the Public Works administration might make a grant to the city.

In a statement at Washington, Chairman Jones of the RFC said the city had no right to pledge its 1939 and 1940 city vehicle taxes to repay the loan. "The corporation," he said, "will be glad to assist the city with loans for this street work if proper assurance of repayment can be given."

PWA APPROVES GRANT FOR NEW MISSISSIPPI SPAN AT E. ST. LOUIS

The regional office of the Public Works administration yesterday announced that a grant of $2,475,000 toward a $5,500,000 bridge across the Mississippi river at East St. Louis has been approved in Washington. Construction is scheduled to begin Oct. 13 and it is to be completed by May 1, 1940.

Grants also were made to Spring Valley, $55,000 for a $122,220 high school; to Springfield, $74,258 for $165,058 in street improvements, and Valparaiso, Ind., $77,727 on a $177,727 sewage treatment plant.

HAMILTON TELLS AIMS OF G. O. P. TO CLUBWOMEN

Delegates Hear Fall Issues Defined.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

The Republican party favors federal regulation of the stock market, federal insurance of bank deposits, and believes in the principles of the Social Security act. But it is fighting to curb Democratic legislation burdening business and to stop the reckless spending of social security funds.

Mrs. Martha Evans, chairman of nominating committee.

John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, made these assertions last night in addressing the National Federation of Women's Republican clubs in the Palmer house. He declared Republican leaders laid the groundwork for stock market regulation and bank deposit insurance "before Mr. Roosevelt ever came to Washington." His speech officially opened the party's fall campaign.

Battle Wasteful Régime.

"Soon you will hear," said Hamilton, "that Republicans, when they come into power, will repeal everything that has been done during the last five years, and that we are opposing Mr. Roosevelt's humanitarian objectives. That is not true.

"But we do object most strenuously to the hodge-podge legislation under which the government is taxing pay rolls and pay envelopes—taking money from those least able to afford it—to pay the expenses of the most wasteful and lavish régime ever to occupy Washington."

"We do protest against the spending of the money that should be held in trust for these workers. The so-called 'reserve fund' for social security today is nothing more than a stack of government I. O. U.'s, despite the fact that more than one billion dollars has been collected."

Cites G. O. P. Sponsorship.

"The very basis for stock market regulation was laid in a resolution sponsored by Republican Senator Frederick Wolcott, and supported by a senate controled by Republicans. Legislation for bank deposit insurance was originally sponsored by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, and enacted over the opposition of President Roosevelt, who now points to it with pride, and claims it as his idea."

Miss Marion E. Martin, assistant chairman of the national committee, presided at the opening session of the federation. Other speakers were Miss Dorothy Paulson of Minnesota, co-chairman of the Young Republican national federation; Mrs. Chester Bolton of Ohio, vice chairman of the Republican committee on program; Mrs. John E. Hillman of Colorado, Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Anne Steese Richardson, author and publicist, and Miss Katherine Byrne of Connecticut. Mrs. Louis Leech of Minnesota was chosen temporary chairman.

Today's program will be a round table discussion of Republican affairs. The first national officers will be elected in the afternoon. Mrs. Martha Evans of Montana is chairman of the nominating committee.

Gets Dog Back

Florence Kobiela with "Dollie."

When Mrs. Veronic Kobliela called "Here, Dollie," yesterday a spotted Dalmatian dog ran gladly to her. When her little daughter, Florence, 2½ years old, called "Here, Dollie," the dog ran to her. When Mattis Staczkin called "Here, Nellie," the dog joyously wagged her tail and ran to him.

Mrs. Kobliela told Judge N. J. Bonelli in Shakespeare avenue court she paid $10 for Dollie-Nellie three years ago and that on Labor day the dog disappeared from her home at 2124 Division street. Staczkin said he found the dog in Wicker Park on Labor day and that it accompanied him happily to his home at 1398 Milwaukee avenue.

Staczkin said he thought he ought to have $5 for board. "So do I," said Judge Bonelli. "Mrs. Kobiela, you now own a $15 dog."

DEFEAT OF PURGE HAILED AS CURB ON DICTATORSHIP

If President Roosevelt had succeeded in his purge of anti-administration senators the United States would have touched the bottom in its descent to a dictatorship.

Justice George W. Maxey.

Justice George Wendell Maxey of the Supreme court of Pennsylvania made this assertion yesterday in an address before the Union League club. His speech was in furtherance of the club's "America, Wake Up" crusade. More than 500 men and women attended the luncheon.

"That the voters of Maryland, South Carolina, Georgia and the other states have recently reasserted their independence in defiance of presidential interference is the most hopeful thing that has happened since the court packing plan and the reorganization bill were killed by courageous senators and congressmen," Justice Maxey declared.

SUMMER TAKES OFFICIAL LEAVE; SUN GOES SOUTH

The autumnal equinox occurred exactly at noon yesterday, delighting weather experts and others with an orderly turn of mind. As they envisioned the sun crossing the equator on its way south for the winter months [which marks the equinox and the end of summer] the temperatures here were rising rapidly. They climbed to 81 degrees in the afternoon, 10 degrees above the normal maximum for the day.

C. A. Donnel, chief weather forecaster, said today would be fair, with temperatures approaching 80 degrees. Sunday is scheduled to be fair and cooler.

With the unusual rainfall in recent months many flowers in yards and woodlands are blooming a second time. This semblance of spring, in which hazelnuts and even cultivated apple trees are having a second flowering, is combined with the colorful signs of autumn.

TRAMP DRINKS UP FARMER'S FLOCK AND FLIES COOP

Farmer John Stratton bought sixty white Plymouth Rocks last spring just about the time he befriended John Rush, 53 years old, a tramp. Stratton let Rush sleep in the barn on his big farm west of Lake Villa.

Farmer Stratton began to suspect that something was wrong with his hens. Week by week their number grew less. Yesterday there were only five. Farmer Stratton never suspected Tramp Rush until late in the day, when there were only three hens left in the yard.

Then Stratton saw Rush walking down the pike, a bundle under his coat. The farmer started in pursuit. After a mile chase he caught Rush, opened up the bundle, and found his two hens—dead. Rush admitted he had been trading the hens in for liquor.

BOY TRIES DEATH BY LASSO; POLICE PROBE MYSTERY

A boy 16 years old, reported to have tried to end his life by hanging, was in a critical condition last night in the Oak Forest infirmary hospital. Physicians there and county highway police were trying to solve the mystery. The boy is Harold Tomes, living on Turnpike road in Crestwood, near Blue Island. He was brought to the hospital earlier yesterday by his father, Ivan, who said his son had tried to end his life with a lasso. Physicians said the boy seemed to be internally injured, although he had apparently not been seriously harmed by the rope. Late last night he had not regained consciousness.

CHARGE HOSPITAL HELD MOTHER FOR BILL; COURT ACTS

Charges that Mrs. Jeanette Behrens is being held in a private sanitarium against her will brought an order for removal to a public hospital yesterday. Mrs. Behrens is 65 years old. Attorney Joseph T. Harrington told Judge Francis B. Allegretti she is being held in the Block House sanitarium, in Palatine township, because the bills for her care have not been fully paid.

Harrington brought habeas corpus proceedings at the direction of Mrs. Behrens' son, W. F. Behrens, living near Carlinville. The action was directed against Robert and Agnes Peele, said by Harrington to operate the sanitarium. The judge said he would hold a full hearing after Mrs. Behrens has been removed to the public hospital.

PRESIDENT SEEKS ECONOMIC GRIP ON U. S., CLUB IS TOLD

He said that the present administration is increasingly active in efforts to centralize farming, banking, electrical power production, and home building under government control.

Mundt indicated there is plenty of business, he said, after losing heavily through experiments in rural credits, state owned gasoline stations, and other ventures into business.

Maywood 70th Year Fete to Open with Youth Day

Maywood's festival of progress, marking its seventieth anniversary, is to begin today and continue through Oct. 1. Today will be youth day, with boys taking over the principal offices of the village. John Castleman, 17 years old, 418 North 8th avenue, will be village president, and Paul Hunt, 16, of 1117 South 2d avenue, chief of police.

Cicero's New Town Hall Keeps Crowding Old One

Cicero's new town hall crowded the old one a little further out of the picture yesterday. The new courtroom was dedicated. The new building eventually will be where the old one was. Sections of the old one are being wrecked just fast enough for workmen to replace them. Now you see it—and now you don't.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Steers Wake Up.

September 23, 1938.

GRAZING steers standing in a pasture or rambling through a woodlot always seem about the laziest of farm animals. On hikes through the Tribune's Du Page county farm near the Hereford steers in the east woods, we have noticed how they stand in their tracks and watch us go by.

Even automobiles whizzing along the nearby highway don't faze them. A stranger in their field gets a slight turn of their heads as his only recognition. Tails swishing flies and jaws munching grass or hay seem to be their only activities. The other day, however, saw some action on the lot. The lazy animals even trotted to show their unusual enthusiasm.

The reason for all this action was the morning feeding. Two of the farmers drove into the field and up to the feed bunks with a load of fresh silage. The truck evidently was a familiar sight to the steers. As soon as they spied it they started running toward the feed bunks. By the time the truck reached the bunks most of the steers were on hand for their breakfast.

And when the feed was shoveled into the bunks the steers showed even more life by their attempts to be the first ones at the table. With all the shoving the hungry steers seemed more like husky football players coming out of their huddle rather than lazy, well-mannered farm animals.

Find 6 Lb. Mushroom.

One of the men working in the experimental plots has found a mushroom that would make a dinner for almost every one on the farm. It was a giant puffball weighing more than six pounds and measuring 42 inches in circumference.

The giant puffball is one of the finest table mushrooms found in Chicagoland, providing it is picked when the interior is white, firm, and dry. In this condition it can be sliced and fried. The mushroom found on the farm is no midget, but records show that giant puffballs weighing more than 20 pounds have been found.

Birds Go South.

The cowbirds and catbirds which were coming into banding traps on the farm during early August seem to have disappeared. By this time many of them must be far south. The cowbirds winter as far away as the gulf coast and central Mexico, and are not common in Chicagoland after the middle of September.

The catbird also does a lot of traveling to reach its wintering place, going as far south as the Bahamas and Panama. But the catbird is a little hardier than the cowbird, and may stay in Chicagoland until the first week of October.

This week another male towhee was trapped and a small aluminum band was placed on its leg before it was released. Aside from the towhee two cardinals were caught. These have been banded and retrapped several times as well as towhee No. 319404 which was banded Sept. 15 and was back in the traps Sept. 20. The towhees, so vigorous with their call of "chewink chewink," should be coming into the traps for some time yet. These brightly colored orange, white, and black songsters usually stay in this area until middle November.

Arthur L. Gilliom, a Republican, will try the cases involving workers in the 12th precinct of the 2d ward and in the 9th precinct of the 20th ward. The two were named by Judge Frank P. Baker of Criminal court. All except one of the defendants have been arrested and have put up bond.

CLEAR WAY FOR NEW TRIAL OVER SHANAHAN WILL

The way was cleared yesterday for a second trial over the $850,000 will of David E. Shanahan, veteran Illinois legislator. Judge George Bristow overruled a defense motion to take the case out of jurisdiction of the Circuit court. The defense contended that the case was originally in the jurisdiction of the Probate court. The will left the entire estate to Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan, whom he married on his death bed. His cousins, the Misses Margaret and Mary Flynn, sought to invalidate the will. The jury in the first trial disagreed last Nov. 9.

3-JUDGE COURT PONDERS ATTACK AGAINST AAA ACT

Georgia Tobacco Growers Challenge Penalty Tax.

Valdosta, Ga., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A three-judge federal court today took under advisement the first test of the constitutionality of the 1938 agricultural adjustment act, based on a challenge of the penalty taxes assessed on growers selling above limits fixed in marketing quotas.

Constitutionality of flue cured tobacco marketing quotas and the penalty tax imposed for excessive sales are challenged in suits before the court, filed by Georgia tobacco growers. The actions contended the AAA of 1938, under which marketing was fixed for the nation's principal crops, was unconstitutional in that "congress assumes authorities not directly granted by the constitution."

A. J. Little, one of the attorneys bringing the suits, estimated Georgia and Florida growers would have to pay penalties totaling about $4,500,000 if the act were upheld. Regulations of the marketing act provide a tax of 50 per cent of the market price for all tobacco sold in excess of individual quotas.

THREATEN STRIKE CALL TYING UP 33 WALL PAPER MILLS

The national executive board of the United Wallpaper Craftsmen and Workers of North America voted last night at a meeting in the Morrison hotel to call a nation-wide strike Tuesday morning unless mill operators sign a contract by 5 p. m. Monday.

The strike would affect all of the 6,000 employés in 33 mills from New York and Massachusetts to Illinois. With six mills in Joliet, two in Chicago, and one in Decatur, Illinois is the center of the industry.

Joseph M. Jacobs, general counsel for the union, said negotiations for a new contract to replace the one which expired Sept. 1 collapsed Wednesday. He said the dispute involves no question of wages or hours.

The three major points, Jacobs said, are a closed shop for craftsmen and a preferential shop for unskilled workers, vacations with pay, and seniority rights. The contract which expired, he said, had the closed and preferential shop.

LESS FEDERAL RULE IN FARM CONTROL URGED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Less governmental interference in farm management was asked today by John D. Black, professor of economics at Harvard university. He summed up discussions on agriculture at the Seventh International Management congress.

The final session of the congress was devoted to summaries and comments on the discussions of the week. This covered a wide range of subjects related to management. Approximately 2,000 business leaders and management experts from twenty-one nations attended the congress.

All agreed today that the most significant feature of this congress, the first held in America, was the emphasis placed on social responsibilities of management contrasted with the stress on economic responsibilities at past congresses. The world conference is held every three years.

Urges Individual Initiative.

Concerning the role of government in agricultural management, Prof. Black said that various papers presented in the congress stated that reliance upon individual initiative and individual self-determination is highly essential to effective agricultural management.

"It is very easy," he said, "for a government regulation to be introduced which defeats the very objectives which it seeks. We surely have had instances of such in our own experience since the world war."

Black said there was a lack of adequate papers on the important subject of cost control on farms.

The only discussion of cost of production was one by a contributor from Holland, which, Black said, read like discussions in this country just after the world war, "when we had several groups trying to fix prices of farm products according to cost of production."

May Develop in U. S.

"We may find ourselves similarly engaged in the United States within another year," Black asserted. "We also have one farm organization that has never seen daylight on this subject. And it is now surging forward rapidly. As you may know England succumbed to pressure from such groups immediately after the world war, but only a few months of experience convinced them of their folly."

Charles H. Hatch, chairman of the National Management Council of the United States, made the closing address of the congress, in which he mentioned the theme of social responsibility that ran throughout the congress and extoled the work of world leaders in the congress.

Able Administrators Needed.

"We are moving in a world which at the moment is in grave need of able administrators at all levels, of all ages—and this same world is doing little or nothing to find such men and to train them," said Prof. Elton Mayo of the Harvard graduate school of business administration.

Joseph H. Willists, dean of the Wharton school of finance and commerce of the University of Pennsylvania, said that the congress has proved the absolute dependence of human society upon good administration.

William L. Batt of Philadelphia, president of SKF Industries, Inc., was elected president of the International Committee of Scientific Management, to serve through the next International Management congress which will be held in Stockholm, Sweden, in 1941. Batt is the first American to hold the international office. He succeeds the Viscount Leverhulme of England.

INSULL STOCK SELLING PLAN HELD ILLEGAL

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—A syndicate stock sales plan which took hundreds of thousands of dollars from investors in the one time Insull utility empire was held "contrary to public policy." The decision was made by Circuit Judge Horace H. Baker in dismissing a suit for $30,000 against the late John G. Oglesby of Elkhart. The ruling was entered in Logan county Circuit court at Lincoln.

Oglesby had subscribed to the Insull stock on a conditional agreement before the utilities holding company collapsed and then was asked to pay for the stock at the fixed price, far above its market value.

Tire Service Workers Call Strike in Goodyear Branches

The tire service division of the United Rubber Workers union, a C. I. O. affiliate, yesterday called a strike of its members employed by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, 407 East 25th street, and its nine branches in the Chicago area. The dismissal of two employés, members of the union, caused the dispute between the union and the company. The walkout was ordered when Robert Pilkington, federal mediator, failed to settle their differences.

Wheat Climbs on New Threat of War Abroad

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Yr.ago.
Wheat	$0.65¼	$0.64⅛	$1.05⅜
Corn	.49⅝	.49½	.63⅞
Oats	.25⅜	.25⅛	.31⅛
Rye	.44⅝	.43⅝	.79⅝
Soy beans	.76¼	.75¼	.93⅜

Increased uneasiness regarding the European political situation was reflected yesterday in a sharply higher level of wheat prices. Winnipeg futures were as much as 3⅜ cents a bushel higher at the top. The upturn was helped by a number of unconfirmed rumors regarding political conditions abroad and reports of large sales of both Canadian and American cash wheat.

The top prices were not maintained because professional speculators desired to even up their position in the wheat market. Closing trades on futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net gains of 1 to 1⅛ cents. Winnipeg finished 1⅞ to 2⅛ cents higher. Liverpool was 1 to 1⅝ cents a bushel higher.

Large Export Sales Reported.

More than 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian cash wheat and 250,000 bushels of American grain were reported yesterday to have been sold for shipment to Europe. In the last two days sales are estimated to have exceeded 5,000,000 bushels. There were unconfirmed reports that a large amount of American hard winter wheat had been sold for export from gulf ports and also that there had been a good business in flour.

Public interest in the wheat market yesterday was somewhat larger. Brokers said commission houses were persistent buyers in small amounts. Routine news attracted little attention.

Corn Closes Higher.

Corn closed with net gains of ⅝ cent a bushel. Confirmation was secured of several small lots of grain having been sold for shipment from Chicago to Montreal. Brokers said there was evidence of a definite improvement in the European demand. The price of Argentine corn in Europe has been advancing much faster than American grain in the last few days.

Trading in oats and rye was light. The close was higher in sympathy with wheat and corn. Soy beans advanced 1 to 1½ cents a bushel.

GERMANS RAISE ENOUGH GRAINS FOR HOME USES

Germany and Austria produced sufficient wheat and rye this year to cover normal domestic requirements, it is officially estimated. The aggregate wheat crop of the two countries this season is placed at 219,000,000 bushels, the largest since 1933, and 41,000,000 bushels in excess of the 1937 harvest. The rye crop shows an increase of 68,000,000 bushels as compared with the preceding season.

Wheat	219	178	177
Rye	357	289	309
Barley	205	178	169
Oats	465	437	417

UNITED BOSCH FILES A 417,598 SHARE ISSUE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—United American Bosch corporation, Springfield, Mass., has filed a registration covering 417,508 shares of $1 par value capital stock to be offered to stockholders. They will receive purchase warants for estimated cash proceeds of $2,505,588. An unstated number of shares will be exchanged for outstanding notes of the issuer.

The statement said that Mendelssohn & Co. of Amsterdam, through wholly owned subsidiaries, controls 79 per cent of United Bosch. A special meeting of the stockholders has been called for Sept. 26 to consider changing the issuer's name to American Bosch corporation.

MEMPHIS REFUSES UTILITY'S OFFER TO SELL POWER SYSTEM

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The Memphis Power and Light company today offered to sell its electric distribution system to the city of Memphis for $16,401,418. The city at once turned it down as "unacceptable" and indicated it would make a counter-offer, probably tomorrow.

The utility's offer, the first it has made, was submitted in writing at a conference of power company officials and the Memphis power and light board. The meeting was brief—just long enough for the power company to submit its offer and for the commission members to look it over and declare it too high.

Sale of the electrical properties would leave the Memphis Power and Light, a subsidiary of the National Power and Light company, in possession of the city's distribution system for natural gas and the Memphis Street Railway company.

Although no official assurance has been forthcoming, it is generally believed here that the Tennessee Valley authority is willing to help the city to purchase the Memphis Power and Light's electric steam power generating as well as the distribution system. The gas distribution system is valued at about $6,000,000. The street railway and bus system is carried on the utility's books at $1.

Illinois Asks Cut in Rate on Natural Gas

The Illinois commerce commission took action yesterday seeking a reduction in wholesale rates on natural gas sold to Illinois utilities. James M. Slattery, commission chairman, announced that a petition had been filed with the federal power commission in Washington asking an investigation of rates charged by two interstate companies.

James M. Slattery.

The action is part of the commission's fight to force the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to cut household rates in Chicago. The Peoples Gas company obtained through court action early this year a $3,000,000 a year rate increase after the commission had refused the boost.

Charges Rates Unreasonable.

The petition alleges that wholesale rates charged by two interstate pipeline companies are unreasonable and the companies are making excessive profits. The companies are the Natural Gas Pipeline company of America and the Texoma Natural Gas company. These companies transport gas from Texas oil fields to Joliet, Ill. There it is sold to the Chicago District Pipeline company, which in turn sells to the Peoples Gas Light company.

Harry R. Booth, commission attorney, explained that under a recent act of congress the federal power commission has authority to fix rates of interstate natural gas companies.

Brands Profit Excessive.

The petition asserts that sales of the Natural Gas Pipeline company have increased from $4,609,274 in 1932 to $13,215,053 in 1937. It also asserts that earnings last year were more than 13 per cent of the investment in the business.

The Natural Gas Pipeline company began dividend payments in 1936. On common stock with a par value of $3,000,000, the company paid dividends of $2,775,000 in 1936 and $4,125,000 in 1937, the petition alleges.

The petition asserts that approximately 25 per cent of the stock of the company is indirectly owned by Peoples Gas and that most of the gas sold by the pipeline concern goes to the Chicago utility.

Flemington, N. J., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The Great Western Sugar company, a New Jersey corporation with general offices in Denver, Colo., has moved its fiscal office from Plainfield to Flemington. Attorney George K. Large has been appointed New Jersey agent for the $65,000,000 corporation.

U. S. TREASURY SPENDS OVER 2 BILLIONS IN LESS THAN 3 MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The treasury disclosed today that it spent more than $2,000,000,000 in less than three months.

Under the emergency spending program, federal activities cost $2,026,45[illegible],649 between July 1 and Sept. 21. Expenditures exceeded income by $600,256,208 in spite of the Sept. 15 quarterly income tax collections.

The pace of federal spending was stepped up particularly during the period by increased WPA costs to support a record pay roll of more than 3,100,000 persons. WPA spending of $499,332,785 was responsible for a fourth of all federal costs.

Income tax collections in the first 21 days of September totaled $472,398,426, or about $12,000,000 more than in the same period last year. The increase was not unexpected, however, because taxpayers are still paying on their 1937 incomes.

RAIL URGES BOND HOLDERS TO SUE; SEEKS LAND SALE

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Central Railroad of New Jersey today asked bondholders to institute a friendly suit to open the way for sale of marginal lands owned by the railroad for the purpose of effecting a saving in taxes of $428,000 a year.

The request was made by Edward W. Scheer, president of the railroad at the annual stockholders' meeting. He explained legal action by the bondholders was necessary to release from the mortgage the land which the company proposes to sell. Most of the property in question, Scheer said, was under water and is not needed in the operation of the company.

It was also disclosed that Central Railroad of New Jersey has been negotiating for a reduction of the rental paid for use of the Lehigh & Susquehanna railroad, but no agreement has been reached so far.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company asked permission of the securities commission today to borrow $69,500,000 in connection with a merger between it and the Wisconsin Electric Power company.

The Milwaukee company intends to acquire all the stock of the Wisconsin Electric from the North American Edison company and to merge the two companies under the name now used by Wisconsin Electric.

The Milwaukee company said it wished to refund its indebtedness by selling $55,000,000 of bonds and $14,500,000 of notes.

Main Foreign Moneys Fall; Gold Climbs

Foreign currency values fell and the price of gold in London rose steeply yesterday. Political developments caused fear that the efforts to maintain peace in Europe may fail.

British currency tumbled in terms of American money in the London, Paris, and New York markets. The French franc and currencies of other continental European countries followed the course set by the pound.

Pound Falls 2⅛ Cents.

The pound fell 2⅛ cents, closing in New York at $4.79⅝. The franc was quoted on closing transactions at 2.68625 cents, or 0.0 3-16 cent below the preceding day. The Netherlands guilder lost 0.21 cent and the Swiss franc fell 0.06 cent.

The renewed demand for gold lifted the price of the metal in London to 144 shillings 6 pence an ounce, a rise of 7 pence [about 14 cents] over the preceding day's level. In terms of American currency the London quotation was equivalent to $34.77.

The New York federal reserve bank reported engagements of $1,208,000 gold in England and $505,000 in Holland for shipment to the United States.

Gold Stocks Mount.

In Washington treasury officials reported that gold stocks on Sept. 21 reached $13,588,000,000, an increase of $51,364,000 over the preceding day.

Officials said that the treasury is spending gold from its general fund which was allowed to accumulate rapidly during the rapid inflow in recent weeks. Certificates are being deposited by the treasury with the federal reserve banks against newly imported gold.

BALDWIN WORKS IS NOW OUT OF COURT CONTROL

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The United States District court lifted its supervision over the affairs of the Baldwin Locomotive works today and released the company from further responsibility for "the debts and other liabilities" that existed when the concern petitioned to reorganize three years ago.

A decree issued by Judge Oliver B. Dickinson officially closed the proceedings the company began Feb. 25, 1935, for reorganization of its financial setup under Section 77B of the federal bankruptcy act. The decree returned full control of the company to private hands.

The company announced it had completed all provisions of its revamping plan except for the exchange by a few of the security holders of their old stocks and bonds for the new securities. The remaining exchanges will be made upon request.

Crosley Radio Stockholders Approve Change in Name

Railroads' Freight Loadings Set New High for 10 Months

Railroads of the United States handled more revenue freight in the week ended Sept. 17 than in any other week in the last ten months, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday. Loadings last week amounted to 660,142 cars, a gain of 91,255 cars, or 16 per cent, over the preceding week, according to the association.

Shipments of all classes of commodities were heavier. A total of 265,132 cars of miscellaneous freight was loaded, which was 32,331 cars more than in the preceding week, which included the Labor day holiday. Movement of less than carload lot merchandise increased 22,349 cars.

Freight loadings last week, however, showed a slightly larger decline from a year ago than in the preceding week. For last week the decline from the corresponding week of 1937 was 19.8 per cent. In the preceding week the decline was 19.7 per cent. Compared with the like 1936 week, loadings last week were off 16.4 per cent, and in the preceding week were off 18.7 per cent.

The car service division of the association reported that a new August record in rail shipments of spring wheat was established by the nation's carriers during August. In the month 41,079,550 bushels were moved into Minneapolis. August receipts at Minneapolis were the largest for any month in fourteen years. The receipts were the third largest in the history of the Minneapolis market, being exceeded only by September and October, 1924.

COURT ASSAILS LABOR BOARD'S TRIAL METHODS

Refuses to Enforce Its Ruling.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The federal Court of Appeals today denied a petition of the National Labor Relations board for enforcement of an order against Union Pacific Stages, Inc. It criticized the labor board for the manner in which its conclusions were reached.

The board had asked the court to force the company, subsidiary of the Union Pacific railroad system, to reemploy two bus drivers. It asserted they had been discriminated against for the purpose of discouraging union membership. The company asserted they and three others had been dismissed because of their behavior.

The court granted an order requiring the company to post a notice that it would cease and desist from union interference.

Relies on "Background."

The court remarked that the labor board relied "to a large extent upon what it terms background" in arriving at its conclusions, and developed "this perspective" in a "novel method." This method, said the court, consisted of "statements made by dissatisfied employés," which were "quoted to support some of the findings of the board, although, in specific instances, this evidence was modified or eliminated by admissions on cross examination."

"On the other hand, testimony of company officials which disputed the charges, even where apparently corroborated, was invariably disregarded wherever there was a conflict in evidence," the court declared. "True, there may have been something in the demeanor or appearance of these witnesses [for the company] which may have influenced the report of the examiner and accounted for this remarkable discrimination, but no apparent reason is manifest from the record, itself."

Upsets Board's Contention.

Commenting on a labor board statement which branded as a violation of the Wagner act a company official's statement that if he had a son he would advise him against belonging to a union, the court said:

"It is difficult to think that congress intended to forbid an employer from expressing a general opinion that an employé would find it more to his advantage not to belong to a union. . . . The right of workers to organize freely must be conceded . . . but the right of the workers to organize is not destroyed by expressions of opinion of the employer or employé such as above."

BUTTER AND EGGS DECLINE AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

Butter and egg futures sagged after early gains on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Egg contracts closed unchanged to ⅛ cent a dozen higher after rising ¼ to ⅜ cent in early trading. Late selling increased the turnover to 5,875,200 dozens, against 3,338,400 dozens on Thursday.

November butter, after advancing ¼ cent a pound, finished unchanged at 25 cents. The paralysis of New England areas as a result of the hurricane caused closer holding of butter and a consequent drop in purchases by the Dairy Products Marketing association. The federally financed DPMA took a total of 523,026 pounds at all markets, the lightest buying of the week. This brought its purchases to more than 102,500,000 pounds since June 16, when buying started.

DEAL IN LOFT, INC., SHARES ASSAILED BY STOCKHOLDER

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 23.—[Special]—The recently exercised option whereby Phoenix Securities corporation acquired 400,000 shares of Loft, Inc., common stock at prices up to $2 a share was attacked today by a Loft stockholder in chancery court.

Robert D. Emmerich of New York asked that Phoenix Securities be required to return to Loft the shares it acquired under terms of the option granted last June. He alleged that the option, which covered purchase of 300,000 shares of Loft at $1.50 a share and 100,000 at $2, was acquired from Loft directors "illegally."

The option was exercised after Chancellor Wolcott last Saturday awarded control of 90 per cent of Pepsi-Cola company to Loft, Inc.

Stock Group to Oppose Postal Telegraph Plan

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Holders of preferred stock of Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation will "resist by every means" the newly announced reorganization plan sponsored jointly by the Lehman and Stewart bondholders' committee. This was announced today by James A. Beha, chairman of the protective committee for preferred stockholders. The reorganization plan makes no provision for the preferred and common stocks.

Viner Asked to Study War Scare Results

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Dr. Jacob Viner, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, has been asked by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. to make a special study of international problems resulting from the European "war scare." This was announced by the treasury department today.

Dr. Jacob Viner.

Dr. Viner has been in Washington for several days conferring with Morgenthau. He served for four years as a special assistant to the secretary. He resigned this position in April of this year, however, after indicating that he disagreed with the administration's spending policy.

Authority on Finance.

The Chicagoan is regarded an authority on international finance and tarif problems. One of the "war scare" effects to be investigated is the shipment in recent weeks of more than $500,000,000 of gold into this country from abroad. Europeans are seeking a haven for their capital.

Dr. Viner was the head of a group of 15 appointed by Secretary Morgenthau in 1934 to overhaul the treasury department and study taxation policies.

Made Chicago Area Survey.

He also was in charge of a survey of credit conditions in the Chicago federal reserve district made for the Treasury in 1934. He conducted various other monetary and credit surveys. During the war he was an expert on the tarif commission and on the United States shipping board.

Born in Canada in 1892, he received a bachelor's degree at McGill university. He came to the United States to teach in 1916. In 1932 he received a doctor of philosophy degree at Harvard.

SLUMP IN STORE SALES FROM YEAR AGO IS LARGER

Department store sales in the week ended Sept. 17 showed a much larger decline from those of the corresponding week of 1937 than in the preceding week. Nationally, sales were 12 per cent lower than in the similar week a year ago, according to a survey of the federal reserve system. In the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district sales were off 19.7 per cent from last year, and in Chicago itself were 18.7 per cent under 1937.

In the preceding week—that ended Sept. 10—sales of department stores throughout the United States were only 7 per cent lower than those of the like 1937 period. They were only 9.6 per cent below 1937 in the 7th federal reserve district. In Chicago sales were off only 11.6 per cent from the corresponding week a year ago.

None of the twelve federal reserve districts of the United States reported a gain in department store sales during the week ended Sept. 17 over the similar week a year ago.

MOTOR OUTPUT EXPANDS; STILL UNDER YEAR AGO

Output of automobiles this week by American and Canadian factories was estimated yesterday at 20,390 units by Ward's Automotive Reports. This compared with 16,100 cars and trucks produced last week and 28,030 units in the corresponding week last year.

The agency said that ten manufacturers are now in production on 1939 models. Inability of some producers to resume operations has reduced field inventories to a vanishing point, Ward's said.

August factory sales of automobiles totaled 90,484, the department of commerce reported yesterday. This compared with July sales of 141,437 units and sales of 394,330 in August, last year.

JUDGE STONE REFUSES TO CHANGE DECREE IN OIL CONSPIRACY CASE

Superior, Wis., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Judge Patrick T. Stone today refused to set aside his order of last July, dismissing charges of gas line price fixing against the Globe Oil and Refining company of Kansas and ten oil company executives.

After a lengthy trial at Madison Judge Stone on July 19 sustained the conviction of 17 of the 47 oil company defendants found guilty by a jury of conspiring to raise and fix gasoline prices. He fined these defendants—twelve companies and five executives—$65,000 and dismissed the charge as to the ten other executives and the Globe company. He granted the remaining defendants—fifteen officials and three firms—a new trial.

The government then moved to have the judge expunge and rescind that part of his ruling that dismissed the eleven defendants. It was this motion that the judge denied today. He cited several cases as precedence for this decision.

"There was no substantial evidence indicating participation in the conspiracy by these defendants," he said.

The new trial has been adjourned.

N. Y. PRICES FALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 23.—Growing apprehension over the European situation brought more nervous selling into the stock market today. Prices of leading issues dropped fractions to three points. Inactive and preferred issues slumped as much as six points in thin markets.

Sales totaled 721,300 shares. In all, 729 issues were traded, with 598 closing lower, 47 higher, and 84 unchanged. Industrial stocks, measured by the Dow-Jones averages, were hardest hit, the index showing a drop of 3.27 to 134.08. The rail average slipped 0.89 and the utility average was down 0.57.

Opening prices were fractions to about 1 point lower, with trading moderate as Well street attempted to judge the trend of events in Europe.

Stocks Close Near Day's Lows.

The outbreak of the selling came on the heels of reports that Chancellor Hitler had notified Prime Minister Chamberlain that German troops would march into Czechoslovakia. Although the news was officially denied, traders were reported to be too jittery to make adjustments in appraising the reports.

Encouraging domestic business news was again overshadowed by international developments.

Motor, copper, steel, and rubber shares were most heavily supplied today. Stocks losing 1 to 2 points included General Motors, United States Rubber, Chrysler, United States Steel, Anaconda, Bethlehem, Youngstown, American Smelting, International Nickel, and Kennecott.

New York Central, off ⅞, was the most active rail stock. Similar declines were registered in .Southern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Railway, Great Northern, and Illinois Central. Santa Fe lost 1½ points. Union Pacific slumped 3¾ points on 600 shares.

Machinery Group Declines.

General Electric was in constant supply in the heavy machinery group. The issue lost nearly two points. Westinghouse, International Harvester, and Allis-Chalmers each slumped around two points. Deere ruled steady in active trading.

Reflecting the six months deficit reported by R. H. Macy, the stock slumped 3⅝ points. Other merchandising issues, notably Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck declined as much as 2 points.

Douglas and Boeing in the aviation group both dropped more than 1 point. Other key stocks slipped fractions. Wright Aero, a ten share unit, lost 5¼ points.

Losses in the chemical group ran to two points, including du Pont, Allied Chemical, and Union Carbide.

In the building stocks, Johns Manville, United States Gypsum, and Holland Furnace lost between 1 to 2 points.

Foreign Markets Lower.

Security markets abroad developed renewed weakness after firming up somewhat earlier in the week when war appeared to have been averted. Industrial shares, transatlantic issues and British bonds weakened in the London market. Foreign bond prices were also quoted at lower prices by London brokers.

Bank of France shares and government obligations led a decline in prices on the Paris bourse. International shares also declined.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Office of the Constructing Quartermaster, Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill. Sealed proposals will be received at this office until 12:00 Noon, Central Standard Time, October 19 1938 and then publicly opened, for the construction of Foundations Only for A. C. Barracks (2200 men) at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Illinois. Plans and Specifications will be furnished upon the receipt of A Certified Check for Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00), made payable to the Treasurer of The United States.

12 RAILS EARN LESS IN AUGUST THAN YEAR AGO

Decline Shows Narrowing Compared with July.

The first twelve railroads to report August earnings showed a decrease of 13.4 per cent from August, 1937, Dow-Jones, financial news service, said yesterday. This compared with a decline of 25.2 per cent for July from the corresponding month last year.

Gross revenues and net operating income of the twelve roads reporting August earnings, with comparisons for the two preceding years, follow [in millions of dollars]:

Gross revenue	$81,638	$90,532	$89,435
Net oper. income..	13,712	15,827	18,811

August gross revenues for the group were 9.8 per cent below August, 1937, and 8.7 per cent under the same month in 1936. Net operating income was 13.4 per cent below August, 1937, and 27.1 per cent under the corresponding month two years ago.

Net Operating Income Lower.

Net operating income of the group in July totaled $10,966,000, against $14,659,000 in July, 1937, a drop of 25.2 per cent. Gross income decreased 12.1 per cent from $89,531,000 to $78,663,000.

Among the first twelve roads reporting for August, the Baltimore and Ohio, Kansas City Southern, and Texas and Pacific showed a smaller net operating income in August than in the preceding month. The Bangor and Aroostook reported an increased net operating deficit.

Rock Island Earns Less.

Net operating income of $219,705 for August, compared with $394,859 in the corresponding month last year, was reported yesterday by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

For the first eight months the road showed net operating income of $213,359, which includes $1,220,000 in cancellation of accruals under the 1935 railroad retirement act. For the similar 1937 period net operating income was $2,877,246. Gross revenue for August aggregated $6,677,536, against $7,114,119 a year ago.

"Expenditures for improvements to road and equipment resulted in substantial economies, which offset to some extent the decrease in gross revenue," E. M. Durham Jr., chief executive officer, said.

RETAIL TRADE VOLUME SLIPS IN LAST WEEK

New York, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—Retail trade this week failed to equal that of the preceding week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. It lacked the prop provided by heavy preschool shopping in preceding weeks and was beset by rainstorms and labor difficulties.

General business sentiment, however, was reported more cheerful. In several trade divisions buying activity was represented as directly reflecting the backlog of requirements developed recently. Commitments withheld during the height of the European crisis were released and once again the more favorable trend in domestic business was allowed to dictate purchasing policies. Industry, according to the credit agency, continued in its advance.

"For all districts retail sales were off 3 to 14 per cent compared with the corresponding 1937 week," the survey said. "Low temperatures in the middle west brought out urgent calls for fall and winter apparel. With larger industrial pay rolls adding to buying power, sales totals jumped ahead of last year in some centers, the average drop for the district remaining at 2 to 9 per cent."

BUSINESS BITS

Charles J. Zimmerman, general agent at Chicago for the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, yesterday was elected vice president of the National Life Underwriters' association at the organization's annual convention in Houston, Tex. Harry T. Wright, also of Chicago, was elected secretary. A Pittsburgh insurance executive, Holger J. Johnson, was elected president. Members of the association said that the selection of Zimmerman as vice president places him in line for the presidency next year.

Charles J. Zimmerman.

Nathaniel Leverone, president of the Automatic Canteen Company of America, last night was elected president of the Merchants and Manufacturers club at the annual meeting in the Merchandist Mart. Other officers chosen were Bertram J. Chan of Kuppenheimer company, who was made vice president; Joseph O. Walsh of Bromley company, secretary, and Stanley Fraser of the Merchandise Mart, treasurer. George W. Young, retiring president, was presented with a scroll by the board of governors for his service to the club.

The sixty-ninth annual dinner of the Western Society of Engineers will be held in the Palmer house next Monday night. Frank W. Lovejoy, sales executive of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, will be the guest speaker.

W. Hynes Pitner has joined the Central Service Corporation of Chicago as a vice president. Pitner, a former president of the Southwestern Natural Gas company, has engaged in corporate reorganizations and financing since 1932. The Central Service corporation manages the Utilities Power and Light corporation under contract.

Crown Zellerbach.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me some information regarding the Crown Zellerbach corporation? What is the nature of the company's business?—D. M. U.

Answer: Crown Zellerbach corporation was a holding company until last year, owning all or most of the stock in a number of paper and pulpwood and affiliated companies. In March, 1937, it merged the assets of its principal subsidiary, the Crown Williamette Paper company, into the parent company, thereby becoming an operating company.

Its products include newsprint, sulphite and kraft wrapping papers, tissue and waxed papers, bags, and paper products such as fibreboard containers and cartons. Timber holdings of the company consist of about 278,000 acres of land owned and 11.255 acres leased. The company's policy has been to purchase most of its pulpwood requirements from others and conserve its own resources.

Most of the company's mills are located in the states of Oregon and Washington. Another plant is located at Carthage, N. Y., and converting plants are located in Texas and California.

Earnings were sharply reduced by the business depression in the early part of this year. Net income for the quarter ended July 31 fell to $970,055, or 14 cents a common share, from $2,507,711, or 82 cents a share in the corresponding 1937 quarter. For the fiscal year ended April 30, 1938, the company reported net income of $6,211,414, or $1.58 a common share after preferred dividends.

Net income in the year ended April 30, 1937, was $5,094,403 and in the preceding year it was $2,919,127. The company operated at a profit throughout the depression, except for the year ended April 30, 1933, when net loss of $1,717,428 was reported.

Funded debt consists of $9,927,500 of Crown Williamette Paper company first mortgage 6 per cent bonds due 1951. They were assumed by Crown Zellerbach when it absorbed the subsidiary company. There are 529,655 shares of no par $5 cumulative convertible preferred stock and 2,261,199 shares of $5 par common stock outstanding.

Regular dividends of $1.25 each quarter are being paid on preferred stock. A total of 62½ cents has been paid so far in 1938 on common stock and a dividend of 12½ cents is payable Oct. 1. Last year common dividends totaled 25 cents a share.
